Lid Clamped On Soaring Easy Credit Purchases

Old 'Regulation W' Given New Teeth, Will Be Revived On September 20

The Government yesterday clamped controls on most consumer instalment credit purchases in amounts between $50 and $5000, effective September 20.

A new Federal Reserve Board regulation requires a one third down payment on automobiles and a 20 per cent down payment on most household appliances including stoves, refrigerators, washers, radios and vacuum cleaners.

A time limit of 15 months is fixed for completing all "easy payment" plans of $1000 or less.

Eighteen months is the deadline for purchases above $1000.

Called Regulation W

The regulation is termed "Regulation W," the name carried by the postwar credit rule which expired last November.

Restoration of credit control was authorized by the Republican anti-inflation act signed Monday by President Truman.

Open accounts are not affected. These are presumed to be paid off currently, usually monthly.

Credit sources in New York commented that the new controls will be felt more in household appliance and furniture sales than in the automobile field. Some noted that low-income consumers would be affected most.

In furniture, one firm's controller said the regulation will about double down payments. An automobile company spokesman said that a car costing $2400, the 18-month payment rule would make payments run about $15 a month higher.

A random check of some consumers here revealed reactions running from indifference to high enthusiasm. The average person polled seemed to think the controls quite lenient.

The new down-payment rules are less strict in several cases than those formerly applied. But the enforcement terms are stronger, because the controls now have legislative backing instead of the emergency wartime authority formerly used.

Limit Set at $5000

The possible criminal penalty for violation is a maximum of $10,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment or both. The regulation is enforceable also by injunction, and by the board's power to suspend license to give credit.

In addition, the Federal Reserve announcement said, the board is considering an amendment which would make automatically invalid installment contracts not conforming. This means a purchaser would not have to make his payments, but the board said it will not issue such a rule without public hearings.

The old Regulation W covered installment contracts only up to $2000. Because of the swift increase of postwar automobile prices, the new limit was set at $5000.

Exempt from credit control are

New York City Says Last Goodby To Babe Ruth

New York, Aug. 19.—New York paid its last respects to Babe Ruth, former New York Yankee slugger, who died Monday.

About 6000 people sat inside St. Patrick's Cathedral for requiem mass, and about 75,000 more waited outside in the rain for the funeral procession to begin. Six thousand more followed to the Gates of Heaven Cemetery at Mount Pleasant, N. Y., 30 miles north of the city in the highlands of the Hudson River, for the committal services.

"The Real Stalin" By Emil Ludwig Starts Sunday

What is Joseph Stalin really like? What kind of man does it take to rule two hundred million lives like a modern Caesar? Emil Ludwig, famous biographer of Napoleon, Bismarck, and Roosevelt, learned the answer through years of observing the Russian dictator at close range, including a dramatic personal interview. Now he brings you a vivid profile of this amazing world figure.

Ludwig dissects Stalin's personality and career in two dramatic Sunday installments. Read "The Real Stalin," Part I, in this Sunday's Post.

CAB Approves Boost

U. S. Airlines to Increase Passenger Fares by 10 Pct.

The Nation's airlines will increase passenger fares in general 10 per cent as a result of an industry conference with the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday.

Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell, jr., of the CAB reported the forthcoming increase as one of the informal decisions of the conference on the industry's financial difficulties.

The rate boost will make the average fare just over 6 cents a mile on most air lines. The present average rate is 5.5 cents.

No date had been fixed for the increase, O'Connell told a reporter, adding the airlines would have to compile new tariff rates and comply with other technical procedure before the increases could become effective.

O'Connell said that in considering steps to relieve the airlines losses, which totaled 16 million dollars in the 12 months ended March 31, the board felt that elimination of free meals aloft is desirable.

"If we had to make a decision today, we would have ruled, at least by a majority, to end free meals," O'Connell said.

As a working figure for discussion purposes during the day, the board adopted 11 million dollars as the annual cost of free meals served to airline passengers.

The informal understanding to increase passenger fares was described as calling for a general 10 per cent addition to the present fare structure of the "big five" and a corresponding increase by other airlines at points where they are in competition with the "big five."

These five are American, United, Trans World, Eastern and Northwest Airlines.

Three of the five—United, Trans World and American—have filed applications for 10 per cent increases to be effective in September.

O'Connell said the board will approve the flat increases proposed by United and Trans World, but will give further consideration to the qualified fare boosts proposed by American.

American seeks permission to increase fares on only some types of aircraft. O'Connell said the board believes the 10 per cent increase should be on the entire fare structure.

The chairman said the board favors the principle of promotional fares, such as that proposed by American, to give a special "family" rate on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, when traffic normally is light.

Sixteen airlines were represented. These are all of the so-called "trunk" carriers.

The forthcoming fare increase will make airline passenger rates

Aide Hopes For Accord On Germany

Spokesman of U. S. Voices Optimism On Outcome of Next Talk With Molotov

Moscow, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—An American spokesman expressed reserved confidence today that an East-West agreement on Germany will be concluded at the next meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

It was believed the conference, seventh since Big Four discussions opened July 31, will take place Friday at the Kremlin.

Authoritative sources indicated the meeting probably would be the last and that results of the talks may be announced.

(The Soviet-licensed German news agency ADN reported in a Moscow dispatch that a "final conference" between Molotov and the Western envoys probably would be held tonight or Friday. It said diplomatic observers in Moscow believed an agreement would be reached "later this week" for a Four-Power foreign ministers' conference on the German question.)

The three Western representatives—United States Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, Britain's Frank Roberts and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau—and their aides conferred 90 minutes today in Smith's office after apparently receiving new instructions from their respective governments.

1 Killed in Berlin Riot As Red Police Stage Raid

By Marguerite Higgins

Berlin, Aug. 19 (NYHT).—A Soviet sector police raid on black marketeers flared into an anti-Communist riot this evening after east sector German police fired into crowds fleeing into the American sector of Berlin, killing one person and wounding at least six others.

The climax of the incident came when three truckloads of armed Soviet policemen took positions on the edge of their sector to face several dozen American military police at about 50 yards distance. However, a conference between the Soviet and American liaison officers soon brought the disbandment of the Soviet and American soldiers.

The crowds, which at one point totaled more than 4000, pelted the Soviet-controlled German police with stones and bricks. Communist flags were burned in the street, and the mob tried to overturn a car suspected of containing Communist Police Chief Paul Markgraf.

The riot centered on Potsdamer Platz, a square which juts into the British and American sectors.

Eyewitnesses said the incident began soon after 6:30 p. m. when German police raided Potsdamer Platz, a black market center. As the black marketeers fled they were protected by a gathering crowd, which included some excitable women who began shouting, "Get out of Berlin, you Communist bandits."

From then on, the fact that black marketeers were involved was forgotten, and the crowd be-

Accuracy Questioned

Hiss Defers His Decision on 'Lie Detector' Until He Gets Further Scientific Opinions

In Letter to Thomas, Witness Points Out FBI Doesn't Use Method

Alger Hiss yesterday told the House Un-American Activities Committee he was seeking further legal and scientific opinion before deciding whether to take a "lie detector" test.

The Committee, in seeking to clear up conflicts in testimony before it by Hiss and by Whittaker Chambers, has suggested that the two men submit to tests by the machine devised and operated by Dr. Leonardo Keeler of Chicago.

Chambers, a senior editor of Time magazine and an admitted former courier for a Communist espionage ring, has agreed to undergo the 'lie detector' test.

Hiss, a former director of the Office of Special Political Affairs of the State Department and currently president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, had expected to give a yes or no answer yesterday to the question of whether he would take the test, but his letter to Representative J. Parnell Thomas, committee chairman, explained that he hasn't enough information yet about the reliability of the "detector."

The text of Hiss' letter:

"In the course of my testimony in executive session the day before yesterday (Monday) before the subcommittee at which you presided, I was asked to reply to the committee by today whether I would be willing to submit to a 'lie detector' test to be administered by a doctor, Lonardo Keeler of Chicago. I was informed that Dr Keeler has what is known as a polygraph machine and that in the committee's opinion he is the only individual interested in 'lie detector' machines whose methods have had 'broad acceptance'.

"Mr. Nixon said he had made a study of the general subject in the past two months and has confidence in Dr. Keeler's machine as a device which he thought might be helpful in the circumstances. I also was informed that Mr. Chambers is willing to submit to Dr. Keeler's methods of procedure.

"As I told the subcommittee Monday when this question was raised with me, two newspapermen in the course of last week had informed me that the committee was giving consideration to making such a suggestion to me. As a result of these conversations, I had made some cursory and informal inquiries into the subject. You will recall that I told the subcommittee Monday that my inquiries had not been reassuring.

Rep. Nixon Challenges Truman to Allow FBI To Give Red Evidence

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities yesterday challenged President Truman to allow the Federal Bureau of Investigation to come forward with its evidence of Communist spying and infiltration in the Government.

His call for full FBI disclosure of facts within the Bureau's possession was made after President Truman told a press conference the House Committee hearings infringed upon the Bill of Rights.

"It is perfectly obvious and generally known," retorted Nixon "that the FBI has a mass of evidence on the Alger Hiss and other cases which the FBI also must feel the public is entitled to and which it is most necessary for the people to know if the welfare and security of this country is to be protected.

"The President is wilfully obstructing an investigation which is absolutely essential to the security of each and every person in this country."

Meanwhile the House Committee went ahead with plans for a hearing behind closed doors today

Truman Hits Dewey Stand On Italian Colonies

Holds Issue Rests Entirely With Big 4; Implies Governor Is Playing Politics

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey clashed for the first time in the 1948 campaign yesterday. The issue was Italy's colonies in Africa.

Mr. Truman, at a White House news conference in the morning, rebuked Governor Dewey for advocating that the colonies be returned to Italy under a United Nations trusteeship.

He said it was a problem for the Big Four and the United Nations and could not very well be handled politically in the United States. The implication was that his Republican rival for the presidency was playing politics with foreign policy and angling for the Italian-American vote.

Dewey Strikes Back

Governor Dewey struck back late yesterday. Through his secretary, Paul Lockwood, he said he felt a "solemn obligation" to lay his views on world affairs before the American people and to do it "fully and frankly."

It was the first time since he and Dewey were nominated at Philadelphia by their respective parties that Mr. Truman had said anything critical of his GOP adversary. Earlier in yesterday's news conference, a reporter asked the Chief Executive what he thought of Dewey personally. Mr. Truman said that he liked him—that he had seen him on several occasions and that their meetings were friendly.

Governor Dewey's controversial statement was made Tuesday before a delegation of Americans of Italian extraction. He said he favored placing Libya, Somaliland and Eritrea under Italian control, with the U. N. acting as trustee.

State Officials Upset

State Department officials, though refusing to talk for the record, were much upset by Dewey's statement and were fearful that it might endanger the bipartisan foreign policy.

When President Truman was asked to comment on Dewey's statement, he made these points: (1) That under the Italian peace treaty, the question of the African colonies is being considered by the United States, Russia, Britain and France; (2) that if no agreement is reached by the Big Four, the matter goes to the Untied Nations Assembly, which meets soon in Paris.

Summing up, Mr. Truman said it was a problem for the four powers and the United Nations. He then declared it cannot very well be handled politically in the United States.

Dewey Statement

Governor Dewey issued his statement in Aibany through Lockwood soon after he returned from Babe Ruth's funeral. It said:

"As a founder of this bipartisan foreign policy listing the creation of the United Nations above partisan discussion, Governor Dewey has consistently sought a united national front in foreign affairs.

"He deeply believes, however, that this should not rest on secret understandings, but rather on the informed judgment of the American people. In his opinion, this puts upon him a solemn obligation to lay fully and frankly before the American people his views on world affairs and the steps he considers necessary in the interests of the United States and the peace of the world, and he will do so."

New High Hit By Hogs; Corn At 1948 Low

First Canada Cattle Reach U. S.; Boycott On Meat Ineffectual

New York, Aug. 19 (AP).—Pork on the hoof hogged the high cost of living news today. Hogs brought record high prices in Kansas City, Denver, Oklahoma City and Baltimore.

Housewifely attempts to lower prices by boycotting butcher shops in some parts of the Nation apparently had little deterring effect on the chief hog markets.

Cattle prices were uneven, however, in Chicago.

Canadian cattle arrived in South St. Paul, Minn., for the first time in six years, as the Dominion lifted its export ban, but none was sold immediately.

Cash corn prices dropped to the year's lows in Chicago. Wheat and oats futures were mixed, but spot wheat was higher.

Butter climbed ½-cent to 1-cent a pound in the New York wholesale market, reversing three days of falling prices. In Chicago, butter prices were firm to higher.

Live hogs hit $31.85 a hundredweight in Chicago, $32 in Baltimore, and $31.75 in Kansas City. Traders described the record high prices as going to especially fine specimens brought in by farmers.

Biggest Grain Feed Stock Is Prospect for Nation

Minneapolis, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Prospects of a record-breaking corn crop and the second largest wheat harvest in history promise the biggest feed supply for animals ever recorded in the Nation, the Cargill Crop Report said today.

With livestock population at a 10-year low, the prospect of a 3,506,000,000 bushel crop will provide full cribs from which to fatten hogs, despite small carryover stocks from last year. Pasture and range conditions also are excellent for grass-fed cattle, the report said.

The Cargill Grain Co. said the weather was pulling one of its rare tricks of favoring practically all crops at the same time.

Corn, near harvesting in Texas, had sufficient rain to fill out well and stay about two weeks ahead of last year's schedule. Cool mid-summer weather, on the other hand, retarded wheat sufficiently to fill out better than expected.

FCC to Limit Radio Control, Ownership

Permissible Holding Will Be 7 Stations Under New Ruling

By The Associated Press

The Federal Communications Commission said yesterday it proposes to limit common ownership or control by one person or corporation to not more than seven standard broadcast stations.

The commission said also it will forbid any person or corporation from serving as a stockholder, officer or director of more than 14 standard stations.

The actions were announced as "a further step to prevent concentration of control of standard broadcast facilities."

Under present rules, a person or corporation may own or control as many standard stations across the country as he is able to obtain authority for from the commission.

Present rules, however, limit a person or corporation to the ownership or control of one standard, one FM and one television outlet in the same community. They also provide that the same person or group may not have more than six FM stations or more than five television stations throughout the country as a whole.

The date for the new rules to become effective has not been fixed. The commission said, however, that their application to existing ownership situations will not be invoked earlier than January 1, 1953. The announcement said this will "permit the orderly disposition of interests by those affected.

Chapter in Bernstein Case

Convicted Murderers Granted Stay on Eve of Execution Day

The executions of convicted murderers Reginald J. Wheeler, 28, and Jesse James Patton, 23, were postponed yesterday until November 19.

The stay was granted by Justice Richmond B. Keech of District Court. Patton and Wheeler were scheduled to die between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. today in the electric chair at District Jail.

The two defendants took the news of their added lease on life calmly. They snickered when their attorneys asked whether they had any objection to the new death date.

Patton and Wheeler were convicted by jury of fatally shooting Maurice L. Bernstein, 52, in a holdup of his drugstore at 1786 Florida ave. nw. on June 5, 1946. Patton was the lookout. Wheeler was the triggerman.

The stay was necessitated because of appeals filed Wednesday from a denial in District Court of habeas corpus writs for the two men. Under court orders, they cannot be executed until appeals from the denial are disposed of.

The delay was suggested by Defense Attorneys James J. Laughlin and Wesley S. Williams. Assistant United States Attorney John D. Lane said that under the circumstances the Government could not object.

The defense lawyers told Justice Keech that only one justice in the United States Court of Appeals is now in Washington. The appeal must be heard by three justices.

The defendants have filed several motions, including one asking for a special court of six justices to be chosen from other jurisdictions and to be appointed by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson of the United States Supreme Court.

The exact point the lawyers want this special court to decide is this:

After Patton and Wheeler were convicted, an appeal was taken to the United States Court of Appeals here. Three jurists, not including the chief justice, heard the appeal. The lawyers insist that the chief justice must sit in all appeals.

Tugwell May Bolt Wallace For Truman

Early Roosevelt Aide Said to Feel Party Is Communist-Ruled

Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, one of the original Roosevelt brain-trusters of 1932-33, is threatening to desert Henry A. Wallace and vote for President Truman in November.

His grievance with Wallace's Progressive Party is that it is completely dominated by Communists.

Tugwell, interviewed over the telephone in Wilson, N. Y., yesterday, declined to make any public statement. It was ascertained, however, that he is very uneasy about his political bedfellows and is pondering the question of a break with them.

Tugwell, the only really well-known New Dealer in Wallace's camp, was chairman of the platform committee at the Progressive Party's convention at Philadelphia. The dominant figure in that committee, however, was Lee Pressman, who has been described as a Communist before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Pressman, who had the title of secretary of the committee, was regarded as the real author of the platform.

The cleavage that developed between Tugwell and the others on the platform committee now has been brought into the open.

Tugwell now talks much differently from the way he did while the Progressive Party was meeting in Philadelphia. On one occasion, he vehemently defended the party against a charge that it had a Red label.

James Loeb, jr., national secretary of the Americans for Democratic Action, appeared before Tugwell's platform committee and charg that Wallace's organization was a Communist-dominated instrument of Soviet policy.

Teacher Given Oxygen Again After 4 Hours

New York, Aug. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina was returned to an oxygen tent tonight after a four-hour period without artificial aid to her breathing. However, Roosevelt Hospital said her condition was "very much improved."

She first was placed in the tent yesterday, when she had difficulty with her breathing. She also was given a blood transfusion last night.

Tonight's hospital bulletin said: "Oxygen resumed at 6 p. m. Condition very much improved. Patient more alert. Temperature down to 101.8. Pulse down to 70. Respiration 40. Resting quietly and taking nourishment much better."

Still Critical

Her condition still was listed as critical.

Mrs. Kosenkina, former chemistry teacher for children of Soviet consular attaches here, suffered multiple fractures and other injuries in a leap from a third-floor consulate window last week.

Meanwhile, Soviet Consul General Jacob M. Lomakin told reporters he had selected a physician to confer with hospital authorities about Mrs. Kosenkin's case.

He would not identify the doctor or say when he would call.

Mrs. Kosenkina's attending physician invited Lomakin yesterday to send his own doctor or doctors for consultation. It was emphasized, however, that the Russian-selected physician could take no part in the care and treatment of Mrs. Kosenkina.

New York police quoted Mrs. Kosenkina as saying the Soviets held her prisoner in the consulate and that she jumped from the window because "I had to get out." The Russians have denied holding her against her will.

Expresses Disappointment

Tonight Dr. Grant Pennoyer, Mrs. Kosenkina's physician, expressed disappointment that Lomakin had not sent a doctor to see him.

The doctor's remarks were addressed to Miss Zena Ivanora, consulate secretary, and Miss Marie Kharlamova, consulate employe, who came to the hospital again to try to see Mrs. Kosenkina. They had appeared last night with flowers, but took the letter with them.

They brought the letter back to-

Russians Get Rebuff on Kidnap Charge

Main Points in All Protests on Teachers Rejected by Marshall

Secretary of State George C. Marshall last night rejected outright all the main points of Soviet protests that the United States Government had connived in the "kidnaping" of three runaway Russian school teachers.

The complaints were filed last week by Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin, and Jacob Lomakin, Soviet consul-general in New York.

Marshall's reply, delivered at 6:10 p. m., was not made public immediately. But it was said beforehand that it would be a sharp slap-down of the protests, and it probably called the Russian envoys to book for making false accusations against this Government.

The note was delivered by John B. Henderson, a State Department chauffeur.

Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said the text would be made public at 10 a. m. today.

The note, he added, replies to only three of the four protests. He explained that the fourth protest, regarding a writ of habeas corpus issued against Lomakin in New York, presumably does not require a reply.

Text of McDermott's statement:

"At 6:10 p. m. there was delivered to the embassy of the USSR a note of the Department of State in reply to notes of August 9 and 14 of the embassy of the USSR and to the note which Mr. Molotov handed to Ambassador Smith in Moscow on the night of August 11 with reference to Mrs. Oksana S. Kosenkina and to Mikhail I. Samarine, his wife and three children.

"The Department of State will release the text of all the notes (including the three Soviet notes) for

GM Labor Relations

Flexible Pact Gears Wages To HCL on Quarterly Basis

This is the first of three daily articles on the subject.

By Agnes E. Meyer

The sharp differences of opinion concerning the new General Motors contract with the UAW-CIO made it advisable to go to Detroit and inquire from the two parties to this novel wage agreement how and why it had come about.

The main features of the contract are these: On May 29 a two-year agreement was signed for wage increases of 11 cents per hour, of which 8 cents represented the actual lag in wages in comparison with the rise in commodity prices since 1940, and 3 cents an annual improvement of the worker's standard of living. Thus another 3 cents increase becomes due automatically on June 1 of next year.

The cost-of-living rise was based on the "Consumers' Price Index" of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. What is novel about the contract is that General Motors has agreed to meet the cost-of-living rise or fall as published by this bureau during the next two years or, if the contract is continued, during the life of the contract. The cost of living will be reexamined quarterly. Continuance of this part of the contract depends upon the availability of the official monthly statements by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in its present form.

Though there is no ceiling the amount wages can rise to meet the figures of the index, they cannot be adjusted downward more than 5 cents an hour, or below the increase of straight-time base pay. Thus, if an immediate decline in the cost of living occurs, the employes will at once enjoy a better standard of living. When the contract was made, the 8 cents put them even with the cost of living, and the 3 cents put them slightly above it.

This is what Walter Reuther, UAW head, had to say about the contract:

"The UAW-CIO has traditionally opposed escalator clauses geared to the cost of living and we were quite justified in that opposition. But two all-important provisions of the General Motors' agreement give us protection against the usual dangers of escalator clauses and make this one acceptable.

"The first is the provision which adds 6 cents an hour to the base rate and establishes a

Answers Bernadotte Appeal

U. N. Security Council Warns Jews, Arabs to Observe Truce

Lake Success, Aug. 19 (NYHT).—In probably its last meeting before transferring temporarily to Paris, the United Nations Security Council approved today a resolution warning both Jews and Arabs in Palestine to keep strict observance of the military truce now allegedly prevailing in the Holy Land.

The action was taken in response to an urgent cable from Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. Palestine mediator, who reported that in worsening sporadic fighting in Jerusalem, both sides were equally to blame and were "deliberately" ignoring U. N. authority.

Voting on today's five-point resolution—introduced jointly by the United States, Britain, Canada and France—was piecemeal. Syria abstained throughout. Russia and the Ukraine abstained on three points and Colombia on one.

The final action, however, dispatched the following warning to Israel, the Palestinian Arabs and the Arab states:

"Both sides are responsible for their regular and irregular military forces and must see to it that none of these violate the truce; both sides must swiftly try and punish any of their people found guilty of truce violation; neither side may violate the truce on the ground of reprisal against the other, and neither side may gain military or political advantage through truce violation."

Russia and the Ukraine criticized the Bernadotte report to the Security Council as a confession of Bernadotte's failure in his truce mission. Neither today's resolution, nor dozens of other such resolutions in the future, ever will solve the Palestine problem, they contended.

The Security Council heard bitter words from Egypt over the fact that the Council seemed to have a deaf ear for pleas to do something about the plight of several hundred thousand Arab refugees made homeless by the Palestine war.

The reason for this "apathetic" attitude on the part of the Council and the whole U. N., Egypt charged, was that the U. N. itself caused the refugee problem by in-

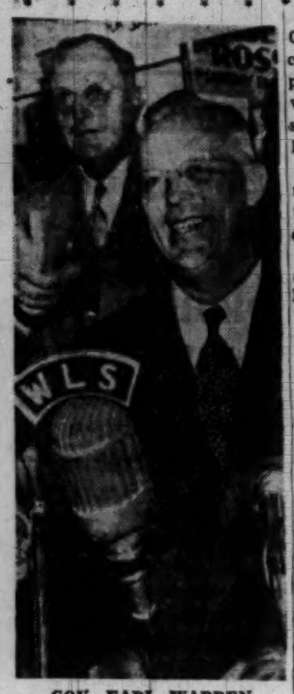
Warren Sees GOP Ending U.S. Disunity



GOV. EARL WARREN
No "right splinters"

Springfield, Ill., Aug 19 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren of California declared today that the Republican party and its Dewey-Warren ticket, without "leftist or extreme right splinters," is the Nation's only hope "to put an end to disunity."

The GOP's Vice President nominee spoke before 15,000 persons at the Illinois State Fair's Republican day rally.

He urged that New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey be elected President to restore to the Nation "the political philosophy of faith and freedom," and lead the people "out of the shadows of uncertainty and doubt."

He shared the speaking program at the fairgrounds grandstand with Gov. Dwight H. Green and Senator C. Wayland Brooks, Illinois Republicans seeking reelection.

The crowd total, estimated by fair officials, was nearly twice that which turned out yesterday to hear Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

It was Warren's first major campaign appearance outside California since his nomination. He told newsmen it would be a "nonpolitical" speech.

He said "the world is sick and there is great danger of sickness here in America, strong though we are today. But if the American people are united, there is no problem that we cannot solve."

In the G.O.P., he said, "there is no leftist element to splinter off. There is no extreme right to splinter off in the opposite direction. There is no dissatisfaction in our center. We are a united party, and no other party in America can honestly make that claim today."

Halleck Hits Truman After Dewey Talk

New York, Aug. 19 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, today discussed campaign plans with Representative Charles Halleck of Indiana, House GOP leader, and Representative Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Halleck later told a news conference that:

"By and large the Republicans in Congress are perfectly willing to fight the issue out with Mr. Truman on the record of the Eightieth Congress."

The President has leveled sharp criticism at the GOP-controlled Congress, calling it the "second worst" in history and a "do-nothing" body.

He has been particularly critical of the lawmakers because they refused to enact his full anti-inflation program.

On that matter, Halleck said:

"I don't really think they (the Administration) want lower prices. They apparently want to claim all the credit for high prices and wages in the case of producers and take none of the blame for high prices in the case of consumers.

"I think the people are smarter than that. I don't think they are that dumb."

Reception Set For 112 Teachers From Britain

More than a hundred British teachers will arrive in Washington over the weekend for official United States and British receptions before they begin a year as exchange instructors in all parts of the country.

The teachers, 112 of them, are scheduled to arrive in New York in two groups, and will come to Washington by train, arriving on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Sunday night they will be received by Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University.

On Monday, they will be welcomed by representatives of the British and American governments, and will begin a series of orientation meetings at American University.

A similar number of American teachers left New York last month for the United Kingdom, where they will teach this year.

GOP Opens Headquarters, Sights Victory

Assurances of success, coupled with caution against overconfidence, featured addresses at the formal opening of the 1948 District Republican campaign headquarters yesterday.

Herbert Brownell, jr., Dewey-Warren campaign manager, was guest of honor. Already in operation, the headquarters are at 1430 K st. nw.

"Never in our generation has a presidential team met with the spontaneous national enthusiasm that has greeted Dewey and Warren," Brownell said.

Observing that the Republican Absentee Voters' Bureau is located in the building, Brownell said that, although District residents were voteless, financial contributions and the bureau enabled them to play "an important part in the election."

Joseph McGarraghy, chairman of the District Campaign Committee, said the new headquarters "will be the nerve center of activities for the next two months."

McGarraghy said arrangements for a victory celebration had already been made at the Statler.

Lewis T. Breuninger, president of the District Dewey-Warren Club, addressing "Fellow Republicans and Democrats who have seen the light," said "it is sort of nice to be on the winning team."

He warned against overconfidence, however, and urged that contributions to the club be generous. He said the club is the sole money-raising organization.

Speakers were introduced by James C. Wilkes, State committee chairman.

About 600 persons attended.

Ike Quit Race After GOP Chose Slate

New York, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower might have stepped into the political ring if the Republicans had nominated a nationalist-isolationist ticket, Columnist Marquis Childs reported today.

Childs, a good friend of the general, also revealed in an article in Collier's weekly that Eisenhower's personal choice for the GOP presidential ticket was his friend, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, with Harold E. Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, as a running mate. "But the Dewey-Warren slate seemed adequate to him," Childs wrote.

"What he would have done in the event of victory by the nationalist-isolationist wing (of the GOP) the general had not clearly determined," the article said. "But he knew that such a triumph would have made it impossible for him to stand aside from the political scene . . . then he would not be able to take a detached and impartial view of the political scene. The future not merely of his own country but of western Europe and of the whole concept of a free society would be threatened."

Childs said that Eisenhower had "contemplated" issuing a statement like this in the event of victory by the GOP nationalist-isolationist forces:

"I will join with anyone who stands for the principles of international cooperation I believe in and who will oppose those who seem determined to take our country back to isolation and unpreparedness."

Such a statement, the article declared, "issued in the crucial period between the two conventions probably would have meant the nomination of Eisenhower by the Democrats."

The many booms for Eisenhower made the general "definitely unhappy," the article said, because they seemed to him to be a sign of political weakness and atrophy.

The Gallup Poll

Thurmond Favored by 14% In Thirteen Southern States

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 19.—At the start of the campaign the "Dixiecrat" movement has the support of about one voter in seven below the Mason-Dixon line.

In the first survey to be conducted on the popularity of Gov. J. Strom Thurmond since his nomination for President by the States' Rights Party, Governor Thurmond polls 14 per cent throughout the 13 Southern States as a group.

In terms of popular votes he is topped by both President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the South, but the popular vote percentage does not fully indicate the extent of the Thurmond threat to the Democratic Party. Dixiecrat spokesmen claim that 32 electoral votes are already "in the bag" for the States' Rights ticket. These 32 consist of Alabama 11, Mississippi 9, South Carolina 8 and Florida 4 of the State's 8 votes. In those States, the Dixiecrats claim, the Democratic candidates for presidential electors already have pledged themselves to vote against President Truman.

Those 32 electoral votes are votes which the Democrats have always in the past counted on as "absolutely sure" for them. To offset their loss this year President Truman would have to take virtually all the New England States which have a total of 40 electoral votes.

Throughout the South interviewers for the Institute put the following question to Southern voters in a survey begun directly after the formation of the States' Rights Party:

If the presidential election were being held today how would you vote—for Dewey, for Truman, for Wallace or for Thurmond?

The results among voters who said they plan to vote in November were:

SOUTHERN VOTERS

Truman	41%
Dewey	34
Thurmond	14
Wallace	2
No opinion	9

With the no opinion vote elimi-nated the results are Truman 46 per cent, Dewey 37 per cent, Thurmond 15 per cent and Wallace 2 per cent.

The 13 Southern States include South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Thurmond sentiment runs strongest in the first eight, comprising the so-called "Deep South."

While the new party plans to make a strong effort to get on the ballot in all Southern States, it remains to be seen how successful this effort will be. Today's poll figures indicate the extent of Thurmond's popular following at the present time assuming he were on the ballot in all States in the South.

Henry A. Wallace's figure of 2 per cent in the South compares with a national Wallace percentage of 5 per cent in the last Institute poll reported August 1. Mr. Wallace plans to invade the South for an intensive campaign tour in early September. Future surveys will indicate whether his campaign efforts increase his popularity below the Mason-Dixon Line.

The Dewey figure for the South—37 per cent among those with opinions—is slightly higher than the percentage he polled in the South in 1944 presidential election when he ran against the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. That year Dewey polled 31 per cent of the major party vote in the South.

President Truman's figure of 46 per cent compares with the Roosevelt figure of 69 per cent in the 1944 election. President Truman's percentage in the South is roughly comparable to the 1928 election when Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate, polled 48 per cent. The low Democratic figure this year, however, is not due so much to increased Republican strength as to the split of the Democratic vote between Truman and Thurmond.

Truman Raps Dewey on Italy

Democratic National Committee, issued this statement:

"This problem (the Italian colonies) is being handled at the highest international diplomatic levels and discussions at the moment are in a very delicate stage. I feel it has no place in partisan politics, and I do not desire to enter into any controversy in connection with it."

The vote of Americans of Italian blood is highly important in New York, and politicians work hard to get it.

Thus, New York's Democratic Mayor, William O'Dwyer, was not at all embarrassed yesterday when he backed up Governor Dewey in asking that Italy's colonies be restored to her under a U. N. trusteeship.

O'Dwyer made his views known in a letter to Generoso Pope, publisher of the Italian language daily, "Il Progresso." He wrote:

"As a result of wartime experience with the economic problems of the Italian people, it is my firm belief that the colonies of Somaliland, Eritrea and Libya, now under British occupation, should be returned to Italian control under a U. N. trusteeship. Italy is one of the key spots of Europe. It has suffered the plunder of fascism and the ruin of war. It must attain a sound recovery. In order to complete that recovery, Italy should be free to develop a sound commerce with these African territories.

CIO Attacks Halls Ruling As Unsound

The CIO, smarting under the first major crackdown on union behavior by the National Labor Relations Board, accused the board yesterday of "unseemly haste" and a violation of the Constitution.

Last night the five-man board, headed by Paul M. Herzog, ruling unanimously that hiring halls operated on the Great Lakes by the CIO National Maritime Union are illegal under the Taft-Hartley law.

In so doing, the Board created several legal precedents that extend far beyond the shipping industry.

Arthur Goldberg, the CIO's general counsel, said that the ruling was "entirely unsound," that he looked forward to a reversal by the courts, and that "surely the law cannot prohibit this salutary practice which has contributed to the stability of the maritime industry."

President Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union (CIO) said the ruling "can wreck the whole maritime industry."

He refused to answer directly when asked if the union would challenge the finding or force the board to go into court in an effort to make it stick.

Meantime a Taft-Hartley fact-finding board reported to President Truman that a strike of East Coast longshoremen would imperil the national health and safety. The White House will release the report today and at the same time the President probably will ask the Justice Department to get an injunction to delay the walkout.

'Experienced no Trouble,' Richmond Tells Norfolk

Richmond, Va., Aug. 19 (AP).—Safety Director Calvin H. Dalby of Norfolk was in Richmond yesterday to confer with Richmond Director of Public Safety Richard R. Foster about enforcement of the State's segregation laws at the Wallace-for-President meeting late this month in Norfolk.

Dalby sought advice and information here in June.

"I told Mr. Dalby the convention was held at the WRVA Theater and that we insisted that the Negroes sit in other designated sections and that whites sit in other designated sections" as provided by law, Foster said. "I also told him that we experienced no trouble."

1300 Leave Jobs In Wage Protest

Chicago, Aug. 19 (AP).—Thirteen hundred members of the CIO Association of Communication Equipment Workers left their jobs today in what the union termed a protest of a wage offer by the Western Electric Co.

ACEW and Western Electric officers have been negotiating here since Monday to avert a Nation-wide walkout. The walkouts here were in seven Illinois Bell Telephone Co. exchanges.

Appeal Fails To End Tie-up In Atom Plant

Los Alamos, N. Mex., Aug. 19 (AP). There was no immediate break in a work stoppage at the Los Alamos atomic project today, despite a troubled back-to-work appeal from the Atomic Energy Commission.

More than 3000 construction and maintenance workers remained off the job for a second day. Their walkout—leaders called it a "vacation," not a strike—protested a contractor's hiring of nonunion labor.

A round of conferences, one on the heels of another, indicated serious efforts to resolve the dispute.

They came after a sober warning early in the day from Sumner Pike, acting AEC chairman, in Washington. He said:

"This walkout situation cannot continue for long without causing serious damage to the Nation's atomic weapons program."

Pike directed his appeal to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Green was reported on his way back to Washington from a speaking tour and not expected to receive the message before tomorrow.

A 40-minute conference of AEC representatives with a 14-man union delegation broke up late in the day without comment from either group.

The meeting brought the first formal appearance of union officials in the dispute. Previously, spokesmen for the workers maintained the stoppage was on an individual basis and had no union status.

Race Issue in Wallace Visit

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 19 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace's appearance in Norfolk August 29 promises to bring a showdown on the racial segregation issue between the Progressive Party and law-enforcement officials.

"The law on the Virginia statute books is very plain," City Manager C. A. Harrell said today. He added: "I have no further statement to make at the present time."

"The meeting at which Mr. Wallace will speak will be a private meeting, by invitation only, and as such is not subject" to the State's segregation laws, said Sanford Berlin, Progressive Party chairman in Norfolk.

The meeting, at which the Progressive Party's presidential nominee will launch a speaking tour of several Southern States, will be held in the Center Theater in the municipally owned and operated city auditorium.

Berlin said that "as a matter of principle, the Progressive Party has not segregated one American from another, in any of its public or private meetings. We do not intend to change that policy when Mr. Wallace appears here August 29."

"We will comply with the law by making the meeting a private one," Berlin said, "although our attorney here has advised us the State's segregation law is unconstitutional because it violates the section of the Constitution providing for freedom of assembly."

CIO Backs Truman By Elimination

Top leaders of the CIO came close to indorsing President Truman for reelection yesterday by condemning the Republicans, the Dixiecrats, and Henry Wallace's Progressive Party.

They left the final decision on an indorsement to the 51-member CIO executive board which will meet here August 30.

That board is expected to plump either for Truman or nobody. There was a possibility that the CIO would not make any formal indorsement for President but would concentrate instead on the congressional race.

A statement on the political and congressional situation was issued by CIO President Philip Murray on behalf of the nine vice presidents who met yesterday.

The vice presidents approved the statement by an 8-1 vote. The dissenter was Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the United Electrical Workers, who is a Wallace man.

Fitzgerald changed his mind about raising the question of recent migrations of CIO members from left wing unions to right wing unions. He has been protesting that the auto workers headed by Walter Reuther have been "raiding" the electrical workers.

When asked why he kept quiet about it in yesterday's meeting, he replied, "Reuther wasn't there."

G. M. Wages Geared to HCL

floor below which hourly wages cannot be reduced, regardless of fluctuations in the cost of living. The second is the aforementioned annual improvement factor which increases living standards by adding another 3 cents to the base rate.

To Fight for Further Raises

"Thus the General Motors' workers are not chained to the same standard of living. They are protected against increased living costs and at the same time make progress with respect to living standards. From now on our fight will be to increase and accelerate the extent of that progress."

The last sentence in Reuther's statement reflects a difference between the union and the corporation in the computation of the rise in living costs, the improvement factor and in the operation of the formula itself. The union economists maintain that the whole wage-price-profit equation is still out of joint. This is the point the union will argue in 1950.

This fluctuating wage agreement saves General Motors and the UAW union from an embarrassing need to reduce wages with which any company will be confronted if its base pay has temporarily been put so high that it cannot meet competition when our economy becomes more normal. Reducing wages is, indeed, almost impossible in this era of strong unions. Therefore, this type of settlement is applicable only to automobile industries that have not already made a rigid contract on wage increases to meet the temporary high cost of living.

Increased Stability Hoped

Although the philosophy of the contract is applicable in many industrial situations the actual figures have no general applicability. General Motors' management is proud of having broken the dead routine of base wage increases which do not have the flexibility needed in a fluctuating economy. It also hopes that this flexibility will make large-scale dismissal of employes unnecessary and therefore stabilize employment. It is definitely hopeful that the contract will help to stabilize community life in cities like Flint, which depend wholly on General Motors.

Reuther points out that the guiding principles of the settlement, the need to protect the workers' purchasing power and the workers' right to benefit from the growing efficiency of our productive machine, were cardinal planks in the union platform for many years. He concedes that in view of the stubborn attitude of the rest of American industry up to the time of the contract, the corporation made a contribution to the American economy by working out the contract formula. Since the union is still dissatisfied with the increases that were conceded, Reuther also argues that the larger share of credit for the achievement of an agreement must go to the union leaders.

Reuther Compliments Workers

On this point he said:

"If we are to win the fight for political freedom and economic security for all people everywhere, America must assume world leadership and we can't do that with a crippled economic machine.

"In both the Chrysler and General Motors cases the arithmetic justified a far larger wage increase than either corporation would agree to. But it is to the credit of the General Motors and Chrysler workers that they felt they owed it to the rest of the UAW-CIO members and to the Nation to come to an agreement and break the log-jam created by the conspiracy among industry die-hard managements. That was their victory and it was a great victory not just for themselves but for the whole American people."

The immediate effect of the contract upon the workers and their families is certainly encouraging. One woman whose veteran husband had sunk all his war bonds in the purchase of a little house, said: "You don't know what it means to be sure that we can pay off the rest of our installments. It means we're sure of a home. If the strike had come, we'd have lost it. We didn't want to strike anyway and the Buick people even voted against it. This two-year settlement takes a terrible lot of worry off the women's minds. The bills for food and clothing were going up and up. Now we can pay them and feel that no matter what happens to prices, we'll get an increase to meet it."

This lifting of worry off the workers' minds as to their place in the economy has far-reaching psychological effects. The genuine happiness of the workers is a real test of the human values involved in this flexible, two-year agreement. The constructive human values involved in any radical departure from the customary are the best measures of the forces that are molding our new society. The new contract increases the total wage of the General Motors' workers about 75 million dollars a year, but it is possible that the psychological impact of the contract, the peace of mind it gives the worker and his family, the promise of security for two years come what may, could augment per capita production beyond the additional cost.

It is this psychological element which seems to be ignored by the executives who condemn the contract as inflationary. To this group the General Motors' executives reply that the flexible terms of the contract may well serve to check rather than accelerate inflation. But, on the other hand, if the cost of living rises, Charles E. Wilson, General Motors president, is convinced that its harmful effects should be shared by the corporation and not thrown wholly upon its employes.

"I realize that the terms of our settlement with the unions have not met with immediate unanimous approval," said Mr. Wilson, "perhaps in part because they are not completely understood. I am sure that they have not unfairly prejudiced the collective bargaining in other companies and industries. If the formula as well as the non-economic provisions are understood, it will be found that perhaps some real progress has been made in establishing principles. Each corporation, each union and each industry can apply if they wish these principles to their own particular set of facts and conditions. The principles should not embarrass anyone."

The basic purposes of the contract are fourfold:

1. To reestablish the buying power of an hour of work.
2. To protect the buying power of an hour of work.
3. To improve the buying power of an hour of work.
4. To stabilize relations between management and labor over a substantial period of time.

Labor Relations Improved

General Motors is convinced that stability of the economic structure is the necessary foundation for future progress. The first three objectives of the new contract are the best thought of these astute men, for achieving stability and progress for the large segment of our society represented by their 375,000 employes and their families.

Will the contract also achieve the fourth very important aim, the improvement of General Motors' labor relations? In spite of some union criticism, a real transformation for the better has already taken place. As Mr. Wilson said: "These agreements could only have been reached in an atmosphere of mutual confidence. Ultimately the more important result of the settlement was the development of a better understanding of the rights and responsibilities of both parties. The cooperation of the employes of a corporation is a fundamental requirement of a successful business."

That some of the old tensions can still be felt as one crosses the street that divides General Motors' headquarters from those of the UAW-CIO is undeniable. If the improvement of labor relations depended wholly upon the terms of this contract, the situation would not be so hopeful. For ultimately labor relations are just as dependent upon the handling of the workers by their foremen and other superiors as upon wages, however well protected against living costs.

Before and during the war, the strikes occurring in General Motors revealed to the country that however efficient its production record might be, its labor relations left much to be desired. The desire to get closer to its workers, a growing realization of the strength of the union and of changes in the postwar industrial climate, led General Motors for the past year and a half to place its chief emphasis on the improvement of its employe relationships.

Feels Social Obligation

It is precisely in this area of human relationships that General Motors has two long-established policies of great importance—decentralization of administration and equality of opportunity for education among all its employes. These two principles have been developed consciously and consecutively for the past 30 years, and made General Motors a social institution of fundamental significance to our free enterprise system.

Though both of these principles can, as the union leaders suspect, be used to compete with the union for the loyalty of the workers, the basic importance of the new contract and its possibilities of expansion indicate that General Motors is trying to fuse relationships within and without the plants into a total philosophy of its community, regional and national responsibilities. The organization of General Motors and the ideas behind it are worth studying because this great American corporation is aware that a free enterprise system which does not constantly broaden the concept of its social responsibility is a menace to its own continuity.

Kravchenko Says He Saved Samarine

New York, Aug. 19 (NYHT).—Victor A. Kravchenko, author of "I Chose Freedom," claimed credit today for saving Mikhail Ivanovitch Samarine from the misfortunes that overtook Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina.

In a 3000-word statement Kravchenko told the story of how he brought Samarine from a New Jersey chicken farm to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, two days after Soviet Consul Yakov M. Lomakin fetched Mrs. Kosenkina from a Rockland County farm and immured her in the consulate. Before Mrs. Kosenkina escaped at the risk of her life by jumping out of a third-story window, Samarine was under the protection of a congressional subpoena.

Kravchenko, who was himself a Soviet official before he repudiated his native country in 1944, also offered an explanation of the strange behavior of Soviet officials in the Samarine-Kosenkina drama.

Didn't Want Incident

He said that when the two school teachers first disappeared the Russians did nothing because they wanted to avoid creating an international incident. Once Mrs. Kosenkina was returned to the consulate, however, they made a "spectacle" of her in order to discredit all Soviet citizens who tried to break away from the Soviet regime, according to Kravchenko. In the same way, he said, they tried to discredit both teachers by saying they were not responsible for their words and actions. The angry protest of Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov was intended to conceal the true facts of the case from the Russian public, he said.

Mr. Kravchenko said the great political significance of the Samarine-Kosenkina case was that "it shows that ordinary people are now beginning to break with the Soviet Union."

Aggression Alienates

"The more aggressive the policy of the Politburo toward the rest of the world, the more it tries to sabotage world peace, the more it prepares the atmosphere for a new conflict, the more its citizens will flee it," he said.

"This will go on until the arbitrary and tyrannical regime falls and Russia becomes a free and democratic state."

After telling of going to Samarine's hiding place, which he found through an acquaintance who knew certain details about the location, Kravchenko said.

"I told him (Samarine) the story of Kosenkina's kidnaping, and he begged me to take him away immediately, since he had decided irrevocably not to return to the USSR under any circumstances and to renounce his Soviet citizenship. He said he wanted to give himself up to the United States authorities and to appear openly before American official bodies to explain his actions.

Scene of Despair

"He did not wish to take his family with him at once, as he felt that they would be safer left where they were. Never will I forget the scene of utter despair—the farmer's wife, Mrs. Samarine and the three little children crying bitterly—their complete helplessness and terror.

"When we arrived in New York City, I was alone with Samarine in the car. I asked him where he wished to go first. He named the FBI, and the chauffeur took us there. After certain formalities and a wait of about 15 minutes, Samarine was received by officials. I do not know what passed between them. When we left the building, Samarine was terribly disturbed; he told me that the FBI had promised him nothing—neither help nor security, since, under the law, they were in no position to take any action.

Samarine could not understand this legal side of the question. He could not understand that such an agency as the FBI was not a law unto itself, like the NKVD in Moscow . . . moreover, Samarine was convinced of the omnipotency of Soviet agents in America, and it seemed to him, after his visit to the FBI, that American authorities might give him and his family up to the Soviets.

Interview Arranged

"I took him to a place where during the rest of the day he worked on a statement for the press and when he had completed it, I arranged an interview for him . . .

"It was by then the morning of August 9 and we had not even stopped for rest. Samarine again told me of his desire to appear before an American official body—possibly the Committee on Un-American Activities. Finally I managed to convey to this committee Samarine's request, and on August 10 he received a subpoena, which automatically made him immune to arrest as a witness for Congress. The Lomakins were thus disarmed . . ."

Russians Say U. S. Funds Aid Foes in Other Lands

London, Aug. 19 (AP).—The Moscow radio broadcast an accusation tonight that American authorities are financing anti-Russian activities outside the United States.

Discussing the case of Mrs. Oksana Stepanova Kosenkina, the Russian school teacher who leaped a week ago from the third floor of the Soviet consulate in New York, the broadcast said:

"It is highly indicative that American authorities are supporting and financing the work of such gangs as 'Common Cause' and the Tolstoy Foundation outside the United States."

2 Russians Arrive For Conference Of Red Cross

Stockholm, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—What appeared to be an Eastern European boycott of the International Red Cross Conference ended today with the arrival of two Russian delegates, a Prof. Pachkov and a Dr. Bourtov.

They will attend executive committee meetings, but will not take part in sessions of the board of governors. Previously, all Eastern European countries had declined or failed to reply to the invitations because representatives of Franco Spain would be present.

The conference of 500 delegates from 55 nations opens Friday and will continue until the end of August.

night, along with a cablegram from Russia. They told the doctor they thought the two messages would cheer Mrs. Kosenkina and improve her condition, but the doctor again declined to let them see her.

However, he told the two women that if Mrs. Kosenkina continued to improve they might see her in a day or two.

Miss Ivanora protested that "these promises mean nothing. I am sure if she will see us and listen to the letter and the telegram which we will read to her, she will improve immediately."

K. of C. Urges Expulsion Of Conspiring Officials

Houston, Tex., Aug. 19 (AP).—A resolution calling for expulsion of Russian diplomatic and consular officials who conspire against the American Government was approved today by the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus.

The sixty-sixth annual convention of the order also approved a resolution attacking a "secularistic philosophy" charged as being behind a recent Supreme Court decision banning religious education in public schools.

Navy Considers Retiring Last Two Battleships

By The Associated Press

The Navy soon may have no battleships in active service.

Consideration is being given to the laying up of the 45,000-ton Missouri and Iowa, the Navy disclosed yesterday. It stressed that no final decision has been reached.

Two other mighty battlewagons, the New Jersey and the Wisconsin, were removed from the active fleet several months ago. If the Missouri and Iowa go into "mothballs," the Navy will be without a battleship in active operation.

The Navy's statement said that in line with its policy of making a continuing study of fleet, efficiency, it has been and is considering changes in the organization of the fleet.

"Whether or not the battleships will be withdrawn from current operating forces has not yet been determined," it said.

He reiterated previous official statements that the three will be granted asylum in this country if they want it.

3. The State Department's "Voice of America" laid plans to broadcast to Soviet listeners and the world the "whole story" of Marshall's reply as soon as it is made public here.

The ruling that Russia has no authority over Mrs. Kosenkina was made in a letter by Marshall's chief legal adviser, Ernest A. Gross, to Justice Samuel Dickstein of the New York Supreme Court.

The judge had asked Gross to determine whether this Government regarded the woman as still being under the technical custody of Soviet Consul General Jacob Lomakin, although she had escaped from the consulate. Dickstein noted that he "could" cite Lomakin since he had ignored a habeas corpus writ instructing him to produce Mrs. Kosenkina in court.

Nixon Asks Truman To Free FBI's Hands

with three other witnesses connected with the investigation into the charges against Alger Hiss, former high-ranking State Department official.

The three witnesses summoned for today are John Abt, Lee Pressman and Nathan Witt three of those mentioned by Whittaker Chambers, a $30,000 a year senior editor of Time magazine, who said they, along with Alger and Donald Hiss, were among a group of "elite" Communists originally dedicated to rising to power and influence in the Government.

Wallace Powers

All three men are now out of Government. Both Pressman and Abt are known as powers in the new Wallace Progressive Party movement.

All three of tomorrow's prospective witnesses held jobs as lawyers for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in the early days of the New Deal.

Meanwhile, Nixon once again has called upon Immigration Director Watson B. Miller to produce J. V. Peters, long and well known head of the Communist underground in the United States, who is out on bond after being ordered deported.

Peters, Nixon disclosed, is the "third party" who introduced Chambers to Alger Hiss. The mysterious Peters has woven in and out of nearly every single hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, including the Hollywood hearings, where he was disclosed to have been in conference with Herbert Biberman, director-author who has recently been sentenced for contempt of court for refusing to say whether or not he was a Communist.

This is the third time that the committee has asked the Immigration Service to produce Peters or recall is $5000 bond so he can be located.

In his telegram yesterday Nixon said it was "imperative" that Peters be produced.

Chambers, in executive testimony before the committee, testified he was introduced to Hiss by the missing Peters.

When he finally acknowledged that he had met Chambers, Hiss, now $20,000-a-year president of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, testified that he met him as George Crosley. Hiss testified the meeting took place when Hiss was legal counsel of the Nye Munitions Investigating Committee, and that "Crosley" represented himself as a free lance writer seeking material from the Nye committee.

Chambers testified the meeting was in quite a different place, and that he was introduced by Peters under the party name of "Carl."

Former Senator Gerald P. Nye yesterday wrote the committee that he had no recollection of any free lance writer by the name of Crosley.

The Nye letter read:

"Receipt is asked in your letter of August 18 inquiring of any recollection that might be mine of a writer named George Crosley who allegedly had been engaged in writing articles in connection with the munitions investigation in 1934 and 1935 conducted by a Senate committee of which I was chairman.

"The name of Crosley does not enter my recollection in any way shape or manner."

It was Peters, Chambers said, who decided on the "elite" group of men who were to go places in the Government.

The appearance of the three remaining witnesses today will complete the roster of those Chambers named as the "elite" group here in the '30s. Others on the list were Henry Collins, Victor Perlo, Donald Hiss, Charles Kramer, and Alger Hiss. Donald Hiss categorically denied under oath that he has ever known Chambers under any name whatever. The other three have refused to answer questions on the ground of possible self-incrimination.

The committee yesterday announced that since Hiss had declined to submit to a test with a lie detector at this time, that Chambers, who has announced his willingness to undergo such a test would not be asked to do so.

Used at Atom Bomb Plant

Meanwhile Nixon made public a letter from Leonard Keeler, Inc., inventor of the poly-graph lie detector) which pointed out that the polygraph has been used for the past two years to screen employes at the Atom Bomb project in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Keeler also pointed out that tests with a lie detector have been admitted as legal evidence in the courts of Cook County, Ill.

"Last year in Cook County we examined plaintiffs and defendents for some 28 cases the stipulation was made by both plaintiff and defendant that the test should be made and, regardless of the outcome, the results would be admitted as evidence."

Keeler also wrote that during the war and subsequently the provost marshal general used the polygraph in many cases. He pointed out that the polygraph was used in the Jack and Kathleen Durant jewel theft case and admitted as evidence in the court-martial in Frankfurt, Germany and in Washington.

The House committee also announced yesterday it had found a 1931 picture of Whittaker Chambers in The New Masses and that, aside from his hair growing gray, he had changed very little. Nixon said the announcement was made in connection with the failure of Hiss to identify a current picture of Chambers in public testimony before the committee.

At his news conference yesterday President insisted that no war secrets have ever leaked from this government.

He confirmed, however, that the Department of Justice for sometime has been at work on a proposed new anti-espionage law. The President said that such a law, however, is difficult to frame in such a way that it will not infringe on the Bill of Rights.

President Truman also asserted that the employe loyalty review procedure instituted by him has been entirely successful.

Hiss Defers Detector Decision

firmed the impression which I, as a practicing lawyer, had obtained some years ago that the scientific validity of mechanical tests for veracity has most definitely not been established by Dr. Keeler or any one else.

"Yesterday and today I have initiated further inquiries and again the results to date have been uniformly negative. My information is that no Federal Court in the United States relies upon any 'lie detector' machine and that scientists who are most familiar with psychiatric and emotional questions repose no confidence in any mechanical device thus far developed.

"Dr. Keeler's machine, I understand, does record changes in certain physical indices of emotion, such as fluctuation in rate of perspiration, n rapidity of heart beat, in blood pressure, etc. It is not, however, a 'lie detector.' The information I have received thus far is further to the effect that the reading of the record of any such machine, including Dr. Keeler's, is necessarily a matter entirely within the subjective discretion of the operator of the machine and is not capable of objective scientific check by impartial observers.

"In other words, only the deviser of the test utilized in the operation of the machine is able to interpret the results. I am in addition informed that no Federal agency, including the Federal Bureau of Investigations, accepts the scientific validity of any 'lie detector' machine.

"I am much impressed by the committee's statement to me on Monday that it, on the basis of its investigation, has confidence in Dr. Keeler's machine. However, I believe that the committee's suggestion is unprecedented in congressional procedure. The matter is therefore one of some general importance as well as of significance to me as an individual.

"Before reaching a definite conclusion I think the importance of the decision warrants my obtaining more searching and definite information and opinion from legal and scientific experts. It has not been possible for me to obtain the results of the inquiries I have initiated by today, the date on which the committee asked for a reply from me.

"Under the circumstances I can only say that I do not at present feel in position to make a final decision with respect to the committee's suggestion. I shall do my best to expedite the inquiries I have under way.

"In this connection I might mention that the middle of the summer when many people are on vacation is not the most favorable time in which to pursue such inquiries with dispatch. I shall communicate further with you as soon as I am in position to speak with more certainty on this subject."

Service Journal Tells Soviet Plans

On Britain Sept. 3

U. S. Planes, RAF Plan Mock Attack

London, Aug. 19 (U.P.)—American bombers and Royal Air Force units from Britain and Germany will stage a massive four-day mock assault on Britain "under war conditions" starting September 3, the Air Ministry announced tonight.

The Air Ministry said the exercises, "the biggest since the war," would include all units of the RAF home operational command and the Royal Auxiliary Air Force. British units based in Germany and American B-29's based in the United Kingdom.

The operation envisions Britain under attack from an "enemy continental power" stretching from Switzerland halway up the Norwegian coast.

General Curtis LeMay, commanding general of the United States Air Force in Europe, will be able to draw from an Ameircan fleet of nearly 3000 trained airmen and 150 frontline bombers, jet fighters and transports now based in the United Kingdom.

By the United Press

The Field Artillery Journal yesterday published what it described as Russia's secret schedule for gaining Communist domination of the world, with the United States the "ultimate objective."

The author, Col. Conrad H. Lanza, retired, said the Soviet plan was prepared in November, 1947, and distributed confidentially to Communist satellite states. He says the first "phase" is consolidation of satellite states in eastern Europe; the second, "establishment of communist governments in Germany, Italy and France;" the third, conquest of Great Britain without a war. British left parties "will eventually become the overnment," he quotes the plan, and adds:

"Fourth phase: The United States is the ultimate objective. Americans do not want war . . . The economic crisis, already begun, is sure to become worse. Communists will then be able to control the labor unions."

gan to unloose all its resentment against the Soviet-controlled police, according to stories told to American MPs.

As several Germans began hurling bricks at the police, several black marketeers, including two who had been captured, raced down the street into the American sector.

Shots Cross Line

The German police opened fire, wounding bystanders and others already in the American sector. The crowd's fury mounted, and the number of bricks and stones hurled grew into an avalanche.

The Soviet German news agency reported tonight that several of the Soviet-sector German policemen were seriously injured by the stone throwing. It said the shots were fired only "to warn the population."

The police of the Soviet and Western sectors have been split into rival factions for nearly a month.

U. S., Russia Clash Over Debt Interest

By the United Press

Officials disclosed yesterday that the United States and Russia have clashed head-on over the size of interest payments Moscow is making on a 225-million-dollar debt.

The debt is for lend-lease goods in the "pipeline" to Russia which were delivered after V-J Day under a sales contract between the two countries.

Officials said a $5,300,000 interest payment fell due on July 1. A check for only $3,341,446 was received a few days ago and Russia will be dunned for the rest "in due course."

Details Refused

The State Department refused to give details of the behind-the-scenes wrangling, but this much can now be told:

The disagreement dates back to more than a year ago, when Congress ended the flow of "pipeline" shipments to keep them out of Russia's war potential.

Russia has received slightly more than 90 per cent of the 250 million dollars' worth of supplies covered by the sales contract when the flow was stopped.

Russia protested that the contract had been violated and demanded the debt be scaled down. It argued that some equipment parts received in earlier shipments were useless because the equipment itself was never delivered.

Four Millions Paid

Last year the Russians paid $4,170,000 in interest, about enough to cover a debt of 175 million dollars.

The State Department refused to say what "explanation" Russia gave for refusing to go along with the United States proposal. It also refused to say what sort of arithmetic Russia used in arriving at the smaller figure.

Officials hinted that negotiations probably will begin soon.

Public Power Plan Losing in Alberta

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Almost complete returns indicated today Alberta has rejected public ownership and distribution of electric power.

With votes counted from 2280 of the 2760 polling places, the result thus far in Tuesday's plebiscite was 109,330 for private enterprise against 102,094 for public ownership.

'Ghetto' Is a Word She Knows Well

The Washington Post
NINA SCHUSTER
Studying American ways

Polish Girl, Nazi Victim, Very Well Here

For 19-year-old Nina Schuster, who is a lucky girl, things are very well these days.

She's looking forward to going back to Central High School, for one thing, where she sings in the glee club and likes doing algebra. There's her part-time job in a department store, which enables her to pay her way. There are the dates and the dances.

And back of them is her new family, David Miller and his wife, their daughters, Bertha and Anna and son, Teddy, with whom she lives at 4105 17th st. nw. Mrs. Miller is Nina's aunt.

Nina (pronounced Neena) is a Polish Jewess, a refugee. In the summer of 1941 the Germans invaded her birthplace, Rokitno, and hanged her mother and several others "to terrorize the rest of the people." She was shipped to a ghetto in Bytom, where she joined her father, brother and sister.

A year later, the Germans machine-gunned the ghetto, killing her father, brother and sister. She escaped, wound up in Russia in a technical school near Moscow. Eventually she made her way to the American zone of Berlin, and finally, 18 months ago, she arrived in this country.

The petite, attractive blonde couldn't speak English when she came to Washington. "Polish, Jewish, Russian, some German, yes. But English, no." She enrolled in the Americanization School.

They taught her the language there, something of United States history, and, for recreation, American folk songs and spirituals. She smiles when she remembers the conglomeration of nationalities singing "My Old Kentucky Home."

In August of last year she took out her first naturalization papers. She's proud of that.

Nina was graduated early this year and began attending Central. Among other things, she learned what to do when a boy volunteered to "teach me what a wolf is." The thing to do, she reports, is simply say, "No, thank you." And then "go some place else."

Because she wants to be a secretary one day, she will go on to business school after graduating from Central, where she soon will be a junior. There can be planning ahead now, she says.

But the great thing with Nina, who is studying to be an American, is something besides learning to speak English and going to school and working.

That something is "my family," she smiles, the place from whence her love for this country springs. She looks about the quiet, comfortably furnished living room at her sisters and her aunt and says, "I am very happy to be here. All I can say is, it's wonderful."

Culpeper Conclave Called by GOP Chief

Eighth District Republican Chairman Carl A. Marshall yesterday announced he had called a district meeting in Culpeper, Va., for Saturday to complete arrangements for the general election.

Plans for a motorcade to Fredericksburg, Va., on August 28 to celebrate the homecoming of Hugh R. Scott, chairman of the Republican National Committee also will be discussed.

Arlington Man Hurt When Auto Hits Truck

An Arlington man suffered a fractured right leg and cuts early yesterday when his auto ran into the rear of a truck on Route 1 near Woodbridge, Va.

Levon Freeman, 24, of 1109 S. 15th rd., a naval reservist, was taken to the Quantico Naval Hospital for treatment.

Greek Guerilla Resistance Stiffens Around Mt. Grammos

Athens, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—A Greek army general staff spokesman said today guerilla resistance had stiffened in the last two days in the Grammos Mountain fighting.

He estimated that Markos Vafiades, the guerilla leader, held approximately 100 square miles of his so-called "Free Greece" territory along the Albanian frontier.

The spokesman said indications were that Vafiades had ordered his forces to hold a 22-mile perimeter at all costs. Previous reports had said the Greek army had shortened the front to 10 miles.

Guerilla raids were reported elsewhere in Greece. A communique said guerillas attacked northeast of Xanthe in eastern Macedonia, then retreated into Bulgaria. Press dispatches said several villages were raided in Thessaly and a bridge blown up on the Kalabaka-Ioannina highway.

In Athens, postal, telegraph and telephone workers called off a strike which had paralyzed communications for two and a half days. Union leaders said they had been assured by the government their demands for higher wages would get immediate action.

2 Boys Admit Starting Fire That Killed 5

Reno, Nev., Aug. 19 (U.P.)—Two 9-year-old boys confessed today that they started a fire which brought death to five persons and injury to 180 Sunday, Police Chief Lorenz Greeson announced. The fire resulted in an explosion which levelled half a city block.

Romania Agency Blasts Tito 'Terror Clique' In 'Horrible Murder' of Former Staff Chief

London, Aug. 19 (AP).—Rador, the official Romanian news agency, accused Premier Marshal Tito and other members of the Yugoslav government today of treason and "horrible murder" in the death of Gen. Arso Jovanovic, former chief of staff of the Yugoslav army.

The Yugoslav government announced yesterday that Jovanovic was killed by a border guard August 12, while attempting to flee across the border into Romania.

Repeating charges first voiced against Tito by the Russian-dominated Communist International Information Bureau, (Cominform) Rador declared:

"The clique of traitors of Tito and (Interior Minister Alexander) Rankovic, which has let loose a wave of terror against Yugoslav Communists who are loyal to the interests of the working class, has thus committed another crime. This time the victim was one of the most popular heroes of the Yugoslav liberation struggle."

Jovanovic was wartime chief of staff and intimately associated with Tito in the days of partisan warfare against the Nazis.

The Rador dispatch, broadcast by the Bucharest Radio, said:

"The number of Yugoslav Communists who reject the criminal policy of Tito, (Vice Premier Edvard) Kardelj, (Minister without portfolio Milovan) Djilas and Rankovic grows daily.

"Their resistance will not be broken by terror. Yugoslav Communists are leading the struggle for the salvation of the Yugoslav public from the terrorist regime which endangers Yugoslavia's freedom and independence and threatens the peace of the people."

Singer Awaits Curtain Call

AMELIA SHORDAY, who sings the role of Iolanthe in the Gilbert and Sullivan opera of that name, is ready for tonight's opening performance at the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument Grounds at 8:30 o'clock. Saturday night the Columbia Opera group, of which she is a member, will stage "The Mikado" at the Sylvan

Reynaud Asks Cheap Output, Trade Balance

Paris, Aug. 19 (NYHT).—Finance Minister Paul Reynaud, saying France was facing imminent ruin through inflation, broadcast an appeal to the nation tonight to support the new financial and economic powers awarded him earlier this week by the National Assembly.

The essence of this authority, Reynaud explained, was to "produce more at cheaper prices and to export more and import less." This policy alone could save the nation, he said.

Shortly before his address, however, an intertrade union committee, which has been working with the 3-week-old government of Premier Andre Marie, announced it was breaking off the talks to secure labor's goal—an appreciable reduction in living costs.

Andre Lafond, a member of the committee, said the "behavior of the government has made further discussions useless."

Reynaud did not discuss where he first intends to apply his new authority over government spending and taxation. He had a definite program, he said, but the initial responsibility was a careful study of "the consequences of the measures I envisage." Thereafter the government would act—on the first of a long series of reforms.

Md. Traffic Fine

Hubert Johnson, 37, of 230 C st. ne., yesterday forfeited $101.45 in Rockville Police Court on a reckless driving charge. Montgomery County police said Johnson was involved in an accident on Viers Mill Road last August 10 in which two persons were injured.

The Iron Curtain

Gouzenko's Wife Backs Plan; Dr. May's Treachery Related

(This is the story of the former Russian cipher expert who exposed Stalin's spy ring in Canada in September, 1945. It mirrors happenings in the United States today.—Editor's Note.)

By Igor Gouzenko

Installment XIII

I now foresaw myself taking my family into a democratic world that might soon be transformed back into the sordid world I was risking so much to escape.

After long deliberation, I talked it over with Anna. If I took with me documentary proof of my claims, would my warning be accepted by the Canadian authorities?

Anna seemed startled at first, but after long deliberation said quietly:

"If you have the strength within yourself to do that, Igor, we will all have earned our citizenship in this blessed land."

When, shortly afterward in June, 1945, Lieutenant Koulakov arrived in Ottawa to replace me as Colonel Zabotin's cipher clerk, and Moscow again ordered my return, I entered upon the task of selecting documents to take with me—documents that would clearly prove the operation of a Soviet spy system and fifth column activity in Canada, as well as establishing the identity of the spies.

Sought Evidence Against 3

My basic aim was to secure "sure conviction" evidence against the three key spies—most dangerous of all enemies then within Canada's borders.

They were Dr. Allan Nunn May, member of Parliament Fred Rose, and Sam Carr, national organizer of the Labor-Progressive Party.

If Moscow's late-1947 boasts of having solved the atomic bomb secret are true, then Dr. Allan Nunn May should take a bow in his prison cell in England. Just how much of the secret he turned over to the Soviet is a matter of conjecture, but there was no doubt of the importance which Moscow placed on his active cooperation.

In July, 1944, Dr. John Douglas Cockcroft, who held the chair of Jacksonian professor of natural philosophy at Cambridge, England, and who is a scientist of international renown, had been made a director of the Atomic Energy Project, Montreal and Chalk River, and worked in collaboration with Canadian scientists at the Montreal laboratory of the National Research Council.

Dr. Cockcroft's research group was naturally picked with utmost care and operated under closest secrecy. As a group leader for the Montreal laboratory, he selected Dr. May and brought this trusted aide to Canada. It was conceded that Dr. May was one of the few top scientists with access to a substantial amount of knowledge of the work being done in connection with the atomic energy project.

Yet Dr. May was transformed by Soviet subterfuge into a spy, a betrayer of secret data to a foreign power.

Try to Get Bomb in Early '45

Moscow's determined attempts to secure atomic bomb secrets extended as far back as March 28, 1945, when Captain Lunan reported to Major Rogov:

"Badeau (Dunrford Smith) informs me that most secret work at present is on unclear physics (bombardment of radio-active substances to produce energy). This is more hush-hush than radar and is being carried on at the University of Montreal and at McMaster University at Hamilton. Badeau thinks that government purchasing of radium producing plant is connected with this research."

Then, from the director in Moscow, came a surprise for Colonel Zabotin in the form of instructions for him to contact a Dr. Allan Nunn May who was working on atomic research in Montreal.

"He is a corporant," continued the telegram, "and his cover name is Alek. I consider it best to establish contact through Sam Carr Advise me immediately when you have established contact."

Since "corporant" was the military intelligence code word for a member of the Communist Party and Moscow already had a code name "Alek" assigned to him, it was evident that Dr. May had some previous contact with Moscow.

The director, however, fell in line with Zabotin's suggestion to appoint his own man to contact Dr. May and Lieutenant Angelov was given the assignment.

The report obtained from Dr. May was extensive and comprehensive. It came in two sections. This was several months before Hiroshima.

One part, covering the technical processes being followed in the bomb's construction, was 10 single-spaced typed messages. Another part of the report was a general description of the atomic project's organization in United States. Canada and the structure of the Project and the It explained the whole Manhattan officials and scientist War Department in charge of the project.

Zabotin was particularly delighted over Dr. May's naming of the highly hush-hush plants and the nature of the work being done at Oak Ridge, Tenn., at the University of Chicago, at Los Alamos, New Mex., and at Hanford, Wash. Such concise reports would permit assigning agents according to their qualifications without preliminary wastage of time figuring out where the plants were and what a spy would have to know to get any secrets out of that plant.

The obtaining of uranium samples—first secured by Zabotin—aroused considerable enthusiasm. I was working late in the cipher room the night Angelov brought them from Montreal.

Zabotin was in high fettle. I heard him say excitedly: "Now that the Americans have invented it, we must steal it!"

Bolt Kills 3 Calves In Gaithersburg Barn

Three calves and a quantity of hay and straw were destroyed Wednesday night when lightning struck a barn owned by B. Z. Kyle, of Gaithersburg, Md. Gaithersburg and Washington Grove Volunteer firemen said the barn burned for 15 minutes before a passing motorist first discovered the blaze. The barn was burned to the ground.

$9000 Blaze Levels Fairfax Hay Barn

A hay barn on property owned by the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co., near Gunston Manor in Fairfax County, Va., burned to the ground yesterday in what firemen estimated was a $9000 blaze.

David C. Kennedy, tenant on the property, known as Sandy Point Farm, told firemen the blaze began when a gas-driven hay baling machine caught on fire. Fire companies from Occoquan and Penn Daw responded.

On the Town

WHO'D think to watch them singing a duet, with the little lovebirds flitting about, that they're really man and wife, and Momma and Papa? We're talking about the Michael Dunns, the male half of which is leader of the orchestra now at the Mayflower lounge. Mrs. Mike goes under the monnicker of Bonnie Boyd for stage purposes.

Bonnie Boyd

Bonnie and Mike have been together, though not in a married state, since Mike formed his first orchestra in New England shortly after he got out of the service.

Mike and Bonnie had been doing their duets in song so well that they decided to make it a duet in marriage. Bonnie, who carried on with the vocal chords after marriage, is now the mother of 2-month-old Patricia Dunn who has already been pegged for show biz. Bonnie, through clever use of a good designer was able to keep right on singing until just one month before little Patricia put in an appearance.

The orchestra plays a diversified brand of music plotted to please all the dancers, but the real high spot of their work are the duets Mike and Bonnie do.

Another proof that vaudeville is not yet dead and may even stage a comeback is found in James Evans who's working the Lotus this week. James is an old time foot juggler, having worked at his trade for the past 50 years. A foot juggler is an act during which the talent balances everything from large balls to card table-sized platforms on his feet. Evans' feet at times move so fast and smoothly that they almost resemble hands, such is their agility.

Dorothy Deering, headliner of the Lotus show, does an acrobatic dance robed in flimsy little things that makes her suppleness look even more so.

Al and Connie Fanton have a cute little rhumba routine done with rubber balls that took a lot of practice to perfect.

LA SALLE DU BOIS will close next week so that the help may have its usual two weeks vacation. The restaurant will be closed from August 28 to September 13.

Balalaika will be pulling down the closed-for-the-summer-and-alterations sign September 16. The policy of this spot has been changed and it'll now be known as the Continental Balalaika. Out go the old floor shows and the balalaika orchestra, in comes a string orchestra and an American type of show. They'll still be featuring some of the old favorite Caucasian dishes, but you'll also be seeing more American food on the menu.

Hey! Lookee here! Hangoverless drinks. Praise be to Allah and let's look into this thing a little closer. The Sheraton Hotel chain's research department has come up with some dillies called Sheraton Gold Cup, Rose Marie, Zephyr, Summer Sunset, South seas cooler and Silver Arrow. The drinks originated in their Southern hotels and are concocted by mixing wines and various "native products." According to expert tipplers they can give you a slight buzz without the usual after effects of too much wine. Just goes to show you how much you can improve civilization and man's lot when you really put your mind to it.

That's not the only new thing at the Sheraton. Manager Patterson, who took over a few weeks back, is now with another hotel and his place has been taken by Charles B. Nottingham, who will be resident manager and has just come up from Carvel Hall in Annapolis.

West Drops Dispute Plan For the Press

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—The Human Rights Committee of the United Nations Economic and Social Council today abandoned attempts to arrange for settlement of disputes arising from the U. N. Convention on Freedom of Information and the Press.

The United States, Britain and France withdrew an amendment to Article 10 of the convention after the Soviet Union protested the measure would interfere with national sovereignty. The other delegates said such disputes should be referred to the International Court of Justice.

The committee voted to let the U. N. General Assembly cope with the question at its meeting in Paris next month.

The withdrawn amendment would have provided for establishment of a committee to handle disputes arising from the convention on gathering and international transmission of news.

Article 10 as adopted reads:

"Nothing in this convention shall be construed as depriving any contracting State of its right to make and enforce laws and regulations for the protection of national security and public order. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as depriving any contracting State of its right to make and enforce laws and regulations prohibiting obscene news material. Nothing in the present convention shall limit the discretion of any contracting State to refuse entry into its territory to any particular person or to restrict the period of his residence therein, provided any such restriction does not conflict with the provisions of Article Five."

The United States oposed this article on the grounds it gives governments the right to refuse entry to a foreign correspondent arbitrarily. It also believes the article is ambiguous and opens the way for censorship for reasons other than national security.

Swiss Blasts Tapering Off

Goeschenen, Switzerland, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The 800 residents of this village returned to their homes today as explosions in the munitions depot here grew weaker. The population was evacuated yesterday when fire touched off a series of heavy explosions.

Nanking, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Chinese government announced tonight creation of a new "gold yuan" currency worth 25 cents—three million times the value of the old inflation-riddled money it replaces.

Shanghai financial circles immediately expressed doubts that this drastic measure would succeed in the long run.

They said it might wipe out the present black market in currency, as the new fixed rate is approximately that of the illegal money changers. But, unless the new money has some substantial backing, the net result would be merely to cut off some of the zeros in current astronomical transactions.

Banks were ordered closed today and Saturday to permit the start of orderly exchange of old money for new.

Deadline for the exchange was set at November 20. After October 30 possession of gold, silver or foreign currencies will be punishable by confiscation.

A Finance Ministry spokesman told a news conference the new gold yuan would be supported by 40 per cent gold, silver or foreign.

Shanghai financiers said the government "guarantees." He did not explain what these guarantees would be.

Shanghai financiers said the government did not have enough gold or silver for such backing of new currency. The only possibility they saw would be to sell various cotton mills and other industries which the government acquired from the Japanese.

The Finance Ministry spokesman gave these details of the currency program.

Gold and silver dollars and foreign currencies held by the public are to be surrendered to the government at stipulated rates—four gold yuan to the United States dollar.

The present currency is to be exchanged at the rate of three million to one gold yuan.

Imports of gold, silver and foreign exchange will be controled.

Assets held abroad by Chinese nationals will be registered with the Central Bank of China and "reasonable, appropriate utilization" of such assets will be provided to meet private needs as well as national interests.

Drastic control of wages and prices will be undertaken. There will be no more cost-of-living index, whereby wage rates have been raised at least once a month to keep pace with inflation.

Two billion gold yuan will be issued in denominations of one, five, ten, 50 and 100, with fractional silver, copper and nickel coins.

Russia Asks Argentina For More Consulates

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Russia has asked the Foreign Ministry for permission to open consulates in various interior cities, it was reported today.

Russia said the consulates were needed to take care of large numbers of Russian nationals, especially in the Chaco and Misiones territories, where there are several Russian farm settlements.

Teacher Reports

Less Talk Of War Found In Germany

There is more fear and talk of another war in the United States than in occupied Germany, according to a Washington school teacher who taught there.

Miss Petrakis

The teacher, Miss Marian Petrakis, 29, of 5814 Nevada ave. nw., said last night she found American students at United States-operated schools in Germany appear eager to learn.

Miss Petrakis, who taught one semester at Western High School here and at one summer class for veterans at Central High, recently returned after two years of service in the schools set up for American dependents in Germany. She taught mathematics at Frankfort High School, Germany.

She was high in her praise of the United States schools in Germany, pointing out that they are all accredited by the North Central Education Association, with standards higher than many schools in United States. Frankfort High School, itself, had 350 students on its rolls last semester, with 37 graduates, she said.

The student bodies of the eight high schools now operating in Germany are composed of children of United States military and civilian personnel stationed in that country.

Miss Petrakis said she decided not to renew her teaching contract for a third year, and was undecided on future teaching plans here.

Jews Reject Ultimatum By Egyptians

Jerusalem, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—The Jews rejected an Egyptian ultimatum to evacuate an installation in the Red Cross area south of Jerusalem today after United Nations observers had sped to the area to head off a possible battle.

The Egyptians had demanded that the Jews evacuate an agricultural training farm by 6 p. m. An Egyptian commander threatened to bomb and shell Jewish troops unless they left the area, which had been set aside by the Red Cross.

Col. Moshe Dayan, commander of Jewish forces, rejected the ultimatum as "tantamount to an outspoken threat to violate the truce."

Dayan claimed the Jews occupied the Red Cross area after Arab forces seized Government House Tuesday and fired on Jews from there.

U. N. observers, however, said an investigation showed the Arabs captured 10 Jewish soldiers hiding in Government House and then turned the building over to the Red Cross.

In Cairo, Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha termed the Jerusalem situation "very serious." A spokesman for the Arab Legion, after conferring with Nokrashy, announced Trans-Jordan's forces would "defend Jerusalem at any cost."

Jews Accused of Acts Against Catholics

Jerusalem, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The Latin Patriarchate released today a report by the vicar general for Galilee accusing Jews of criminal acts against 12 Roman Catholic institutions in northern Palestine.

The report, by Msgr. Anthony Vergani, an Italian citizen, has been forwarded to the Vatican Secretary of State.

It alleged that seven churches, convents and hospices have been looted by Jews and others seized by force. It expressed concern that the Jews might "start a continued expropriation of ecclesiastical properties which may have no small repercussion in the Christian world."

sisting upon partition as the solution of the Palestine question.

At the close of the session, the Council agreed, without taking a vote, to call to the attention of the U. N. International Refugee Organization and the Economic and Social Council the fact that there is a refugee problem as a result of the events in Palestine.

Yugoslav Resolution On Trieste Acts Fail

Lake Success, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Yugoslavia failed today to have the United Nations condemn British-American actions in Trieste.

Only two members of the Security Council—Russia and the Ukraine—supported the Yugoslav resolution which declared the two western powers had violated the Italian peace treaty and called on them to stop.

The Council also rejected a proposal by the Ukraine declaring the Council considered "it urgent to solve the question of the nomination of a governor of the free territory of Trieste."

The vote was 4 to 0, with 6 abstensions and 1 not voting. Russia, China, Syria and the Ukraine voted for the proposal. Britain did not take part.

Need of Democracy In Industry Urged

London, Aug. 19 (AP).—Industry needs democracy in the factory to overcome difficulties in industrial relations, mental hygienists were told today.

The factory worker, living in a democratic society outside the plant, finds little opportunity to practice democracy while at work, and this may account for poor labor-management relations, said Dr. J. Koekebakker, head of the mental health division of the Institute for Preventive Medicine, Leyden, the Netherlands. He addressed the International Conference on Mental Hygiene.

Those who uphold the democratic ideal complain of "the poor sense of responsibility of the common man in his work, his political apathy and the opiate nature of his leisure activities," Koekebakker said.

"Education and citizenship are often recommended for weaknesses in human nature. But is it not possible that the easiest way to initiate changes might be to give him an experience of democracy in his work?"

Hopkins Noted

Dairen Port Access Was Tehran Topic

President Roosevelt first discussed Russian access to the port of Dairen at Tehran instead of at Yalta, "when, according to legend he was . . . enfeebled," Harry Hopkins noted in his diary.

"Stalin immediately expressed the opinion that the Chinese would object to this proposal," writes Robert E. Sherwood in Collier's, "but Roosevelt said he thought they would agree to having Dairen made a free port under international guarantee."

Hopkins' diaries and memoranda have been edited by Sherwood for publication in the magazine series.

At Tehran, Hopkins noted, Stalin pressed Mr. Roosevelt repeatedly to name a supreme commander for Operation Overlord, the cross-channel invasion of Europe. He could not believe the operation actually was contemplated, according to Hopkins, until the commander was designated.

At the same conference, Hopkins wrote, Stalin, Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill discussed the question of territorial settlements after the war but without reaching any definite conclusion. Hopkins noted, however, that Mr. Roosevelt felt the post-war need for extra-continental bases could be worked out among the Big Three amicably enough.

Sherwood quotes a letter from Secretary of State Marshall, then Chief of Staff, concerning the question of his own appointment as supreme commander of Overlord. Marshall wrote, Sherwood writes, that Mr. Roosevelt was reported to be concerned over the question.

"The next day," Marshall wrote, "the President had me call at his villa . . . I recalled saying that . . . the issue was too great for any personal feelings to be considered . . . If I recall, the President stated in completing our conversation, 'I feel I could not sleep at night with you out of the country'."

The next day, Sherwood notes, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was appointed supreme commander.

Plane Helps Stork Deliver 17.6 lb. Baby

Palermo, Sicily, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—A seaplane in the role of stork was credited today with successful birth of the largest known baby in this region.

The seaplane answered an emergency call to the tiny island of Ustica, 30 miles north of Palermo, and flew Mrs. Rosa Padovani Caserta, 19, to a hospital on Sicily. She gave birth last night to a son weighing 17.64 pounds.

Grim Law Rules Kiss (Stolen) Is Assault

Detroit, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Judge O. Z. Ide ruled today that a "friendly kiss" from the boss is assault and battery.

June Parris, 17, charged her employer, Tony Texakes, stole a kiss. She said she punched him in the stomach and quit, then filed charges.

Model Abandons World Flight After One Hop

Marseille, France, Aug. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Richarda Morrow-Tait announced today she has abandoned for the present her attempted flight around the world in a small plane.

Mrs. Morrow-Tait said she made the decision because of the time she lost on the first leg, from London to Marseille, and because the plane was damaged when it struck a hole in the Marignane Field here.

Repairs to the plane were expected to keep the 24-year-old former artist's model in Marseille until Friday, when she plans to fly back to London.

She had hoped to be the first woman to circle the globe in a light plane.

Plane With 35 Aboard Makes 2-Wheel Landing

Chicago, Aug. 19 (AP).—A twin-engined American Airlines plane with 35 passengers aboard landed safely on two wheels at the Glenview Navy Airfield today after circling two Chicago airports for more than an hour with its nose wheel jammed, the Chicago Municipal Airport reported.

German Children Saved From Sect Sacrifice

Berlin, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Two children about to be "sacrificed" by members of a religious sect were rescued today by police at Oldenburg in the British occupation zone, the British-licensed German News Agency reported.

Police said the children were found lashed to chairs "about to be sacrificed by fanatics," the agency reported. It said 14 members of the sect, arrested for endangering public safety, told police they were trying to avert the end of the world, which they believed was coming next week.

Hyderabad Taking India Dispute to U. N.

Hyderabad, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Premier Mir Laik Ali announced today that his government has decided to place its independence dispute with India before the United Nations because it constitutes an imminent threat to peace.

The U. N. will be asked to seek a peaceful settlement. India has been urging Hyderabad to become part of the Indian dominion, while Hyderabad has stated its determination to remain an independent state.

Hoffman to Get Plea On German Plants

Duesseldorf, Germany, Aug. 19 (AP). — Eric Noelting, Economics Minister of North Rhine Westphalia, said today a plea to halt dismantling of German factories will be sent to Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of the European Recovery Program.

He said in an interview that the British military government had refused to discuss further the dismantling question with the Germans and also declined to receive any more German expert advice on the subject.

"The only thing left for us to do now is appeal direct to Mr. Hoffman," Noelting said. "We will do that through the bizonal Economics Council in Frankfurt.

"We will ask him to hear German experts in Paris as soon as possible. They will tell him how the industrial dismantling policy is hampering west German recovery.

"Only if the Ruhr is made completely taboo to more dismantling for reparations will West Germany be able to contribute fully to the European Recovery Plan."

Two kinds of dismantling are going on in West Germany. One is the destruction of war plants in the demilitarization program. The other, to which Noelting specifically referred, is the removal of plants declared surplus by the American and British military governors. The measuring stick is Germany's 1936 industrial capacity. The plants are allocated to Allied nations as reparations.

Female 'Husband' Sought by FBI On Theft Charge

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 19 (AP).—A missing Oakland bookkeeper wanted on grand theft charges is a woman masquerading as a married man, the FBI said today.

Officers discovered "Robert Stewart Nelson," 25, missing since Monday, has posed as a man and has been "married" for two years to a 17-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., girl, Roberta Lawson.

Miss Lawson told police she didn't know her "husband" was a woman. She said he told her he always wore a bandage around his chest because of a war wound. He explained he could not consummate their marriage because he still loved "his first wife," she said.

The grand theft warrant alleged a theft of $910 from the bookkeeper's accounts at a wholesale restaurant supply firm.

District Draft Setup Nearly Completed

The District's peacetime draft setup was virtually completed yesterday with nomination by the Commissioners of 20 additional draft board members.

Leahy

In addition, the Commissioners named 15 Washington lawyers to serve as Government appeal agents, one at each board. They will operate as intermediaries between the draft boards and the District's three appeal board panels on individual induction problems.

Names of the board members and appeal agents, which were submitted by District Draft Director William E. Leahy, have been sent to the White House for approval by the President.

Area Men Named

Mr. Truman has appointed men to serve on draft boards and as appeal agents in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland Selective Service Director announced yesterday. The boards will be located in Silver Spring, Bethesda, Rockville, Hyattsville, and Upper Marlboro.

The men approved by the city heads will staff boards 8, 10, 11, 14 and 15. Boards 10 and 14 still lack two members each, however, and board 11 lacks one. Appointments are expected soon for these posts.

The Board of Education yesterday approved use of four schools as registration centers.

The schools, which were recommended by Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning, are Dunbar, Wilson and Roosevelt High Schools and the Thomson Elementary School.

From August 30 through September 18, the registration period, they will register men from 18 through 25 on weekdays and Saturdays from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

The Army will ask the Selective Service system for 15,000 men next week, with their induction expected in November, military officials announced yesterday. The first draft call will be followed shortly by another 15,000 more, to be inducted in December.

Commissioners List

Named by the Commissioners yesterday to staff the five remaining draft boards of the District's 15-board setup are:

Board No. 8 (formerly 13 and 25): Harvey L. Bean, 1606 Vermont ave. nw., Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Dr. Victor J. Tulane, 1225 S st. nw., Howard University; Lawrence J. W. Hayes, 612 R st. nw., Afro-American reporter; Robert Sitgraves, 1301 Vermont ave. nw., stationary engineer; Hubert B. Pair, 1210 Lamont st. nw., assistant corporation counsel.

Board No. 10 (formerly 9 and 14): Charles Kohen, 1900 F st. nw., proprietor of the Hobby Shop; Herbert M. Bingham, 3104 Cathedral ave., nw., attorney; G. Clifford Howard, 3102 Cathedral ave. nw., attorney.

Board No. 11 (formerly 15 and 16): Vernis Absher, 1331 E st., real estate operator; Oscar Eady, 1302 South Carolina ave. se., Department of Agriculture; S. Dolan Donohoe, 314 Pennsylvania ave. se., real estate operator; Newton D. Hathaway, 4000 Cathedral ave. nw., Veterans' Administration.

Board No. 14 (formerly 21 and 22): Louis L. Bowdler, 1723 Benning rd. ne., florist; George L. Holland, 858 20th st. ne., Veterans Administration; George D. Dixon, 824 20th st. ne., interior decorator.

Board No. 15 (formerly 23): Gail T. Judd, 411 18th st. se., Department of Labor; Stephen S. Madison, 5207 E. Capitol st., District government employe; Odell E. Walker, 3761 Jay st. ne, housing development official; John A. DeCatur, 1611 E st. se., contractor; Innis H. Hart, 413 18th st. se., employe of Wonder Bakery.

Appeal Agents Chosen

To serve as Government appeal agents, one to each board, are the following 15 men. All are lawyers. Listed to serve on boards 1 to 15, respectively, are:

Russell F. Barrett, 2412 39th st. nw.; P. J. Nicolaides, 3915 McKinley st. nw.; Julius I. Peyser, Wardman Park Hotel; Julius Eanet, 3620 16th st. nw.; Edward L. Marthill, 1625 Webster st. nw.; Joseph H. Batt, 3821 Legation st. nw.; Emory B. Smith, 1707 2d st. nw.; Wesley S. Williams, 443 Kenyon st. nw.; Hyman Rubin, 4902 4th st. nw.; Ben L. Tepper, 4409 Garrison st. nw.; Michael F. Keogh, 4650 Garfield st. nw.; Stanley Otto, 1209 Good Hope rd. se.; Daniel L. O'Connor, 131 Varnum st. nw.; Archie K. Shipe, 3700 33rd pl. nw.; Wilbur L. Gray, 2129 Bancroft pl. nw.

The Commissioners also approved the following changes in previous draft board nominations:

Ralph C. Mulligan, 1827 19th st. nw., public relations director, will replace George H. Paltridge as a member of board No. 3. Francis J. O'Donnell, 1416 Ingraham st. nw., a pharmacist, will serve on board No. 4 in place of Israel I. Silberman, of 5919 14th st. nw., salesman, who moves to board No. 9, replacing James O. Davis.

Stanwood Announcement

Men appointed to serve on nearby Maryland draft boards and as Government appeal agents by the President were announced yesterday by State Selective Service Director Henry C. Stanwood.

Colonel Stanwood, contacted at the Baltimore draft headquarters, also announced the location of registration places for draft-eligible men of Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties.

Draft board and appeal agent appointments, together with location of registration centers, follow:

Silver Spring Board No. 53—Stephen James, 9711 Monroe st., Silver Spring, Automotive Safety Foundation official; W. H. Reynolds, 8030 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, employe of American Instrument Co.; Ronald L. McDonald, 9200 2d ave., Silver Spring, assistant secretary of the Maritime Commission. Paul D. Taggart, 9313 Colesville rd., Silver Spring, an attorney, will be the board's appeal agent.

Silver Spring men will register at Jesup Blair House, Georgia ave. and Blair rd., Silver Spring.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Board No. 54—R. Granville Curry, 405 Battery lane, Battery Park, lawyer; John D. Sadler, 6923 Arlington rd., Edgemoor, lawyer; James H. Pugh, Rockville, lawyer. The board's appeal agent is F. Archie Meatyard, Jr., 4829 Cherry Chase dr., Chevy Chase, lawyer.

Bethesda and Chevy Chase men will register in the veterans buildings at Bethesda-Chevy Chase Community and Recreation Center.

Rockville Board No. 52—Stephen C. Cromwell, 205 W. Montgomery ave., Rockville, director of Maryland Unemployment Compensation Bureau; P. G. Ligon, Brighton, contractor and farmer, and August R. Selby, Germantown, flour mill operator. The appeal agent is Attorney Donald A. DeLashmutt, 119 Forest ave., Rockville.

Registration center for Rockville men is the postoffice building.

Hyattsville Board No. 55—Leo W. Dunn, 3701 Quincy st., Brentwood, real estate operator; T. Earle Bourne, 4306 Sheridan st., University Park, president of Schindler's Peanut Products; Edgar F. Czarra, 4215 Van Buren st., University Park, vice president of wholesale plumbing house. No appeal agent has been named.

The County Service Building at Hyattsville will be registration center.

Upper Marlboro Board No. 56—Charles C. Marbury, Upper Marlboro, judge of Prince Georges County Circuit Court; William McCormick, 422 Prince Georges st., Laurel, equipment supervisor for Maryland state Commission; William H. Brooks, Upper Marlboro, banker. No appeal agent has been named.

What's the best way to color margarine?

RIGHT IN THE CHURN IT'S MADE IN!*
But until the law lets us have it,
the best home way is by

NUCOA'S "Bowl Mix"!

RIGHT! Here's why...

1. NUCOA'S "BOWL MIX" protects fine FLAVOR and TEXTURE.

We tolerate no short cuts on quality in the making of Nucoa. Why should you tolerate them in coloring it? Nucoa is churned, chilled, made into pounds and triple-wrapped so that it comes to you with the finest churn-fresh flavor and texture any spread can have. It is not melted and poured into a trick coloring package, because we know you would not like the flavor and texture of delicious Nucoa impaired this way.

2. NUCOA'S "BOWL MIX" is as QUICK as any way—and MORE APPETIZING.

Let Nucoa stand at room temperature until it is soft (not soupy—but soft enough for quick sandwich spreading). Remove it from package to a large bowl and with a large fork or spoon, cream in the color from the pure color wafer. Takes less than a minute and a half! No other method is quicker; no other method so well protects the texture.

3. NUCOA'S "BOWL MIX" gives you the BEST MARGARINE—at LESS COST.

When you buy margarine in a trick coloring package, you pay extra for the package! When you buy Nucoa, you buy its finer flavor; year-round, churn-fresh goodness; rich food energy and dependable Vitamin A. You get the margarine you're proudest to put on your table—actually cheaper!

* Obtainable yellow (where not prohibited by state law) at higher cost, to cover high Federal taxes and license fees.

3 Guard Units Go To Ritchie Saturday

Three nearby Maryland National Guard companies will leave Saturday for Camp Ritchie, Md., where they will join other units of the State's 115th Infantry Regiment for a 15-day period of training and maneuvers.

Groups from the suburban Washington area attending the encampment will include Hyattsville's anti-tank company, a cannon company from Kensington and a service company from Silver Spring, comprising about 200 Guardsmen. At Camp Ritchie, they will be joined by about 1800 other infantrymen from companies in the eastern and southern sectors of the State.

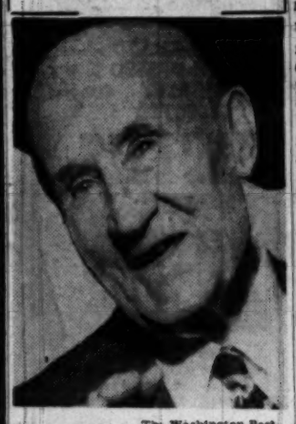
Most of the men will travel to Camp Ritchie by truck, with the Hyattsville unit leaving at 8:50 a. m. and the Kensington and Silver Spring companies departing 10 minutes later. Advance units from all three companies, however, are already at Camp Ritchie.

According to Capt. Arthur B. Calhoun, jr., of Hyattsville, operations officer for the regiment, a highlight of the encampment is scheduled next Friday, when the regiment will be reviewed by Gov. William Preston Lane, jr. The Governor's Day program also will feature demonstrations of modern infantry weapons by crack units from the regiment.

Commanding officers of the nearby unit during the encampment which will end September 4, will be First Lieut. William Clark, Hyattsville; Second Lieut. Benjamin Burroughs, Kensington, and Capt. Charles E. Peter, Silver Spring.

Nation's Oldest

Pilot, 85, Says Flying Is Medicine



The Washington Post
JAMES W. MONTEE
Still zigs and zags

An air pilot 85 years young yesterday tossed doctors and medicines overboard from several thousand feet—metaphorically speaking—with one flat statement.

He was James W. Montee, the oldest man in the country with a plane pilot's license, who flew here from his home in Los Angeles with a friend to visit his son, Harold, vice president of Seaboard and Western Airlines, Inc.

"One hour's flying time," he told reporters at his son's office, "to me is worth more than all the vitim B or doctors' prescriptions you can give me for a month."

Flying Keeps Him Young

Montee's record of 3063 hours and 11 minutes of flying time without any serious mishaps, and the regular renewal by the CAA of his private pilot's license since he was first required to have one, when he was 60, are evidence strongly bolstering his contention that "flying keeps you young."

Spry and alert, the old-timer with young ideas did not even have to refer to his log book to announce his flight time down to the minute. He noted he had handled the controls himself about half the time, on his trip from California.

He holds private license No. 414, the lowest active number in the CAA registry of more than one million licensees.

A great-grandfather, Montee flew three generations of his—not counting himself—to celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday last October 22.

Back in 1871, as a boy of 9, he began to study the flight of heavy-bodied birds, believing that if they could fly, and if man could build railroad locomotives faster than any horse, he certainly could put wings on an engine and take to the air.

While the world was catching up with him, he was, successively, a stage coach driver in Dodge City, Kans., a photographer of the tin-type and wet plate era, a builder and a citrus grower.

All this time, he talked flying, and he was known as "Crazy Flying Machine Montee," he said, describing how his wife's father was warned that his daughter was marrying a "crazy fool."

Then, about the time of the first World War, he and his three sons went into the aviation business in Santa Monica. They built a 150-mile an hour monoplane in 1920, and designed and constructed the two planes that finished first and second in a cross-country air race in 1925.

Having handled copilot controls on modern four-engined planes, he's "like to take a whack at a jet plane, but they won't let me," he said.

Unwed Mother Gets 5 Months For Abandonment of Baby

Thelma Tibbs, 19-year-old unwed mother of Germantown, Md., yesterday was sentenced to five months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women, Jessups, Md., for abandoning her 5-day-old child.

Police said that on August 1 the young mother left the infant wrapped in a blanket in a rain-soaked woods adjoining Union Cemetery, Rockville.

The baby was discovered after a five-hour search in a pouring rain and was rushed to Montgomery County General Hospital where it survived.

The girl, who pleaded guilty, testified she had left the baby in the woods temporarily before obtaining her family's permission to bring it home. Police said they received a tip she had left the baby in the woods one-half hour after being discharged from the hospital.

Judge Alger Y. Barbee also sentenced Clyde B. Dodson, 30-year-old Germantown, Md., farm laborer to six months in jail for being a habitual drunkard. Police said Dodson has been arrested 73 times in the past few years.

Sleeping Sickness Hits 7 Yanks in Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 19 (U.P.)—United States Army medical officers reported today that five United States soldiers, one United States dependent and one Army civilian employe are believed to have sleeping sickness.

They said that a 10-year-old boy, the son of a United States soldier, died with "clinical but not positive symptoms" of sleeping sickness.

Blue Plate Mayonnaise

Made by the WESSON OIL PEOPLE USING FINEST SALAD OIL

JELLIED VEAL

Fresh, fresh flavor of Blue Plate Mayonnaise makes this specially tempting

1 lb. veal (from shoulder, leg or breast)
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. unflavored gelatin
2 tbsps. cold water
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
2 tbsps. chopped pickle
2 tbsps. lemon juice
3 tbsps. Blue Plate Mayonnaise
Salt, pepper to taste

Cut veal into small cubes. Simmer with salt and 1½ cups water in covered pan until tender. Drain liquid. (Add water to make 1 cupful, if necessary.) Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water; melt over hot water. Add to broth and stir well. Add remaining ingredients. When beginning to thicken, stir well and pour into oiled molds. Chill. Garnish with Blue Plate Mayonnaise. Serves 4.

Vienna Vets, Lions Plan Play Centers

If the separate plans of the Vienna, Va., American Legion and the Vienna Lions Club work out, the town will have two separate community recreation centers.

The Town Council last Monday granted the Lions a 10-year lease on 7 acres of town-owned land on which to build its recreation center.

Yesterday the Virginia State Corporation Commission granted a charter to Dyer-Gunnel Center, Inc., sponsored by the Vienna Legion post of the same name.

The center, according to the charter, will be dedicated to World War I and II veterans, will include a playground, swimming pool, dance hall, canteen and motion picture hall.

President of the new corporation is John G. Corboy who said the Legion has its eye on several sites and that it hoped to work with other groups in financing the project.

James C. Hill, Lions Club member and a sparkplug of that group's center plans, said he hoped the Lions also could eventually include other civic groups in a town-wide recreation center corporation.

Hill said he had not heard of the Legion's plans.

Other officers of the Legion-sponsored center are: Vice president, Elvan R. Thorpe; treasurer, E. A. Hileman, sr., and secretary, Paul J. Day. All are Legion members.

Agha Khan's Son
Hayworth Motoring With Prince

RITA HAYWORTH

PRINCE ALI KHAN

Madrid, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Actress Rita Hayworth, last reported vacationing on the Riviera with her former husband, Orson Welles, turned up in Madrid today in the middle of an auto trip through Spain with Prince Ali Khan, son of one of the richest men in the world.

Miss Hayworth and Prince Ali, dashing 36-year-old son of the Agha Khan, arrived Monday in a brand new American automobile. She registered at the swankiest hotel in Madrid as Mrs. Orson Welles.

When she and the prince were recognized at a restaurant last night, the orchestra started playing a hit song from her latest movie. Miss Hayworth protested so bitterly that the orchestra stopped playing in the middle of the piece.

It was reported she and the prince would drive to Lisbon, Portugal, Friday.

Miss Hayworth is known to millions of Spaniards as just plain Margarita Carmen Cansino, the name she was born with.

Police Applicants Interviewed in Prince Georges

Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday interviewed 21 applicants for police appointments.

Norman H. Collins, chairman of the county police commission, said the applicants were those who passed an examination given July 15 to 36 applicants. He said the applicants also will be required to undergo physical tests to determine their eligibility.

Collins, who also is a county commissioner, said action on proposals to increase the county's police force will be taken within a month.

Outdoor EATING TIPS:

1 Arnold Butter Rolls — dainty and flavorful—make perfect sandwiches for hamburgers or barbecued pork. Toast beautifully!

2 Try Arnold Butter Rolls for slices of charcoaled steak or grilled frankfurters. You'd think they had been planned for outdoor eating!

3 And for the folks who like a change occasionally, try Arnold Whole Wheat Rolls. Wonderful with cheese, cold cuts or for sliced tomato and lettuce sandwiches!

Slick-Slip Interrupts Chase

Detective Sergt. Herman Xander was the slickest cop in town yesterday . . . (briefly).

Xander and Detective Sergt. James Powell at about 1 a. m., were chasing two men who were suspected of breaking into a service station in the 2700 block of Good Hope rd. se.

While chasing Maxwell Proctor, 22, of 3009 Buena Vista dr. se., Xander fell 7 feet into a grease pit. He broke his service revolver and suffered bruises.

Police later arrested Proctor at his home. The detectives seized a cousin, Lowell James Proctor, 25, of 1834 Frederick pl. se., near the scene. The men will be arraigned in Municipal Court today for housebreaking.

Canada Reimposes Flour Price Control

'Volcano' Colony Ordered Evicted

Castle Shannon, Pa., Aug. 19 (AP).—The Pittsburgh area's biggest eviction loomed today for 50 local coal miners' families ordered out of a row of "unsafe" houses sitting on top of a "volcano in reverse."

Registered letters notified the 350 residents they must be out of the rickety, unpainted houses by August 31.

The order is the finale of a long legal battle in which the borough of Castle Shannon, sought to raze the 45-year-old houses as "unsafe, hazardous and unsanitary."

Allegheny County Judge Sara M. Soffel said that because the homes are located over a burning coal refuse dump, cellar floors are warm.

One woman reported her family sleeps with the windows closed to keep out the smoke. Mrs. Lucille Zurenski was painfully burned when her back yard caved in, plunging her into the dump.

But despite the danger and discomfort, most of the housewives said they were reluctant to move because they will have to pay higher rents. The "volcano" houses cost only $14.80 a month.

'Sweetheart' Seeks Beauty Laurels

GLORYA KLAPP,

21-year-old George Washington University senior, is one of six finalists for the national title of "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." She was crowned "Sweetheart" of the Epsilon chapter last December. Miss Klapp, daughter of Edgar A. Klapp, 4607 Connecticut ave., and Mrs. Donald S. Nance, will leave Tuesday for Seattle, where the winner will be crowned August 27, at the conclusion of the fraternity's convention.

Two Seized On Export Bribe Charge

Two men described by police as New York City exporters were bound over for further hearing yesterday by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence on charges they attempted to bribe a Commerce Department employe into giving the man export license.

According to testimony before Commissioner Lawrence yesterday, the two men, Orlando Lokpez, 27, and Louis Feldman, 41, wanted to give S. Alan Moorefield $2000 in $100 bills in exchange for an export license permitting them to send several hundred tons of galvanized pipe to Venezuela.

The pipe, valued in the United States at $50,000, carries a $100,000 valuation in the Latin-American country, it was said.

Moorefield, special agent of the Office of International Trade's Enforcement Bureau in the Commerce Department, contacted FBI agents, who arrested Lokpez and Feldman as they were turning the money over to Moorefield near his home at 4221 45th st. nw., Wednesday night.

Further hearing on the charges is to be held August 26. The men are under $2500 bond.

Beneath Pacific

Earthquakes Made by Man Probe for Oil

Santa Barbara, Calif., Aug. 19 (AP).—Three oil companies are engaged in an exciting gamble off the Santa Barbara coast, using man-made earthquakes in an effort to find vast new sources of petroleum for fuel-hungry America.

Dull reverberations of a potent new explosive called EP-126 (Nitrocarbonate) create shock waves as deep as 15,000 feet below the ocean botton. Never before has man sought to pump oil from rock cavities underlying the open sea itself.

The venture is costing Shell, Union and Continental Oil Companies $2500 a day.

On October 1, 13 concerns will pool their resources for a risky survey of the submerged land. If the analysis shows oil does exist under the floor of the Pacific, an even tougher problem lies ahead, that of extracting the fuel.

Lid Is Clamped on Easy Credit Purchases

medical, dental, hospital, educational, and funeral expenses; loans for real estate and home improvement; credit for the purchase of stocks and bonds; loans to pay for fire and casualty insurance; business or agricultural loans; credit to dealers and salesmen to purchase goods for resale; credit to churches, hospitals, schools and other religious, charitable or educational institutions; and any credit under the Government's rehabilitation and readjustment programs.

The 20 per cent down payment applies to these 11 classes of goods:

Cooking stoves, dishwashers, ironers, refrigerators, washing machines, combination ironer-washers, air conditioners, radio and television sets and phonographs, sewing machines, suction cleaners and furniture, and soft-surface floor coverings.

The following goods, at one time under credit control but dropped before last November, remain exempt: jewelry, silverware, pianos and other musical instruments.

"It is not our purpose to create an engine of deflation," a board spokesman said, "but to slow down the rate of credit expansion."

The rapid growth of consumer credit in the last year has alarmed officials. It has reached a record peak of $14,200,000,000.

The inflationary impact is shown, the board spokesman said, by the fact that installment credit jumped 55 per cent last year while the output of durable goods expanded only one-third, the result being more dollars bidding up the available supply of consumer goods.

When the regulation expired last November, the spokesman said, business sentiment was divided about 50-50 on whether it should be kept. Now the business sentiment as it reaches the board is "overwhelmingly" in favor of control, he said.

Down Payments Up

The old regulation specified one third down for such items as refrigerators, washing machines and ironers; these now are subject to only a 20 per cent first payment.

Installment credit controls for home improvements, including those insured by the Federal Housing Administration have been left out. But "because of the current inflationary situation," the Board said, study is being given to the possibility of reviving control in this field. Here also, the board will give the public a chance to be heard before it acts.

Personal loans obtained from a bank or other lending institution are subject only to the maturity requirements; that is, they must be paid off within 15 or 18 months, depending on the size of the loan; and, if more than $1000, monthly payments may not be less than $70.

The $70 limitation was inserted to avoid an obvious discrepancy. Without it, the borrower of $1001 ment than the borrower of $999.

To eliminate the likelihood that some persons wishing to buy a television set might borrow the money from a bank instead of making a direct contract with the dealer—and thus avoid the down-payment—the board spokesman said bank borrowers will be required to state that they will not use the funds to violate Regulation W.

The regulation may prove too severe or too lenient to effect its purpose, the spokesman said. The board will watch the results, he explained, and make such ammendments as prove necessary.

The other half of the GOP anti-inflation law—regulation of bank credit—will not be brought into play in the immediate future, the spokesman said. The act gives the Federal Reserve power to increase the reserves which banks must hold against their deposits.

Expires Next June

The new regulation remains in force until the new law expires next June 30.

"Pay-away" plans offered by many department and other stores are recognized by the regulations. A purchaser who makes one or more payments on an article before taking deliver, need not pay the full required down payment at the start of the plan. But his payments must add up to the required 20 per cent before he can take delivery.

When an article is delivered "on approval" in anticipation of an installment sale, the merchant must obtain a deposit, at or before the time of delivery, equal to the down payment that would be required.

Porter Quit Inflation Job; Truman Lauds Him for Effort

Paul A. Porter, who was drafted by President Truman several weeks ago to "sell" the Administration's anti-inflation program to Congress, went back to his private law business yesterday.

Porter

The President announced that he has accepted Porter's resignation as a temporary special assistant.

He said the former OPA administrator did a good job in presenting the anti-inflation program to Congress, even though the lawmakers didn't give him the kind of program he wanted.

"The record has been clarified and the questions it raises are now a matter for the people to decide," Mr. Truman said.

Porter assured the President that he is going to continue talking about prices as a private citizen and "do all that I can between now and November to make the issues clear."

Money in Trade Drops $260 Million in Year

By The Associated Press

Money in circulation increased 13 million dollars in the week ended August 18, the Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday.

That made the total outstanding $27,979,000,000, which is 260 million dollars less than a year ago.

Marseille Transit Strike

Marseille, France, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—This seaport city went without bus and trolley service today as transport workers staged a 24-hour protest strike to demand a 20 per cent wage increase and bonuses.

Butter Prices Cheaper but New Hike Seen

Butter prices here were 4 to 6 cents a pound cheaper yesterday, with indications the next price change may be upward.

Margarine, too, followed the butter price drop, selling generally here yesterday at 2 cents a pound less than last week.

The declines followed by a few days a series of price reductions in the wholesale butter marts which totaled 6 cents a pound. Yesterday, however, wholesale butter prices rose 1 cent, indicating the end of a decline attributed to large storage stocks of the commodity.

One chain store here yesterday was selling top grade butter at 83 cents and country roll quality at 79 cents, in contrast to 87 and 85 cents, respectively, charged before the market break. Another large chain reduced its prices 2 cents a pound under prices charged on Wednesday.

Primate Cancels Hungarian Fete

Budapest, Aug. 19.—The Hungarian regime charged tonight that Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, Primate of Hungary, had canceled the nation's "most important" religious event Friday in order to arouse anti-Communist feeling in the West.

In a strongly worded denunciation of the Roman Catholic Primate, the Hungarian Ministry of Foreign Affairs denied causing the church to call off the centuries-old St. Stephen's Day procession, held annually in Budapest on August 20. The church charged Tuesday the Communist government sabotaged the procession by scheduling other public events for the same day.

Crouch Named Warner Bros. Zone Manager

George A. Crouch yesterday was named as the new zone manager for the Warner Brothers Theater Circuit in the Washington territory, succeeding the late John J. Payette.

Crouch

His appointment was announced by Harry Kalmine, president and general manager of the circuit.

Crouch, who was chief booker and assistant to Payette, started in the motion picture field in 1908 with the late Harry M. Crandall, then operating an open-air theater.

In 1913, when Crandall opened the first downtown picture theater, the Joy, at 9th and E sts. nw., Crouch became treasurer and office manager. Later he was purchasing agent and booker.

When Crandall merged with the Stanley Corp. of America in 1923 and later with Warner Brothers, Crouch was retained as booker. When the Washington circuit expanded to take in portions of Maryland and Virginia, Crouch was made chief booker and assistant to Payette.

Crouch is a native Washingtonian, born here August 8, 1893. He is a widower and resides with his daughter, Miss Mary C. Crouch, at 1207 Quincy st. nw.

He has three other daughters, married and living in this area. They are Mrs. John Lawless of 806 Delafield st. ne.; Mrs. Alexander M. Dapolito of 2809 S. 9th st., Arlington, and Mrs. Raymond Messick of 8009 Eastern ave., Silver Spring.

Gangsters Kill Wrong Man in Hollywood

Hollywood, Aug. 19 (AP).—In typical gangland fashion, one man was slain and two others wounded last night in a new business building a few steps from fashionable Sunset Strip.

But the apparent target of the shotgun and pistol-packing assassins escaped because he was washing his hands.

Michael (Mickey) Cohen, 34, man-about-Hollywood and long a figure in the sporting world, told sheriff's officers: "They were out to get me."

Instead they shot and killed Harry Rothman, 36, who looks a lot like Cohen, and critically wounded Harry (Slick) Snyder, 36. Still another occupant of the room, who told police they were all watching a television show, was wounded in the cheek. He is James E. Rist, 37.

Cohen, Rist, and two other associates, Sol Davis, 42, and Meyer Horowitz, 54, were booked on suspicion of murder. But sheriff's officers said they merely want them handy for questioning.

Eight hours later, the District Attorney's office said there was no evidence to support issuance of murder complaints, and the four were freed. They were handed subpenas to a coroner's inquest Tuesday.

Detectives said that they had made no real progress in identifying a trio of gunmen who stepped into Cohen's brand-new office and started shooting. Cohen was in an adjacent washroom at the moment.

More than a dozen .12 gauge shotgun shells were found in the office, together with several revolver slugs. Cohen said he had leased the new two-story building and was planning to start a haberdashery.

Dewey Presses St. Lawrence Power Plan

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19 (U.P.)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey demanded today that the Federal Government speed approval of a plan under which a 300-million-dollar St. Lawrence River power development would be authorized as a joint venture of New York and Ontario.

In a letter to the Federal Power Commission, the Republican presidential candidate said the vast hydroelectric development was "urgent and vital" both for power and national defense.

"The application for the development of hydroelectric power should be processed without delay and only with the reservation that nothing will be done that will hamper the fullest development of the seaway," Dewey wrote.

The commission will open public hearings soon on the project, it was announced later.

Dance for Servicemen

The Special Services Division of the Military District of Washington will hold a picnic-dance for servicemen Friday night at Ravenwood Inn, Va. Government girls and Congressional secretaries who have been invited are asked to call CO. 0735 to check on free transportation.

Part of Boy's Term Cost Put on Parents

The parents of a 14-year-old East Riverdale, Md., boy in St. Mary's Industrial School for unauthorized use of an automobile were ordered yesterday to pay $30 a month toward the boy's support as long as he remains in the institution.

The directive was issued by Judge Arthur P. Owens in Prince Georges Juvenile Court at Hyattsville. The judge found the parents innocent of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, which had been based on their admission that they had signed an affidavit more than a year ago that the boy was over 17 years of age. The affidavit was to permit him to enlist in the Army.

According to probation officials, the boy served eight months in the Army but was returned to civilian life when Army authorities learned his actual age while investigating an auto theft. The boy was arrested last Sunday for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, and the parents were charged.

In dismissing the delinquency charge against the parents, Judge Owens said he felt any action against them for falsifying the youth's age should be pressed by the Army.

He ordered them to pay the boy's support in the industrial school, however, in line with a new court policy of requiring parents to pay partial support when "parental negligence is obviously responsible for juvenile offenses."

Court officials declined to name the parents on the ground that it would identify the juvenile.

Harris & Ewing

LILI KATHLEEN COCKERILLE, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cockerille of Merry-Go-Round, Va., was named the July "Child of the Month" by judges in the contest sponsored by Harris & Ewing, Washington photographers. An oil painting on canvas will be awarded to child chosen as the most outstanding of the summer season

Uhler Will Head Community Chest Drive in Fairfax

Edward K. Uhler of Annandale, Va., will head the 1949 Community Chest campaign in Fairfax County, it was announced yesterday.

Appointment of Uhler as regional general chairman was announced by Malcolm Smith, president of the Fairfax Chest, who also reported that Berwyn Babson of Willow Creek Farm will serve as special gifts chairman for the campaign. The campaign starts September 30.

Babson, who served in the 1948 campaign, is executive secretary of the Forestville Horse Show Association. Uhler is a member of the Fairfax Chest's executive committee and of the Federation budget committee. He is active also in other civic activities.

Truman Leaves Today for 9-Day Cruise on Yacht

President Truman leaves at 2 p. m. today for a nine-day vacation cruise on his yacht, the Williamsburg.

Accompanied only by his staff, he will sail down the Potomac, up Chesapeake Bay, through a canal to the Delaware Bay, then down the coast to Hampton Roads, Va.

From there he will return to Washington via Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac. He is scheduled to return to the White House Sunday, August 29.

Mr. Truman does not plan to leave the ship en route. He is expected to spend his time resting and making preparations for campaign speeches.

Shaw Has New Idea for Ending War Rumors

London, Aug. 19 (AP).—George Bernard Shaw came up today with a suggestion for scotching war jitters: Produce a brand new political dictionary of common words "to clear our heads."

"The matter is extremely urgent," the ancient bard asserted, "for the present confusion of tongues is heading straight for war, which none of the powers can afford and nobody desires."

Shaw set forth his views in a letter to the Times of London.

The playwright's appeal—that's what he called it—was addressed specifically to the British government. It asked for the appointment of a parliamentary committee "to settle our political nomenclature."

But, in true Shavian manner, it had a global aim. Patently he meant that all nations might profit by the kind of dictionary he has in mind.

"Until we clear up our political nomenclature," Shaw wrote, "our political oratory and journalism can come to nothing but the pot calling the kettle black, without either of them knowing what they are talking about."

Referring to the present differences between Russia and the western powers, Shaw insisted that "negotiation is impossible unless the parties use the same words for the same things and understand what the words mean. The present babel threatens a war that nobody wants countered by a flood of conscientious objection from those who think their rulers are backing the wrong horse . . ."

Just Strummin' on Her Ol' Banjo

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

NO BE-BOPPER—Mrs. Florence Cheek Fowler of Chattanooga, Tenn., was cleared in court yesterday of a disorderly conduct charge. She was arrested the night before when neighbors complained she was playing her banjo too loud and too long. Mrs. Fowler is 81

Truman Aid Asked in CTC Fare Dispute

President Truman was asked yesterday to intervene in the pending request by the Capital Transit Co. for a fare incease.

The request was made in a telegram sent by the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection, one of the interveners in the controversy-ridden case.

The wire declared that the District Public Utilities Commission, now studying testimony preliminary to final argument by opposing attorneys, refused to give "a full or fair hearing" on the matter.

It charged that the PUC had "allowed" CTC "to delay a rate reduction case for two years," but had refused to grant time "to secure experts to counteract" claims of the CTC and PUC experts.

The committee asked the President to direct the commission to reopen the case "to investigate impartially the charges that the company discriminates against large minority groups as to service and that you also make available to use technical experts from appropriate Federal agencies or to make funds available for such employment."

The White House press section reported the telegram had been forwarded to the Justice Department, but there was no indication of any action. PUC Chairman James H. Flannagan was out of town on vacation, and his associate, Commissioner James W. Lauderdale, declined comment.

Columbia Gives 'Iolanthe' at Sylvan Tonight

The Columbia Opera Company will present "Iolanthe" at 8 p. m. today and "The Mikado" Saturday night at the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument grounds.

Harry Crow, baritone, veteran performer with the troupe, will sing the role of the Chancellor in "Iolanthe" tonight, and the title role of the "Mikado" Saturday. Amelia Shorday will portray Iolanthe; Catherine Emery will sing Yum Yum in "The Mikado."

Included in tonight's cast are Maria de la Hull as Phyllis the Shepherdess, Connie Drueger as the Fairy Queen, Miss Emery as Celia, Inge Deinzer as Lelia, Mary Vagnoni as Fleta, Richard Nessul as Strephon, Ches DiMaggio as Earl Tolloler, Stuart McKinstry as Early Mountarart and Kenneth Grafton as Private Willis. Tickets are on sale at 819 13th st. nw.

U. S. Considering Loan to Palestine, Truman Asserts

President Truman said yesterday that the United States Government is considering a $100,000,000 loan to Palestine, but has not yet reached a decision.

If the loan is made to the new Jewish state, it will be handled by the Export-Import Bank.

Mr. Truman again said that American troops will not be sent to Palestine as such. He added, however, that if the United Nations sees fit to order a police force for the Holy Land, this country will furnish its share of troops.

DAV Urges Increase Of 25 Pct. in Benefits

New York, Aug. 19 (AP).—The Disabled American Veterans today urged a 25 per cent cost-of-living increase in all pension and compensation benefits for disabled veterans.

The national convention also adopted a resolution calling for minimum payment of $5000 insurance to dependents of veterans who died while prisoners of war.

The convention defeated a resolution on a bonus payment by the Federal Government on the ground that needs of disabled veterans should come first.

Group to Crown Queen

Training Refugees

It is probable that the experience of Marian Zielezinski, a Polish refugee who went to work three months ago as a hired hand on a Virginia farm and found himself unable to cope with modern American farm machinery, will prove by no means an uncommon one as European displaced persons move to these shores in considerable numbers. Mr. Zielezinski with his wife and two infant children were given a five-room house and $100 a month by Paul E. Rhinehart who with his sons operates a large, modern farm near Vienna, Va. The arrangement has not worked out satisfactorily, according to Mr. Rhinehart. He says that his refugee farmhand has been unable to switch from Old World farming methods to the operation of American machinery, that he hasn't learned to drive a truck or a tractor or to manage a hay baler and that, in short, he has proved a loss to the farm. Mr. Rhinehart is a businessman; he proposes to cut his farmhand's pay to $40 a month.

There has been no want of effort on Mr. Zielezinski's part. He has worked industriously from 6:30 in the morning to 7 o'clock at night. His pay, even at $100 a month, was not sufficient to attract American-born farmhands to so arduous a job. No doubt language difficulties played a large part in his apparent inability to learn techniques which seem easy and natural to most Americans; he speaks virtually no English at all. Moreover, his life in the past few years has been spent almost entirely in concentration camps, labor battalions and DP centers.

It is true, no doubt, that youngsters in this country are more mechanically minded and have much more familiarity with complicated machinery than youths reared in the less industriously advanced countries of Europe. But it would be a mistake to conclude from this that the DP's in general are devoid of mechanical aptitude or that they are incapable of learning modern methods of agriculture or of industry as well for that matter. The whole record of immigrant adaptation to American life belies that conclusion.

What is obviously needed in this situation is aid to the immigrants in making an adjustment, technological training in particular. Immigrant-aid organizations such as the Service for New Americans ought to interest themselves vigorously in the promotion of such training. The Displaced Persons Commission ought to assist in the provision of training facilities. The Zielezinskis of the Old World can be made into very great assets to the New. Some intelligent patience and generosity in dealing with them is certain to prove rewarding on economic as well as on humanitarian grounds.

Spinster Classes

An authority on the American spinster, Mrs. Dorothy Yost Deegan, is now proposing that schools have special courses to prepare women for going it alone through life. Mrs. Deegan, who won the Pi Lambda Theta award last year for her study of the spinster in American fiction, is disturbed because the increasing courses in family relations ignore the spinster's role. She points out that girls are trained to be wives and mothers, but given no preparation for a lonely life in a studio apartment. Writing in the Journal of the American Association of University Women, she proposes that girls while in school be directed into vocations that will give them emotional satisfaction whether they marry or not. She would have them trained in human relations, in techniques of group participation, and in social skills that will help them to become satisfied and self-confident women. She would also put frankly before them the possibility that Mr. Right was not inevitably around the corner with a wedding ring.

Mrs. Deegan admits this approach might cause many girls to work that much harder to get married. Even so, she insists, there will be many who will not marry. However, according to the Institute of Life Insurance, the proportion of both spinsters and bachelors has been steadily decreasing and is now at its lowest ratio since 1890. On this basis some optimists predict that by 1964 nearly everyone between 20 and 45 will be married. While there are now more women than men in this country, yet the disparity is chiefly in the upper age brackets, except for the dent made by war casualties. And as the Institute point out, girls are marrying younger every year, while divorcees and older women have also succumbed to the marrying trend. This booming marriage business it attributes largely to prosperity and high employment. Hence it seems likely that courses in spinsterhood wouldn't get any big enrollment now. They may have to wait for that "big bust."

Bipartisan

In the maintenance of the unwritten compact to keep current foreign policy out of politics, the Republicans on the whole have behaved magnificently, often under great provocation. Clearly the price of Republican support is close consultation with the Republicans on issues as they arise in the Nation's diplomacy. This has not always been forthcoming. Occasionally, indeed, the Administration behaves as if it had a blank check from the Republicans. Sometimes they are consulted, sometimes they are ignored, sometimes they are given half the story; but always they are expected to approve.

Noncooperation on the Administration side may be noted on the 65-million-dollar loan to the United Nations, where the Administration refused to consider Senator Vandenberg's suggestion of a token contribution from other member nations; on the wheat agreement, where the Administration added insult to injury by blasting the Senate's alleged irresponsibility after a belated and half-prepared presentation of the agreement; on the Berlin crisis, where the Republicans had been given only a vague idea of the policy in London which wound up in the proposal for a west German government. Yet there hasn't been any public grumbling to speak of on the part of Republican leaders. The emphasis, on the contrary, has been on unity. The story is current, for instance, that Senator Vandenberg, who must now be given credit as the architect of a national policy on foreign affairs, said to some of his colleagues who thought that the Administration ought to be taken to task on policy leading up to Berlin, "but that would be a kind of treason in these parlous times, wouldn't it?" It is gratifying that in this respect Governor Dewey sees eye to eye with Senator Vandenberg.

Human nature is bound occasionally, however, to burst the inter-party bond. Such an occasion was Governor Dewey's intervention in the delicate discussions among the deputies of the foreign ministers which are going on in London on the future of the Italian colonies. The deadline is September 15, when, if the powers have not come to a decision, the issue will go to the General Assembly for determination. It was unfortunate, in view of these circumstances, that the Republican candidate, speaking to a delegation of Italo-Americans, should come out for retrocession of the colonies to Italy. We cannot think for a moment that this is the policy that the United States is advancing in London. Certainly one or other colony should go to Italy, but the disposition of Libya is a vital decision which must be considered in the twin light of the responsibility owed to the inhabitants and the strategical complex of the Middle East.

Governor Dewey talks about the African colonies as if restoration would aid the Italian people. Actually they have never been self-supporting, and in pre-Republican days were a great burden on the Italian exchequer. If the colonies were returned to Italy, the responsibility would be equally expensive and onerous; possibly, in view of Italy's present poverty, crushing. Nor can the feelings of the inhabitants be ignored. In Libya, in particular, the people are bitterly anti-Italian, having nothing but a bad memory of the cruelties of Mussolini and his pro-consuls. They cannot forget such things as the dropping of a sheik from an airplane by way of punishment for some nonconformity or other. The hatred is most marked in that part of Libya known as Cyrenaica, which abuts upon Egypt, and which contains the two ports made famous during the war, Tobruk and Bengasi. Here is where the fierce Senussi live. The British, who are the present administering power, were able to pacify the Senussi only by declaring in 1942 that they were as "determined that at the end of the war the Senussi in Cyrenaica will in no circumstances again fall under Italian domination."

The simplest thing in respect of Cyrenaica would be to leave the present status untouched. The whole quadrilateral of the Eastern Mediterranean, with Greece and Turkey on the north, Israel on the east, and Cyrenaica on the south, is of the utmost significance strategically, especially in view of the virtual prostration of Egypt. Here is where three continents meet. Here is where the oil of the Middle East must be safeguarded, and, if lost, the place from which they would be recaptured. The situation, in short, is by no means as simple as Governor Dewey made out, and his intervention is to be regretted, for no more Yalta mistakes in policy can be afforded. As we say, the self-sacrifice that is imposed upon the Republicans by the nonpartisan policy is pretty demanding, but the national interest calls for it. Doubtless the policy will run into shoals during the campaigning, but the prayer of most Americans in these hair-trigger days will be that by and large politics will be kept this side of the water's edge.

Red Danube

Add the new Danubian Convention to the list of violations of international engagements to which the Soviet Union is party. Free navigation on this 1750-mile waterway, as well as a new international administration, is pledged in the peace treaties with the satellite powers. The new Belgrade instrument makes the Danube the monopoly of the Soviet bloc with which all users of the river must make separate and individual agreements. The new convention disregards the rights enjoyed under preexisting treaties. It leaves out of account Germany and Austria, two of the riparian nations, who may or may not be incorporated later on, at the discretion of the signatories. It ignores, as Secretary Marshall says, the whole concept of free navigation on international rivers which has been the public law of Europe since the French Revolution. Thus the Danube has been killed as a unifier of East and West, and the Soviet Union has served notice on the world that eastern Europe is a Soviet preserve.

The effect on the Marshall Plan of this rejection of an all-European international system for the Danube is likely to be extremely adverse. The river used to be alive with commerce. Not only is it now empty, it is severed about 250 miles from its source in the Black Forest, viz., at Austria's Linz, with the Russians in control of the lower Danube. It is likely that the lack of safeguards and of freedom will keep the fleet of river boats now tied up at Linz in the upper reaches. Vishinsky, who ran this conference with a whip, was contemptuous of negotiations, and the draft he brought to Belgrade became the convention, even down to the commas. Secretary Marshall's statement is a blistering protest against the Soviet diktat. It is useful for the record, and serves as a reminder that conferences in which the Soviet can call the tune are simply rubber stamps for Soviet policy.

Confrontation

Having very belatedly brought Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers face to face, the Un-American Activities Committee has obtained from the former what Representative Nixon calls an "admission" that he knew the latter 13 years ago as George Crosley. Although Mr. Nixon did not so refer to it, this identification also amounts to an accusation. Mr. Hiss has accused the man now known as Whittaker Chambers and formerly known, according to his own admission, as "Carl" of having used the additional alias of George Crosley—which Mr. Chambers denies—and of having defaulted on the payment of rent due for an apartment leased to him by Mr. Hiss.

Whether or not Mr. Hiss should have been able to identify as George Crosley a picture taken 13 years after he last saw that person and represented to him as a picture of Whittaker Chambers is a matter for individual judgment. If he knew the picture as that of Crosley, he should have said so, but there is room here, certainly, for an understandable failure of human memory. Photographs are not always thoroughly reliable likenesses—especially when their subject has aged appreciably and put on considerable weight. One point, however, ought to be indisputably clear from this situation: direct confrontation is the only dependable means of identification. The Un-American Activities Committee should have employed this means at the outset—and before permitting accusations to be made against anybody in public.

Whether the committee, when it stages its formal and long-heralded confrontation scene next Wednesday, proposes to determine where the truth lies between the conflicting affirmations of Mr. Whittaker and Mr. Hiss by resort to compurgation, ordeal by fire, trial by battle, divination or some other occult inspiration, or, as has been suggested, by employment of a "lie detector," its verdict is little likely to satisfy the public curiosity which the committee has so successfully excited. What it appears to be planning is not confrontation in any true sense of the term. Confrontation implies opportunity for the accused to cross-examine his accuser. Lacking this opportunity, it becomes meaningless, for men may contradict one another face to face as well as when they are apart. A grand jury is the proper instrument under the American judicial system to determine which of the witnesses committed perjury.

The committee's impartiality in this matter is, moreover, extremely suspect, though the essence of the American system is that a man is innocent until he is proved guilty. "If it develops that Chambers was wrong and that he did not know Hiss or visit his home," one member of the committee confided to newsmen privately last week, "then one of our main props has been knocked out from under us. If it turns out that Hiss has not told the truth, then our main witness is vindicated and our case stands up." The committee, in short, has a very considerable investment in Mr. Chambers, whom it refers to as "our witness" and depends upon to win "our case." This is not so much investigation as prosecution.

The attitude of the committee was additionally indicated in a bit of brooding soliloquy by Congressman Mundt following the testimony of Donald Hiss on Friday. "If it develops that Mr. Chambers' testimony is false," remarked this member of the committee, "then . . . some highly impelling motive must have activated a man of such high responsibility, great standing, and who has made a significant success of his career to launch such charges against people like you and your brother, Alger." The italics have been supplied here to point out a prevailing tendency on the part of committee members to canonize confessed sinners.

Mr. Chambers may or may not have told the truth in his testimony before the committee. But the fact is that, by his own admission, he used to be a member of the Communist Party and thus a person who regularly resorted to and justified concealment, duplicity and deception in furtherance of the party's purposes. It is true that he appears, since that time, to have achieved some degree of financial success. But one wonders whether his career as a whole really merits such a congressional encomium. And one wonders why the testimony of turncoats should be preferred to that of men whose reputations are otherwise unsullied and who have enjoyed the full confidence of many of the most eminent Americans in private and in public life.

Letters To The Editor

Communications must be addressed to the editor and must carry the complete name and street address of the writer, though pen names will be permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. No communication can be returned.

Theater For Washington

The August 17 letter of Mr. J. G. Frain indeed raises the question: "Why should Washington have to plead for a suitable theater for the presentation of legitimate plays?" It is to be regretted that this city, which represents and maintains much of the cultural aspects demonstrative of our Nation, should not have representation of drama during the normal theatrical season when lesser communities throughout the country are encouraging, developing and promoting the arts.

If, as intimated, Article II, Section 3, Public Law 425, Seventy-seventh Congress, is to be interpreted as this layman would interpret it, then action should be taken, by such a committee as M. Frain proposes, to see that those citizens of Washington interested in maintaining the arts are not to face discouragement, disillusion and the loss of the theater itself.

The passing of the National is in itself shocking but the lack of encouragement toward creation of a new auditorium or theater to continue ballet and drama, to enliven interest in worthwhile arts, to promote cultural interests in a city that is known and recognized for its culture, is inexcusable.

Atheists On The Radio

I was much concerned about the story in the August 16 Washington Post titled, "Churches Challenge FCC Rule Giving Atheists Radio Time."

Can it be that in this free country of ours, founded in large part by those who escaped the countries in which the tyranny of conscience was firmly entrenched, the descendants of those men and women are to be encouraged in instituting a tyranny of their own?

Do they fear that a world of "atheistic materialism"—as they describe it, would bring us nearer extinction than their world of "Christian benevolence," which has operated for 2000 years?

Or can it mean, rather, that their postulate of belief is so weak that they dare not permit an airing of the contrary point of view?

Let us hope for self-evident reasons that the day will never come in this country of ours when such tyranny may assume the ascendancy, and may we accept as a catechism of freedom the powerful words of Voltaire, "I disagree with everything you say, but I will fight to the death for your right to say them." Such was the principle upon which our country was founded!

Faith In U. N.

The recent development of war hysteria and U. N. failures has led many people to believe that the only solution to our present situation is declaring war on Russia. It is quite obvious that these people have forgotten too soon the countless number of lives lost and billions of dollars worth of property destroyed during World Wars I and II.

We must continue to work for peace for which so many fought, bled and died. This peace cannot be sufficiently secured by eliminating Russia from the U. N. no more so than did the League of Nations succeed without Germany, Italy and Japan.

The salvation of the world lies in the contents of the U. N. Charter and because of recent technological developments in modern warfare, it becomes not only essential but imperative that these contents become a reality if peace is to be preserved and if civilization is to be saved.

Economic Freedom

Economic freedom in the United States was never at a lower ebb than it is today. So slow and indifferent have become the economic steps of freedom in this land of abundance, that they may well be said to have turned backward. I realize, of course, that economic conditions are much worse in many quarters of the world than in the United States, but, because this is true, I cannot condone American monopoly and enterprise for impoverishing millions of our every-day workers.

We need stronger law and order in our framework to safeguard our economic system against the strangling dominance of monopoly.

Defense Of Draft

I want to express my appreciation of the August 15 letter signed by Mary H. Bree on defense of the draft.

The founding fathers of our country and our ancestors have bequeathed to us the priceless privilege of living in and being citizens of this wonderful country. The United States did not reach its present status by accident but it was created by the unremitting effort and toil of those who have preceded us and who knew that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

Judging only by Mrs. Bree's letter, I believe that she definitely knows that our country can remain great only through the patriotic and ceaseless toil of its citizens at all times.

Transient Service

The August 13 letter from R. E. W. in regard to transit service expresses a point which has needed attention for many months—it seems that the schedules of the buses are arranged so that it is impossible to make a transfer without waiting the maximum period. The route which I have to use frequently is an excellent example. The T-8 bus arrives at the Wisconsin ave. and Western ave. terminal just one minute after the M-2 is scheduled to depart for 14th and Colorado. Invariably the T-8 arrives in time to see the M-2 depart, but never in time for one to make the transfer. Then, of course, it is necessary to wait 20 minutes for the next M-2. The schedule of the Takoma bus which leaves the 14th and Colorado terminal is arranged so that it isn't possible to transfer there without a delay, but the schedule is more frequent and even though the M-2 arrives to see one depart, the wait for the next one is 10 minutes.

It is noticed that the company employs checkers who are stationed at various points to count the various passengers in cars and buses, and the number boarding and alighting. Why not have checkers at the various terminals to count the number of people waiting for the bus they arrived in time to see depart.

H. J. M.
Washington.

In re transit service, I thoroughly agree with the statements made by R. E. W.

The transit company should also examine its schedules of suburban lines. The Alta Vista bus is scheduled to arrive at the Wisconsin ave. terminal just in perfect time to see the M-2 Military rd. bus depart for the 14th and Colorado terminal. There is a 20-minute wait for the next M-2 bus. It does seem that there could be improved timing at terminal centers. V. M. B.

Navy And The Berlin Air Lift

In his August 15 column, Drew Pearson, discussing the Berlin air lift (Operation Vittles), charged the Navy with obstructionist tactics because the Mars flying boats—largest cargo carrying aircraft in the armed services—are not being used to help break the Russian blockade.

". . . the Navy," said Mr. Pearson, "might get a little practice at unification by augmenting the Army over Berlin." Mr. Pearson's conclusion was based on somewhat fewer than all the facts.

In the first place, it is understood that the decision to institute "Operation Vittles" was made by the National Security Council, an organization of the Unification Act of 1947, and of which the Joint Chiefs of Staff are members. The Air Force was ordered to operate the airlift. No participation in this mission was assigned the Navy. Both the Security Council and the USAF know the Navy has the Mars flying boats; both are fully aware of the capacity and capabilities of these aircraft. If those in charge of operating the Berlin air lift feel that the Mars flying boats are needed in the operation, it may be assumed that a squiggle of a pen could place those craft in operation.

In the second place, the Navy is supporting the Berlin air lift, both directly and indirectly. Direct Navy support of "Operation Vittles" is the responsibility of the Navy component of the Military Air Transport Service. Highly trained Navy crews are flying C-54's over the Atlantic to Frankfurt where they are unloaded and turned around. For reasons known only to the Air Force, no Navy planes are permitted to enter Berlin, although the experience would provide it valuable training for the Navy pilots and crewmen.

The Mars flying boats are supporting "Operation Vittles" indirectly. These seaplanes are currently in the over-all military air transport pool, used in support of the three armed services. They operate between the West Coast and Honolulu, where they are an important factor in supporting MacArthur and the Far Eastern forces. With Korea divided against itself, with a shooting war against the Communists in progress in China, none can deny the importance of this theater, even though, at the moment, Berlin appears to be the critical spot where war and peace may be decided. Coincident with the withdrawal of other air lift from existing routes, in order to provide additional aircraft for "Operation Vittles" the lift of these flying boats on the West Coast-Honolulu run became increasingly important to the national security. Moveover, the Mars, as a substitute for many times its own number of C-54's, is a far more useful aircraft on the long over-water hop in the Pacific.

Whatever the reason why the Navy's aircraft are not permitted by the Air Force to enter Berlin, it is logical to assume the same reason applies to the Air Force's failure to take advantage of the Mars flying boats, capable of carrying far greater loads on proportionately less gasoline and the C-54's. Furthermore, as Pearson reported, these seaplanes could land in Berlin.

Calling Washington

Idaho's Glen Taylor

This is the fourth in a series of articles on the West.

McCALL, IDAHO—In this election year Idaho has a vice presidential candidate in Senator Glen H. Taylor, the running mate of Henry A. Wallace on the Progressive Party ticket. Fantastic, incredible, amazing are some of the adjectives applied by political commentators to Taylor's theatrical performances before big-city audiences in the East.

But here in his home State they are not amazed or surprised. Taylor is acting perfectly in character in everything he has said and done.

In some respects he is a very special case. As a frustrated, intensely ambitious, headline-seeking individual, he would deserve little attention. In some ways, however, he represents a type not uncommon in the West and in this phase he deserves careful consideration and analysis.

TAYLOR IS primarily an actor with a large streak of ham in his make-up. The Taylor tent shows were a feature of Idaho small-town life before the war. Glen usually played the leads in stirring melodramas that brought cheers and hisses alternately from audiences.

His wife helped him and so did his children when they were old enough to walk. At the age of 3 the eldest son, Arod (that's Dora, the wife's name, spelled backward) used to come on in a Chinese costume and sing a song in Chinese or what passed for Chinese. Glen, himself, wearing a 10-gallon hat, would strum a guitar and sing cowboy and hillbilly songs.

To translate this crude showmanship into political terms was not difficult. In 1938 Taylor ran for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second District. He was defeated.

In 1940 he ran for the senatorial nomination. He was defeated. In 1944 he tried again, using the same tent-show technique and passing the hat to get funds for his campaign. This time he won the nomination and in November, with Roosevelt at the head of the ticket, he won again.

Apart from the guitar, Dora and Arod, Taylor's political stock in trade was a book. He talked about it at every opportunity. It was a kind of Bible to the yearning, ambitious, frustrated Taylor.

The book was King Gillette's The People's Corporation. All industry, so the book said, should be held by a giant corporation in which every citizen would be a stockholder. The proposal bears some resemblance to the corporative state of Italian fascism, although the concept is more naive and more primitive.

Taylor used to tell his audiences that under such a people's corporation "every man, woman and child in the United States would get $30,000 a year." At the same time the working day would be reduced to two hours.

The singing cowboy may even have believed this himself. In urging a people's corporation after the Gillette prescription, Taylor would at the same time assail the soulless interests in Wall Street, the monopolists and the greedy private corporations.

OUT WHERE THE West begins this has always been a powerful political line. It is grounded in the real grievances of the farmer and the rancher in the days before the Federal subsidy for agriculture. The railways, controlled by great corporations in distant cities, set the price the farmer got for his produce and he could take it or go hang.

Many radical movements have grown in the soil of this protest, fostered by angry denunciation of the soulless corporations. Taylor was plowing a field often exploited in the past.

Denunciation of "international bankers" and "soulless corporations" has a strong appeal for the rootless and the dispossessed; for those who are filled with resentment at seeing, or so they believe, even agriculture falling under the sway of the private corporation controlled by a few men in another part of the country.

In a sense Taylor is himself one of these dispossessed and rootless people. From denunciation of the international bankers it is just a step to the America First isolationism that Taylor expressed in his demagogic acceptance speech at Shibe Park in Philadelphia.

And here his kinship with the past is most striking. Taylor's isolationism differs only in degree from that of Idaho's statesman, the late great Senator William E. Borah. Borah, too, was known to talk of international bankers and their power.

On this same political wavelength you can pick up Colonel McCormick of the Chicago Tribune. In reality it is a far-reaching resentment of controls that seem to be imposed from afar. No one seems to believe that the Wallace-Taylor ticket will get many votes in this State. But in a less prosperous time Taylor's theme song might have a much greater appeal and that is the reason his performance is not to be laughed away.

Herblock is on vacation. His cartoons will be resumed upon his return.

Sychrava's Freedom

A Communication

I am sure that Dr. Lev Sychrava would feel deep concern over the discussion concerning his departure from Czechoslovakia in The Washington Post and, because of his devotion to truth and facts in his life's work as a newspaperman, would want the facts in his case made known to your readers.

We have been good friends since World War I when we fought for Czechoslovak independence together. We were in the small group of legionnaires that founded the Prague daily, Narodni Osvobozeni early in the 20s. I served on its editorial board during the time I was stationed in Prague while he was its editor in chief. I continued to contribute articles when I was out of Czechoslovakia. Our contact was interrupted during World War II, the years of which he spent in concentration camps. We took up our friendship in 1945 as if it had never been interrupted.

He was again the editor in chief of Narodni Osvobozeni. Because it was an independent newspaper, he had an excellent opportunity to express his truly liberal and progressive democratic views. He received the highest recognition possible to Czechoslovak editors when he won the Havlicek Prize, which is comparable to the Pulitzer Prize in the United States.

AS A CAPABLE and experienced newspaperman he was elected a member of the Subcommission on Freedom of Information and of the Press by the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations and played an important role in the subcommission as its vice president. He attended the last session of this subcommission at Lake Success in January and February of 1948 and returned to Czechoslovakia on February 25, the very day of the Communist coup d'etat. On February 26, he was suspended as editor of Narodni Osvobozeni by a Communist action committee led by Fierlinger and Vodicka, learning of it only through the press. He was refused a place in any capacity on the Czechoslovak delegation to the international conference on Freedom of Information and of the Press held in Geneva by the new Communist regime, although he had helped prepare the agenda and had made specific proposals which were to be discussed at the conference. The reason he was given by Mr. Clementis was—that he, Sychrava, was opposed to the Communist Czechoslovak regime.

At the end of May, realizing he could not continue in his life's work as an editor in Czechoslovakia and giving up hope of ever receiving any explanation of his suspension, he decided that he would leave his homeland and devote his energies and knowledge to promote international cooperation and peace, as member of the Subcommission on Freedom of Information and of the Press and as general secretary of the Preparatory Commission for the World Congress on Human Rights in London.

He had his valid passport with a valid British visa and left Czechoslovakia with it on May 31. It is certain that he was under surveillance, for he was arrested while crossing the boundary and questioned in jail for four days first in Karlovy Vary and then in Prague. The police questioned him at length about his reasons for leaving Czechoslovakia, his plans outside Czechoslovakia, his attitude toward the Communist February coup d'etat, his attitude toward the Czechoslovak exiles and his connection with President Benes whom he had visited on May 29.

He insisted that he left Czechoslovakia altogether legally, with valid documents prescribed by the Czechoslovak constitution and laws which permitted the free movement of citizens within and outside Czecoslovakia. He insisted that his was not a police case, but a political one and demanded to see the Minister of Interior, V. Nosek, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, V. Clementis.

ON JUNE 4, after signing a declaration that he would not leave Czechoslovakia without the consent of the Ministry of Interior and that he would not even make any effort for that purpose—also that he would report to the Ministry of Interior any proposition made to him to arrange for his leaving Czechoslovakia, he was set free.

It was then agreed that no publicity would be given to his attempt to leave.

He then requested audiences with Premier Gottwald, the Ministers V. Clementis, V. Nosek and V. Kopecky, and got them. He was offered a position which would have been equally remunerative as his editor's, but he would never be able to leave the country. Instead of accepting it, he asked for an exit stamp, which he considered illegal, and whose illegality he discussed with the above mentioned Communists. He spoke to them at length of his international connections in the United Nations, as general secretary of the World Congress on Human Rights, as honorary president of the International Veterans' Organ CIAMAC, and as president of the Czechoslovak RUP (peace campaign).

These arguments were weighty. Dr. Sychrava had been mentioned with concern in New York, Geneva, London and around the world, and Czechoslovakia's Communist Ministers were influenced by this publicity.

He was told at length that his duty lay at home, but when he insisted on leaving, he was offered a new passport. He refused to accept it, on the grounds that his old "special" passport, on which he had traveled to the United States twice and which had a valid British visa, was in order.

He received the now necessary but illegal exit stamp and left Czechoslovakia for London on June 26.

BECAUSE I KNOW his love and necessity for freedom, I am sure Dr. Lev Sychrava will not return to Czechoslovakia until that freedom and democracy have been restored which would allow him to work and write as before.

The "fact" that Dr. Weiskopf in his letter of August 11, cites as to President Gottwald's issuing "a most generous amnesty for criminal and political offenders of the law, excepting only black marketeers and Nazi collaborators" seems not a fact in view of the case of Gen. Karel Janousek, deputy chief of staff, and vice air marshal of the RAF during World War II. He was ousted from his position immediately after the February coup and tried to leave Czechoslovakia only to be caught. He was sentenced to life imprisonment, but the sentence was commuted to 18 years at hard labor. Certainly, General Janousek was neither a black marketeer nor a Nazi collaborator.

Dr. Weiskopf, who enjoys all freedoms including that of a German Communist addressing democratic Americans of Czech origin in Chicago by arrangement of one fellow-traveller, seems to have all the answers in the case of Dr. Sychrava. Perhaps he, who enjoys diplomatic immunity in the United States in preference to deportation to his own country, has had advantages of Communist training for a longer period than the older Czech counselor of the embassy who has known Dr. Sychrava personally for many years.

Former Czechoslovakian Representative to the United Nations.

Clarence Saunders Launches 'Juke-Box' Grocery Store

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 19 (AP).—Clarence Saunders started out today to create his second revolution and his third fortune in the grocery business. His weapon: a juke-box grocery store.

The man who installed self-service opened the new "Keedoozle," a store in which the customer never touches the merchandise and the clerks are electrical machines.

It's supposed to give quicker service to the customer at less cost to the operator, enabling him to reduce prices.

Saunders, 67, won and lost two fortunes in operating Piggly-Wiggly Stores and the "Clarence Saunders, Sole-Owner-of-My-Name" chain. He operated them on the then radical principle of self-service. He lost both chains.

He says other "Keedoozles" will be built throughout the country.

Briefly, it operates this way:

The customer is handed a key when he enters. The key holds a cylindrical roll of paper. The goods are behind glass. When the customer sees something he wants, he fits the key in a slot. The transaction is recorded on the paper in code.

After he finishes shopping the paper is given to the cashier and the bill is totaled. It then is handed to another worker who runs it through a machine which brings down the groceries the customer marked.

Heirless Printer's $116,000 Scheduled to Go to District

A District Court special master found yesterday that a $116,000 estate left by a Washington-born printer's helper here should go to the District of Columbia Government.

It is apparently the largest sum on record to go to the city by escheat—a legal process whereby the property of a person who dies without either will or heirs goes to the Government.

The estate is that of bachelor James L. Collins, who died in a rooming house here April 14, 1946, at the age of 79.

Since that time some 31 claimants have come into court swearing that they were related to Collins. Among them was a woman who claimed she was the daughter of the deceased. Another is a Catholic nun and another sent in a claim from Toronto, Canada.

All of their statements were found invalid by Theodore Cogswell, Register of Wills here who was appointed to decide the issues.

Only One Saw Him

Most of the claimants based their relationship on little more than that their surname is "Collins." Except for one woman the claimants admitted they had never seen Collins until after he died.

It is significant, Cogswell found, that nobody came in to ask for the estate until after a commercial radio program, Court of Missing Heirs, announced in October 1946 that $116,000 was available with no takers.

Collins was born at 425 Washington st. nw., October 19, 1867. He lived there as a youth until the residence was torn down to make way for the General Accounting Offices. He became a stonecutter and then a bartender. For 20 years, he was a printer's helper at the Government Printing Office and retired for age.

His frugality is attested by the size of the estate. His sole brother, Jeremiah J. Collins, a mail carrier, died March 13, 1944, leaving $44,000 to him.

In the declining years of their lives, the Collins brothers lived in a rooming house at 415 Massachusetts ave. nw., conducted by the late Mrs. Gloria Roberts. Jeremiah went blind and was cared by the brother in the rooming house.

Roy M. Perry, an intimate friend of the decedent, said that Mr. Collins was often told he should make a will, but "kept putting it off until he died suddenly."

After the court learned that the Collins' father was born in Ireland, a local attorney, Dennis Collins, was appointed by the court to make a thorough personal search of various counties of Ireland but found no valid claimants.

One witness said that she thought Collins had two sisters, both of whom died in childhood. That sent searchers to Mount Olivet Cemetery here where other members of the family are buried but the search was fruitless.

Benjamin F. Pullen of West Hamlin, W. Va., who claimed to be a cousin, stated he had no personal knowledge concerning the matter and thought he was a claimant only because his family told him he was. This testimony was "worthless and proved nothing," Cogswell said.

Rosa Grubbs of Erie, Pa., claimed that she was Mr. Collins' daughter. But, said Cogswell, if this is true Collins "would have been 15 years of age when she was born, thus making it necessary for him to have been married at the age of 14 years."

Also, Cogswell found no record that Mr. Collins ever married.

Few of the other persons wanting a slice of the estate ever came into court but they did send in affidavits.

Not even a snapshot of Mr. Collins was available, and thus the difficulty of positive relationships was made even more difficult.

Any persons having objection to Cogswell's findings have until September 7 to file exceptions. If none is filed, or if they are overruled, District Court will then approve the findings and turn over the money to the District government.

Under the law, the $116,000 would go into the Federal Treasury earmarked for the District. However, it could not be used without authority of Congress.

Soldier Is Guilty In Chaplain Death

Yokohama, Japan, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Pfc. William C. Manis, Church Hill, Tenn., today was found guilty of murdering Army Chaplain John Ryan, Philadelphia, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The sentence, delivered after eight hours' deliberation by an Army court-martial, is subject to review by the commander of the Eighth Army.

Manis, 19, was a cell block guard at Sugamo Prison. He was charged with shooting Ryan to death the night of April 5, 1948. The chief prosecution witness was a Japanese street girl who said she saw Manis shoot the Catholic chaplain. Manis denied the charges.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

The Case of Mrs. Smith: II

TRADITIONAL American liberties are precious to most of us. So is the security of the United States. Yet if our freedoms and our national security are to be intrusted to men like J. Parnell Thomas, or to such men as the bumbling politically illiterate accusers of Mrs. Ann Smith, then God help the United States.

Some of Mrs. Smith's recent experiences—by no means uncommon in Government service today—have already been too briefly reported in this space. It has been recounted how Mrs. Smith, a Navy clerk-stenographer in the Panama Canal Zone, was prevented from marrying Petty Officer Robert Jones; how she answered a remarkable questionnaire, and how, in March of this year, she was charged with disloyalty to her country.

Against the advice of the Navy legal officer, Mrs. Smith, a woman of considerable spirit, immediately demanded a hearing before the loyalty board of the Fifteenth Naval District. The transcript of this hearing is a distinctly disturbing document. It is not that the Navy officers and other officials concerned were brutal, Gestapo-minded men. They were nothing of the sort. The evidence suggests that they were merely stupid.

WHAT IS DISTURBING is that the hearing was quite obviously entirely meaningless. It was held ostensibly to give Mrs. Smith the opportunity to clear herself. But the record shows that she really had no chance at all to do so.

Most of the questioning, conducted by Comdr. Joe E. Munster, concerned certain radical outbursts which took place in the '30's on California campuses, while Mrs. Smith was going to college. This in itself raises the question whether having indulged years ago in left wing college shenanigans is really evidence of disloyalty to the United States.

At any rate, it came out at the hearing that the radical activities which had aroused the suspicion of Mrs. Smith's accusers had taken place at the University of California at Los Angeles. It also came out that Mrs. Smith had attended the University of Southern California, apparently a far more decorous institution than U. C. L. A. This being established, Commander Munster then asked hopefully, "Did you ever have occasion—did you ever drift over there (to U. C. L. A.) when one of these affairs was going on?" "No, I never," Mrs. Smith replied, and then nervously volunteered that she had belonged to the women's debate team in her freshman year.

The rest of the hearing, which would have been funny were it not for its serious implications, was conducted on about the same level of intelligence. Mrs. Smith denied that she had belonged to various radical youth organizations, and, in another pathetic attempt to establish her respectability, volunteered that she had been "very active in the University Methodist Church." She denied ever having used a false name, and denied having had subversive contacts with a number of people she had never heard of. Then Commander Munster remarked, "I don't believe I have any more questions to ask," and that was that.

A few days later, on leave in New Orleans, Mrs. Smith and Petty Officer Jones were married, fully believing that the whole silly mess had at last been cleared up. Then, on their honeymoon, she was notified by Rear Admiral E. W. Hanson that she was suspended without pay, because "grounds exist for the belief that you are disloyal to the Government." It thus became part of the official records of the United States that Mrs. Smith was a traitor to her country, or a potential traitor. The imaginative reader may be able to sense what this might mean to any decent American.

MANY GOVERNMENT employes, in like cases, have bitterly or resignedly accepted their fate. The spunky Mrs. Smith did not. She had already written to her Congresswoman, Helen Gahagan Douglas, describing the circumstances. Mrs. Douglas had investigated, received countless angry assurances of Mrs. Smith's loyalty and referred the matter to Paul Porter, former OPA administrator and Washington lawyer. Mrs. Smith cut short her honeymoon to come to Washington, and Porter, accepting the case gratis, appealed direct to the top Navy Loyalty Board.

It is not known why Mrs. Smith was accused in the first place. Perhaps her tolerant racial views made her suspect. Perhaps it was a case of mistaken identity—it is alarming that no less than 41 out of the first 245 FBI full field investigations under the loyalty order turned out to be cases of mistaken identity. Perhaps it was a combination of both. At any rate, the Navy board, prodded by Porter, and "after complete and careful review of all the evidence," immediately reinstated Mrs. Smith with back pay and wholly exonerated her.

Thus the case of Mrs. Smith has ended happily. Many others have not. One thing seems clear. The stupidity and bumbling in the handling of many loyalty cases, and the eager headline-seeking of men like J. Parnell Thomas are no answer to the very real problem of security. Yet the answer must be found. It can best be found by a commission of men of undoubted intelligence and integrity, men like Dwight Eisenhower, Learned Hand, Justice Owen Roberts. Such a commission, meeting in secret, could consider coldly, carefully and intelligently the whole troubling and immensely difficult problem of the relationship between national security and the personal liberty and personal dignity of people like Mrs. Ann Smith.

Gates at Oak Hill Still Chained Shut

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 19 (AP).—Seventy-year-old Frank C. Littleton is apparently ready to hold out against a Federal court order auctioning off his Oak Hill estate until the chained gates of the former presidential home are broken down.

The son of a former clerk of the Loudoun County Court kept the gates to the 1725-acre farm chained and locked today despite an approaching deadline of August 24, which the Federal courts have set for public inspection.

Heavy Rains Prove Value Of Soil Conservation Program

Heavy rains that followed the day-long soil and moisture conservation demonstration on the Mrs Nellie V. Thrasher farm near Jefferson, Md., Wednesday, proved the value of soil conservation yesterday.

Shortly after the 175 machines—bulldozers, drag-lines, graders, seeders, excavators, etc., finished their work Wednesday, the rain began to fall.

The diversion ditches—built to stop the water from running off the hillsides—filled up and poured their supplies into the channels the conservation experts had planned.

Pond to be Drained

The pond near the house filled up, but will be drained to remove the silt that was bound to come right after the va operations. It will be allowed to fill permanently, after today.

But throughout the farm the water drained into the fields instead of washing away into the old ditches. Fears that a quick rain might wash away the quickly built terraces were unfounded. They all did their work.

The rain stopped the Boy Scouts assigned the work of cleaning up the paper cups, picnic plates and other debris, left by the 50,000 to 60,000 sightseers of the day before. It stopped the church and farm groups from taking down their tents and kitchens.

Trucks Have Trouble

Concession operators were having trouble getting their tents down and moved off from the farm. Heavy trucks which came after the hot dog stoves and drink coolers were having trouble with the mud.

The tent used by the ladies of the Jefferson Lutheran Church was toppled by a gust of wind during the storm and Mrs. Donald Heffner was slightly injured.

The 53-year-old widow showed signs of the strain.

"I have given my last interview," she said.

Mrs. Thrasher was taking a good deal of kidding from her neighbors over a story that she received a proposal of marriage during the field day operation yesterday.

"Not true," she snapped.

She added that she isn't interested anyway.

ITU Demands Denham Ouster, Seeks United Taft Law Fight

Milwaukee, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—The International Typographical Union (AFL) today denounced Robert H. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, as "biased and unfair."

Delegates to the ninetieth annual ITU convention unanimously indorsed a resolution condemning Denham for "an unethical attitude and actions" and "obvious prejudices" against the union. His ouster was demanded.

Delegates also approved a resolution calling for a joint national emergency council of all major labor groups to fight for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

They rejected a resolution that would have required ITU officers to sign the non-Communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley law.

The anti-Denham resolution charged that he "has taken upon himself the functions of prosecutor of the ITU instead of those of impartial counsel of the NLRB."

The ITU has sought to sidestep the closed shop ban of the Taft-Hartley law in strikes this year. NLRB Trial Examiner Arthur Leff recently issued an interim report that the ITU had violated the Taft-Hartley law by failing to bargain in good faith with publishers.

The ITU proposed a congress to meet in Washington, D. C., including representatives from the AFL and CIO, the railroad brotherhoods, United Mine Workers and other independent unions to plan the fight against the Taft-Hartley law.

Truman Sees Labor Law Working as Predicted

President Truman told reporters yesterday that the Taft-Hartley Act was working out just as he predicted in a veto message.

He made the remark when asked if he agreed with his new Secretary of Labor, Maurice J. Tobin, who said Wednesday that the Taft-Hartley law was promoting "bootlegging and under-the-table dealing" between labor and management.

Reds Burn Pahang Station

Singapore, Aug. 19 (AP).—Police of Kuala Tembelang in Pahang State went into the jungle to hunt Communist insurgents last night. While they were away the insurgents burned down their police station.

Kaiser-Frazer, Republic Steel Confer on Plant

Cleveland, Aug. 19 (AP).—Officials of Republic Steel Corp. and the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. met here today to discuss problems connected with operation of the Government-owned blast furnace and coke ovens in Cleveland and following the meeting both parties issued a brief statement saying no conclusions had been reached. There will be further discussions next week.

The War Assets Administration yesterday awarded Kaiser-Frazer a lease on the huge 28-million-dollar unit and prompted a storm of protests from all over the country. Republic has been operating the unit since it was built early in World War II.

Hecht Sales Climb 16.6% In Six Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Sales of the Hecht Co. totaled $37,095,300 for the six months ended July 31, a new record for the period and 16.6 per cent higher than in the like 1947 period.

Board Chairman M. S. Hecht added that sales for the three months ended July 31 amounted to $18,644,211, a gain of 14.7 per cent over the same 1948 period.

Part of the gain was due to the opening of a large new store in Silver Spring, Md., on November 1, 1947. The Hecht Co. operates nine stores in Maryland, District of Columbia and New York. Additional expansion of the downtown Washington store is understood to be planned.

BELL RETURNS: Establishment of a Washington branch to be headed by J. Raymond Bell was announced yesterday by Donahue & Coe, Inc., New York advertising agency. The new office will be in the National Press Building. Bell returns to Washington after serving some months with the agency's executive staff in New York. Previously he was for five years public relations and advertising director of Capital Airlines and at one time he directed advertising and promotion for the Loew's Theaters here under the supervision of Carter Barron.

NEW MANAGER: Charles D. Nottingham has been appointed resident manager of the Sheraton Hotel here. He formerly held the same post at Carvel Hall in Annapolis. At the same time it was announced that Albert Fox has been appointed general manager of the Sheraton here. This makes Fox general manager of three Sheraton Corp. hotels, the others being in Baltimore and Annapolis.

RECORD INVENTORIES: Manufacturers' inventories broke all records in June at $29,843,000,000, the Commerce Department says. Hard goods went up only 46 million dollars to a total of less than 14 billion dollars. But soft goods inventories piled up to more than 16 billion dollars, a gain of 352 million dollars in the month. Significant gain was in the backing-up in warehouses of finished soft goods. In this category soft goods manufacturers report inventories up 264 million dollars to more than $5,500,000,000. Finished durable goods, however, declined 63 million dollars to less than four billion dollars, indicating a ready market for most of these products.

FINALLY AWARDED: An issue of $650,000 Prince Georges County, Md., bonds has been awarded to Alex Brown & Sons of Baltimore and Kidder, Peabody & Co. of New York. No bids were received originally. The bonds, for road repairs and a county office building, will be payable over a 25-year period at 3 per cent, the maximum rate allowed under Maryland law.

ODD LOTS: Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) announced cut of one tenth of a cent a gallon from tank wagon prices, effective Saturday . . . Rail operating revenues in July were estimated 18.2 per cent higher than same 1947 month by Association of American Railroads . . . A new issue of United Air Lines common stock was reported completely subscribed by stockholders and employes . . . Westinghouse Electric Corp. will offer 900,000 shares of common stock for purchase by its employes at $3 below market price so the workers "can have an ownership interest in the company" . . . Auto output this week is estimated at 81,817 passenger cars and 24,775 trucks compared with 77,439 cars and 27,032 trucks last week.

EXCURSION RATES: American Overseas Overlines and Trans World Airline have announced a schedule of reduced round trip rates for "off season" air trips to Europe. The new rates will amount to just one and one third of the present one-way fares and will go into effect October 1, pending CAB approval.

EARNINGS: The Greyhound Corp. reported net income of $4,373,982 for the first six months this year, equal to 46 cents a common share, compared with $5,930,571 or 62 cents a share in the same 1947 period. Other earnings reports:

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 19 (AP).—Cotton futures developed a firm tone in late dealings today as trade buying and short covering broadened. Absence of hedging of any consequence against the new crop movement aided the upturn. Final prices were near the best levels of the day and were 25 to 60 cents a bale higher.

In early dealings scattered liquidation, induced by a break in grains, extended loses to 65 cents a bale. Thereafter the trend were generally higher.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 19 (AP).—Some wide contrasts in price fluctuations were made on the Board of Trade today. Highlights of a market in which trends conflicted with one another were:

1—Cash corn prices tumbled 5 to 10 cents to the lowest point of the year. In contrast, September corn futures ended on gains of nearly 3 cents, while new crop corn eased fractionally.

2—The July wheat contract ended 6 cents lower after breaking more than 7 cents to $1.99, the first time a wheat future has sold under $2 since February, 1947. In contrast, all other wheat futures firmed.

3—All soybean and lard contracts dropped to new seasonal lows in early dealings. In contrast, a buying movement started in the latter part of the session which carried all these contracts above the previous close.

The wheat range at the close was 6 cents lower to 1⅛ higher, September 2.21½@2.21⅝; corn was ⅝ lower to 2⅞ higher, September 1.64@1.64⅜; oats were ⅛-⅜ higher, September 72⅛@72⅜; rye was 1½ lower, December 1.70½, and soybeans were ½ to 1 cent higher, November 2.55.

New Mystery Fires Burst Out on Farm

Macomb, Ill., Aug. 19 (AP).—Two new fires—starting almost simultaneously in the chicken house and the milk house—dogged the burned-out, mystified Charles Willeys today.

The elderly farm couple, who have been living under a tarpaulin suspended by poles since their farm home burned down Saturday, reported they observed smoke seeping from their chicken house today. Willey found a box of old newspapers blazing fiercely but stamped out the flames.

Then Mrs. Willey said she opened a cupboard door in their temporary dining room in the milk house and found newspapers on the shelf smouldering

In 12 days fires have destroyed the Willey home and a barn. Small blazes also have been extinguished in the milk house and chicken house. Nearly 200 small fires flared up spontaneously in the Willey home before the final blaze consumed it.

The State Fire Marshal's office and local fire department officials are making a chemical analysis of the wallpaper, newspapers kept on the farm and an insect spray the Willeys used.

Despite his reluctance to sleep in any of the remaining buildings, Willey says he plans to rebuild a farmhouse on the old site. Officials said the fire insurance would pay off only a fraction of the loss. The farm home was insured for $1000 and the barn for $400.

'Stumbling Block'

Canterbury Calls Church Rifts Scandal

London, Aug. 19 (AP).—The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. G. F. Fisher, tonight called disunity among Christian churches "a scandal."

The archbishop said in a radio address, however, that the recent Lambeth Conference of Anglican Bishops found grounds for hope that progress toward unification is being made.

"Some of you who hear me are no doubt impatient about the divisions of the churches and cannot imagine why we don't abolish them," he said. Some of you are so used to them that you don't bother about them. But they really are a scandal—a stumbling block.

"The Lambeth Conference of 1920 made a notable appeal to all Christian people on this matter, the force of which is by no means exhausted. But its working out takes time . . .

"The great growing and glorious fact is that increasingly, with certain churches, alas, excepted, all are seeking to find in Christ the way to a unity in which no truth will be surrendered, partial truths will be fulfilled and the wholeness of the faith of Christ more faithfully expressed."

Detroit Symphony Presents Opera Written by Alcoholic

Detroit, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—The Detroit Symphony Orchestra tonight gave the first performance of a symphony written by a former alcoholic while a patient in a mental hospital.

An audience of 15,000 called the composer, Ernest C. Salisbury, 25, to the podium after the orchestra played excerpts from the first movement of his "Eloise."

The elated Salisbury thanked Conductor Valter Poole and then pleaded for "confidence in mental hospitals."

"They did me a lot of good," he said.

The pudgy composer received an ovation from the audience.

The work began with the World War I melody "Pack Up Your Troubles," often used to quiet mental patients. It continued with 16 variations, handled in the so-called modern dissonant style, with clashing disharmonics, but the haunting melody was noticeable throughout.

The concert, also broadcast, was the first ever attended by the composer, who two years ago was an emaciated, psychopathic alcoholic confined at the Wayne County Hospital at Eloise, for which the symphony was named.

On hand tonight were four of his sisters and three brothers, who beamed at his success.

Salisbury, one of 11 children, 9 of whom are living, said this was the "largest family reunion we've had since I went to 'skid row' four years ago."

Company Insists on 30-Day Delay in Phone Wage Talks

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday insisted upon a 30-day waiting period before beginning wage negotiations with approximately 6500 of its employes.

The company announced it had sent a letter to the Communications Workers of America demanding the 30-day period allowed in the contract clause providing for a wage reopening.

Mrs. Mary Gannon, president of Division 50 of the CWA, and Glenn Watts, president of Division 36, both expressed disappointment that the company had declined to go ahead with immediate negotiations. In its letter, the company said it would be ready to open negotiations September 15.

Division 50 is composed of about 3000 workers, including operators, clerical workers, dining service employes and maids. Mrs. Gannon said she could not estimate what the new wage demands would be. She said telephone operators with eight years experience now are paid $48 for a 40-hour week. Tops in other categories are clerical, $56; dining service, $39, and maids, $36.

Watts said the strength of Division 36 is about 3500. He, too, declined to predict what the new wage demands would be.

Division 36 represents employes in three departments, commercial, plant and accounting. Present scales range from $36 paid charwomen to $91 paid service engineers.

Airline Reduces Overseas Fares Effective Oct. 1

Reduced excursion rates to encourage off-season travel to Europe were announced yesterday by American Overseas Airlines.

The company termed them "the lowest round-trip transatlantic air fares in the history of airlines."

Based on 1 1/3 of one-way fares, the new rates will reduce New York-London round-trip tickets from $630 to $466.70; Washington-Oslo from $755.20 to $577.60; Boston-Shannon from $554.40 to $410.70, and New York-Amsterdam from $685.80 to $508.

New rates will become effective October 1 and remain in effect until May 1, pending Civil Aeronautics Board approval.

Airline Fares Will Be Raised

the highest in at least 14 years. The low point was reached in 1946 when the average was 4.6 cents a mile. Two 10 per cent increases were made last year.

Air line and Government officials who attended the meeting reported that it was enlivened by a spirited lecture of the other air lines' money-losing operating methods by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president and general manager of Eastern Air Lines, the only one of the big companies which has consistently made a profit. Vigorous exception was taken to Rickenbacker's remarks, particularly on the matter of making air line passengers pay for their meals after years of looking on them as an "accepted feature" of the service, by W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines.

The C. A. B.'s position on this subject was indicated in its prepared agenda for the meeting which included a table showing that the airlines had spent 11 million dollars on free meal service during 1947 and had suffered a total operating loss of $20,900,000.

But Patterson contended that this logic was based on the false assumption that none of the air travelers of 1947 were attracted to the air lines by this feature of the service.

"The passengers always have paid for their meals and they know it when they buy a ticket," Mr. Patterson said after the meeting.

Meeting Discusses Rent Boost Plan At Greenbelt

Officials of Greenbelt, Md., met yesterday in a 3½-hour conference with a representative of public Housing Administration to discuss proposed rent increases at the Government-built community.

Though all participants declined to discuss the negotiations in detail, Town Manager Charles T. Mcdonald said the schedule of rent raises proposed at the conference was based largely on tenant incomes "instead of on the percentage basis we had hoped for."

George Bailey, representing PBA at yesterday's conference, said no information on the matter would be available "until final outcome of the negotiations." Affected are 1875 rental units.

Attending yesterday's conference were Town Mayor Thomas J. Canning, Town Solicitor John S. White, members of the town council, McDonald and Bailey. Further meetings will be held before any definite action is taken, McDonald said.

Air Force Band To Give Concert Sunday at Capitol

Music of the "Gay Nineties" variety will be presented by the U. S. Air Force Band in an old-timers concert Sunday night at 8 o'clock on the Capitol steps.

Featured guest soloists on the program will be the "Singing Squires," a barbershop quartet composed of four Washington attorneys. They are Lew Sims, tenor; Bill Shanahan, lead; Dean Snyder, baritone, and Ed Place, bass.

Members of the Society of the Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia and of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America will be special guests at the concert.

The program will include "The Whistler and His Dog," "On the Mall," "O'er the Wave, the "Poet and Peasant Overture" and "Lassus Trombone."

Little Theater Opening 'Pagliacci' Saturday

"Laugh Pagliacci," Italian musical film based upon the opera Pagliacci, opens Saturday at the Little Theater, replacing "Meet Me at Dawn."

The picture stars Alida Valli, who since has become topflight Hollywood star, and Beniamino Gigli, Metropolitan Opera tenor. It will be shown with English subtitles.

Melodrama Actually Helps

Gloomy 'Castle' Unhurt By East Lynn Touches

By Sonia Stein

SOMETIMES there is nothing so satisfying as a good heavy plot with melodramatic situations clinging around the action like a dank fog. "Hatter's Castle," which opened yesterday at the Columbia Theater, fills that assignment—with passion, hatred, venom, madness, weakness, defined innocence and true love to spare.

Possibly the A. J. Cronin novel didn't seem as full of the old thunder and lightning as the British-made Paramount film does, and maybe even Paramount was in awe of what it had on its hands since it didn't release the picture until June of this year although it was ready for showing in 1941.

But the acting is so sound and so in keeping with the picture's tone, that even the more improbable scenes get through with a minimum of embarrassment to all. Such scenes as the disgraced daughter being thrust forcibly out of her home in a deluge of rain. And her subsequent escape from death when she gets off the train a fraction of a moment before it topples off a crumbling trestle into the raging flood waters.

A Self-Made Man

The fundamental conflict on which Cronin has hung his terrifying tale is realistic enough. A middle class hatter in a small town in Scotland has delusions of grandeur. Believing, or professing to believe, that he is related to the local gentry, he builds himself a huge home along the lines of a castle. His neighbors, who have felt his arrogance blow cold on them more than once, dub it "Hatter's Castle" in a jeering fashion.

Helpless victims of the man's ungovernable temper and insolence are his wife, slowly dying of cancer, his lovely daughter, and his son. The boy is his father's pride and joy, but unfortunately this pride takes the form of pushing the boy to greater efforts in studying which already has the child worn to a shadow.

The daughter meets and falls in love with a young doctor and brings him into the house to treat her mother. The hatter forbids the doctor to come there again, and forbids his daughter to see him again.

The girl is the object of the doctor's undeclared affections, but she has also caught the eye of a sly and dishonest new clerk in her father's shop. He forces his attentions on her, and so terrified is she of her father's wrath that she submits to his aggressions rather than call for help and let her father know that she has been duped into letting the man into the house.

Walls Come Tumbling

The father's ill temper improves not one whit as his shop suffers irreparable losses, his wife becomes more and more ill and he discovers his paramour in earnest "conversation" with the clerk in his shop.

This fancy dan, trying to escape the murderous old man, tells him that he'd better keep him hale and hearty because his daughter might have need of him.

The old man invites both clerk and daughter to leave town, with his usual irresistible forcefulness of personality.

He loses, in roughly this order, his wife, his shop, his mistress, his son and finally his mausoleum of a house, which he burns down around his ears—to teach it a lesson, evidently.

The daughter, who has been hiding her shame elsewhere, is reunited with the doctor after her father's suicide.

In a sense, none of this is important, since it serves only as an opportunity for some extremely high-grade ripsnorting on the part of Robert Newton, who plays the hatter. Deborah Kerr was still quite blond when she made this picture, and is every pretty inch of her the hatter's gentle daughter.

A Milder Mason

James Mason, in spite of all recent cinematic evidence to the contrary, can be a wonderfully kindly soul. Those dark eyes that bode evil so often, are equally capable of the tender look. It is a small part for him, but he makes his presense felt.

The fast-talking and fast-working young clerk is played by Emlyn Williams, who keeps busy writing such plays as "Night Must Fall" and "The Corn Is Green" when he's not doing an absolutely masterful job of acting. Getting this character to be both ingratiating and yet thoroughly unwholesome is a nice trick.

Beatrice Varley is a fine choice for the pain-wracked but uncomplaining mother.

If it's good gloomy melodrama acted to perfection that you have an appetite for, your pennies can buy you no better than what the Columbia is offering.

'Life With Father' a Treat, Even Second Time Around

By Orval Hopkins

"LIFE WITH FATHER" returned to the Warner Theater yesterday and there's nothing particularly new to be said about it (no good reason for this essay either, if you want the truth), except that it's almost completely satisfactory and worth anybody's time and money.

Coe

The latter commodity is of interest this time because the movie is presented at the theater's regular prices. Last September, when LWF was here before, the nighttime price was a buck and a quarter, or the price of a good seat at the ball game.

Since, as I say, there's not much to be newly said about this, I harked back to the late-summer prose of our man Richard L. Coe, now enjoying himself in Canada, to see what he had said of it. This is a neat device, and I hope the opportunity presents itself to utiliz it again. (I also unarthd this picture of a steely-eyed mustachioed Coe. Isn't he the cutie?)

"Life With Father," wrote Coe happily, "is a honey of a picture. Don't miss it." This is a shrewd assessment, but I missed the picture, darn it.

"Not only," he went on, "is William Powell giving a performance of Academy Award caliber; the writing of Donald Ogden Stewart and the direction of Michael Curtiz are of similar stature." Brave words, Coe, and absolutely right.

"Edmund Gwenn's Dr. Lloyd, the rector, is a triumph of acting." True, true.

"Irene Dunne is good as Mother." This is Coe employing the understatement, I'm sure.

"ZaSu Pitts' Cora is amusing . . ." Yes indeed.

"Jimmy Lydon and Elizabeth Taylor are effective . . . and you'll enjoy everyone else." Right again, Coe.

See what I mean? This picture is thoroughly enjoyable and there's surely nothing for it but to get over to the Warner and see it. Incidentally, Coe, the set decorations for "Life With Father" are by a man named James Hopkins. The set decorations are matchless.

There are some good newsreel shots of Babe Ruth in action at the Warner, as well as some scenes of the "spy" business on the Hill.

Richard L. Coe is on vacation. His column, "One on the Aisle," will be resumed on his return.

Webster's
Micrometric Carbon Paper

Maybe not! Yet it may pay you to look. Poorly spaced or smudged letters send too many sheets into the basket. This costs money and stenographic time. Webster's Micrometric carbon paper helps to eliminate waste. A numbered scale on each sheet makes accurate spacing possible. You can remove the carbon paper with the scale, and avoid smudging your fingers or copies. Use Micrometric! It costs no more than other quality sheets.

1000 Reclamation Aides In 17 Western States Face Loss of Positions

RECLAMATION officials now estimate that about 1000 of its employes in the 17 Western States will be laid off soon because of budget restrictions laid down by Congress. No employes in the bureau here will be fired.

In order to get its work done, the bureau plans to let out some of the work it did with its own employes to private contractors. Tentative estimates indicate the cost will be far greater by the contract arrangement.

Even though Reclamation was given a record appropriation, it now appears that several of its big projects will be closed down before the end of the fiscal year for lack of funds. All of which means that the Reclamation Bureau, its policies and operations will be a major political issue in the West this fall.

REVENUE: Daniel A. Bolich is the new Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue. He had been the special agent in charge of the New York office . . . OHE: John Duncan is the employe representative on the efficiency rating appeals board at the Office of Housing Expediter. He beat out five contenders for the post. Duncan is a lawyer and he's a Negro. His deputy is John Sarcone . . .

LABOR: Assistant Secretary John Gibson has been asked to withdraw his resignation by Maurice Tobin, the new Secretary.

PROBE: Oscar Ewing, the Federal Security administrator, and his cook are now causing untold trouble for some Federal agencies.

Perhaps you recall the story: Ewing has one of the top cooks at St. Elizabeths Hospital assigned to his office to cook his lunch. Several members of Congress have criticized him for it. (Actually, it's a rather common practice in Government.)

Anyway, the Senate Appropriations Committee has now called on every Federal agency for a detailed report on all employes it's being loaned or is lending.

It would have been far more economical if the committee had given Ewing the money to buy lunch for himself and his friends for the rest of their days. The survey will cost thousands of dollars and it's a safe bet that nothing will come of it.

CLERKS: Civil Service officials now say the new general clerical exam will be for CAF-1, 2, and 3 jobs. Originally, it had intended the test for grade 1 and 2 clerk jobs; that it had a surplus of qualified people for the grade 3 and 4 jobs. But the expansion of Federal agencies, especially the Veterans Administration, plus the turnover in low-paid jobs, has almost wiped out the grade 3 clerk eligibles. The clerical test will be announced in a few weeks. The secretarial exam also is due to be announced soon.

PATENT OFFICE: A manual of operations is being drafted by a group of private efficiency experts who are studying this agency. It will control the operations in each of the office's 70 divisions an' 't will be something new in its long history.

Dr. Harlow S. Person, a well-known management expert who has worked in both industry and Government, has been retained to make two studies, one of the agency's top organization, and the other of the supervisory structure.

It's a foregone conclusion that there will be some changes made before long at the Patent Office.

NOTES: L. G. Flannery, the administrative assistant to Senator O'Mahoney, won the Democratic nomination for the House from Wyoming in this week's balloting there . . . The White House has informed Federal agencies that Federal workers who are AMVETS members may be granted annual leave to attend the group's annual convention if they can be spared from their work . . . The Navy soon will expand its operations on nearby Solomons Island, Md.

PAY RAISE: Federal agencies will be required to absorb about 150 million dollars of the cost of the recent pay raises. A statement prepared for the President by the Budget Bureau carries these facts:

That the cost of the postal and classified pay raises is estimated at 520 million dollars a year, and that early next year the President must ask Congress for a deficiency of 363 millions to pay the bill. The remainder, or 157 millions, must be absorbed out of available funds.

This means, of course, that some agencies won't be able to expand as much as they had planned. The same report, incidentally, estimates that Federal employment will go up about 100,000 in the year from July 1 of this year.

Federal agencies other than Post Office must do the real job of soaking up pay raise costs. The cost of the $330-per-man classified raise is estimated at 280 millions. However, the Budget Bureau hopes that it won't be necessary to ask Congress for more than 134 millions to pay the bill. The remainder, or about 60 per cent of the cost, must be absorbed under that plan.

The Budget Bureau also estimates the total Federal payroll during this fiscal year will reach a record $6,500,000,000. However, a somewhat smaller figure is carried in the budget but it doesn't cover about half a million employes whose salaries aren't budgeted, as they are paid out of revenues.

Tuck Offers Little Hope For Fairfax School Fund

$7,500,000 Needed, Delegation Tells Governor in Asking Emergency Grant

Virginia's Governor Tuck gave little encouragement yesterday to a Fairfax County delegation which had personally appealed to him for school building funds.

The group which included 10 members of the Fairfax County School Emergency Committee and three county officials spent an hour and a half in the Governor's office at Richmond telling him of their need for $7,500,000 in new school buildings, and their utter inability to draw one cent from any source.

At the end of the session, they handed Tuck a petition signed by 1400 qualified voters in the county asking that he make "an emergency grant or loan sufficient . . . to alleviate the present crowded conditions in our schools." It asked further that if "legislative sanction be necessary," he call the General Assembly into special session.

Sales Tax Urged

State Senator Andrew W. Clarke, who headed the group, went a step further and advocated passage of a sales tax.

Tuck was noncommittal on both a special session or a sales tax. He told the group he was "sympathetic" with their problem, and that "we are studying the situation."

"The only thing I know," he said, "is for Fairfax County to do the best it can . . . . I haven't made up my mind what to do." He pointed out that he could not give them any money, that this action must come from the Legislature.

The "studying" he referred to is being done by the Commission on State and Local Revenues and Expenditures, created last winter to investigate local needs and to find ways of jacking up State and local taxing methods.

Fast Work Asked

It held its first meeting Wednesday, and the resolution creating it ordered that it conclude its work by November 15, 1949. Tuck, however, asked that it finish sooner if possible.

Tuck suggested that the Fairfax group should also present its problems to the commission.

Fairfax County's problem became critical last December when the State Literary Fund, a revolving fund from which all counties borrowed for school building, dried up. An attempt to transfer five million dollars to it from the Teacher's Retirement Fund was blocked as unconstitutional.

The case is now before the State Supreme Court of Appeals. Tuck observed that if the court rules favorably, Fairfax will receive $535,000. County school board member George K. Reeves observed afterwards, however, that this would be "only a drop in the bucket."

Specific Needs Cited

The group told Tuck specifically that:

(1) Classes last year were held in partitioned auditoriums, on stages, in storerooms as well as in two quonset huts and obsolete and unsafe buildings.

(2) The county, which increased in population from 40,000 in 1940 to about 110,000 today, will add at least 3000 students a year to the system for several years even without further growth.

(3) The county has done all it can to help itself and needs help from the State.

Though Fairfax was the first county to send a delegation to the Governor, more than 30 counties have asked for a special session and a sales tax. Tuck has said he felt the needs may have been "exaggerated" and has asked all petitioning counties if their action was taken after public hearings or if pressure was brought on them to act.

Members of the delegation besides Clarke and Reeves were Maurice W. Fox, member of the board of supervisors, and the following members of the Fairfax County School Emergency Committee: Hubert Gerken, chairman; Harold A. Ward, Edwin Lynch, Omer L. Hirst, LaRue Van Meter, Mrs. G. A. Justusson, Mrs. Helen Salzman, Mrs. Mark Regan, Mrs. Ruth Hodges, Mrs. Sethelle Rossie.

100 D. C. Children Attend Recreation Dept. Camporee

HUNGRY CAMPER—Seven-year-old Linda Chow of 6122 First pl. se., munches her "dough stick" at the camporee

HANDICRAFT—Billy Horton, 5708 9th st. nw.; Betty Volonte, Takoma Park, Md., and James Stewart, 1015 9th st. ne., examine papier mache mask

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

TREE "TABLE"—Morton From, 4613 Hillside rd. nw.; John McMahon, 605 33d st. se.; Helen Henry, 518 9th st. se., improvise

More than a hundred Washington boys and girls yesterday found "a little piece of the country in the city" as they attended the D. C. Recreation Department's first camporee.

The camporee, held in a picnic grove in Rock Creek Park near 16th and Kennedy sts. nw. started at 9:30 yesterday morning and wound up at 3 o'clock. It will be held again today during the same hours, and the children will get a chance, during the two-day period, to test their ability to use the resources of nature in every-day living.

Those who attended the first day of the camporee yesterday came from day camps in all sections of the city, in Recreation Department regions A to F. They set up six camps in the picnic grove and pretended to be Robin Hood's men, or hill-billies, or members of a circus troupe, as their fancies dictated.

It was only when lunch time came, around noon, that the children, who ranged in age from 7 to 14, abandoned their make believe to become youngsters with hearty appetites.

Unself-conscious about it all, the children delighted in learning to lash sticks together to make a table; laying a foot bridge over marshy land connecting their encampments; dyeing their Robin Hood suits a bright woodland green.

Those who attended the first day of the camporee have already had one week of camp life, and will get another week of it before the Recreation Department closes its day camp program August 27.

During the summer there have been three other two-week camping periods for youngsters, but the camporee, under the direction of Raymond Brown, Recreation Department supervising director of day camps, is the first ever held by the department.

When the camporee winds up this afternoon, the children will gather around the council ring in the grove and put on skits for each other, representing the themes they chose for their excursion into woodland life.

Ex-New Deal Aide to Build In Bethesda

Eugene B. Casey Plans Expenditure Of $200,000 on Maryland Project

Eugene B. Casey, former New-Dealer convicted of income tax evasion, will build a $200,000 apartment house in Bethesda, Md., it was revealed yesterday.

Casey, a wartime aide to the late President Roosevelt, served five months of a six-month jail term and was released from Federal Reformatory, Petersburg, Va., last March 17.

Final clearance for the project to be situated at Clarendon rd. and Bethesda ave., was given yesterday by the Montgomery County board of zoning appeals.

The project, to contain 60 apartment units, was rejected by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission on July 8 because of insufficient rear yard space and no off-street parking facilities.

At a hearing before the board of zoning appeals on July 29, approximately 50 residents of the area appeared to protest approval of the project until off-street parking was provided.

Chairman John Sadler of the zoning appeals board said yesterday Casey has compiled with zoning requirements on off-street parking and the board had waived a nine-foot rear yard requirement.

The land already has been zoned for apartment house use and residents of the area are supporting the project which will serve as a buffer between a single family area and a commercial district.

Boy, 8, 'Latest Polio Victim; Area Total 71

Another Greater Washington polio victim was reported by the District Health Department yesterday, bringing the total for the year up to 71.

The newest case was an 8-year-old boy from the 1700 block of Arlington dr., Alexandria. He entered Children's Hospital Monday. His case was the thirty-seventh in nearby Maryland and Virginia, as compared to eight for this date last year.

The area total remained unchanged yesterday because of the removal of one case, reported Wednesday as a District one. A 20-year-old man admitted at Walter Reed for polio was found yesterday to be from Fort Monroe, Va., and therefore was excluded from the official Health Department statistics.

The total for the District now is 34, as compared to 5 for this date last year.

Nationally, the United States Public Health Service reported 172 new polio cases during the past week. California, North Carolina and Texas accounted for half the victims.

In Virginia, the disease had taken its toll in all of the State's 10 major cities.

Charlottesville, which until yesterday had remained polio free, reported its first case—a 28-year-old woman. It was one of three new cases reported in the State, raising the 1948 total to 205 victims. The other two victims were an 11-year-old Mecklenburg County boy and a 20-year-old Princess Anne County man.

New Spotted Fever Case Brings D. C. Total to 4

A spotted fever case was reported yesterday by the District Health Department, the fourth in the District this year. The case was a 4-year-old boy in the 700 block of Adrian st. se., who entered Childrens Hospital.

Last year at this time seven cases were reported in the District and 11 in the near-by Maryland and Virginia areas.

5 Arrested In Series of Gaming Raids

Vice squad detectives arrested five persons yesterday on gambling charges in a series of raids.

At 11:20 a. m., they entered the basement quarters of James S. Tasker, 48, at 1740 Euclid st. nw. The detectives arrested Tasker and said they seized a large quantity of numbers books, marked money and rundown slips.

The vice squad raiders moved into action also at 2:05 a. m., arresting Bessie J. Fields, 30, in her first floor room at 1115 6th st. nw.

Police waited at the 6th st. address until an alleged pickup man dropped by. Then they followed him to 3328 Georgia ave. nw. The man, identified as Joseph Robinson, 43, of 1433 S st. nw., was captured as he tried to escape from a rear entrance. Police said Robinson had $374 worth of small change in his possession.

Detectives also arrested two other persons in the S st. house, Izella Hockett, 28, of 611 Keefer pl. nw., and Edward Stafford, 63, of 3624 11th st. nw.

All of the persons arrested were charged with operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips. They were arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril Lawrence who continued their cases until August 26. They were released in $1500 bond each.

Auxiliary Of Legion in Convention

Watson Miller Tells Of Problems Facing Immigration Service

The twenty-third annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary of the Department of the District of Columbia opened here last night with 274 delegates from 33 units registered.

Watson B. Miller, commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, the featured speaker at the opening session, told the auxiliary members illegal entries into the United States constantly tax the alertness of the Immigration Service officers.

"We must guard our gates against those seeking entrance who are unworthy or incapable of our ideals," he said, adding that the Immigration and Naturalization Service is maintaining day and night vigilance toward this end.

Miller praised the manner in which the auxiliary has faced its obligation to make peacetime life in America for veterans "all this rich country can provide."

The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. May Clarke Hilleary, department president who presided at the opening session of the three-day meeting being held in the Department of Commerce Auditorium.

A memorial service dedicated to members who died during the year was led by Miss Courtney Newton, department memorial chairman.

Representatives of each District unit which had members who died during the year formed a procession, filing down the auditorium aisle to place gladioli in a basket at the foot of the speakers' platform.

Tonight's session, which begins at 8:15 o'clock, will include further business, presentation of awards and honors to auxiliary members for outstanding service and reports of the auditor, secretary and treasurer.

Election of officers and delegates to the national convention is scheduled for Saturday.

Tobacco Marts In Maryland Close Today

Tobacco auctions in eight southern Maryland markets will close for the season today—five days ahead of the date recommended by the newly-created Maryland Tobacco Authority.

According to Frank Hall, Marlboro attorney and chairman of a warehousemen's committee representing the markets, the closing date was agreed on by producers.

The agreement was reached, he said, after it was determined that the date recommended by the authority would leave the growers and warehouse operators with virtually no market in the last five days. Most buyers, he pointed out, already have left the southern Maryland area to attend opening of sales in the North Carolina markets.

Hall said only about 250,000 pounds of tobacco remain on the floors in the southern Maryland markets—three in Marlboro, three in Hughesville and one each at LaPlata and Waldorf. According to Government figures, about 35 million pounds of tobacco already have been sold in the Maryland marts.

Ft. Myer Hall Oppening

A new recreation hall at South Post, Fort Myer, Va., will be opened tonight with a dance from 8:30 to 1. Music will be furnished by the North Post, Fort Myer, Military Band. Post Commander Col. Raymond C. Barlow and his wife will welcome guests.

Board Names Tax Cashier In Shortage

Robert A. Cornelius, 34, of 2809 51st ave., Dillon Park, Md., was identified yesterday by the District Commissioners as the cashier who disappeared Monday with $572 in tax funds.

Cornelius has since returned the funds. The Commissioners yesterday served him with a letter stating three reasons why it is proposed to fire him. He has until noon Monday in which to reply to the charges.

Charges Listed

1. A lock box containing $400 in cash, for use in making change, was short $391.76 on Monday.

2. During June, July and August, he received money for water bills and failed to account for it. (The charges did not specify an amount. The Commissioners have said the total money involved was $572.)

3. His signed daily cash report on Monday showed $100 more than the cash attached.

The Commissioners sent a report on the entire matter to United States Attorney George Morris Fay for appropriate action. Fay declined comment.

Employed in 1946

Cornelius, who has been in the District employ since January, 1946, has been placed on annual leave until a final decision is made in the case. Unless he replies by the deadline, his discharge is expected to be completed by noon Tuesday.

The cashier was in the Army from March, 1944, to December, 1945, receiving wounds in battle in Germany. Before coming to the District government he was a laundry truck driver for two years, his personnel record shows.

His present title is clerk-assistant cashier and the salary $2644, as the result of a promotion in August, 1947, approved by Collector of Taxes Guy Pearson.

Started at $1900

Cornelius' first job was as a clerk-assistant cashier at a salary of $1900 a year. In June, 1946, he was appointed a bailiff and collected nickels from parking meters, for a salary of $1954 a year. On February 10, 1947, he was made clerk-assistant cashier at a $2394 salary, and on April, 1947, was named an investigator-deputy collector to help collect tax arrears at the same salary. This appointment was a permanent one, while the others were temporary.

Reached last night at his home, Cornelius said that he had "nothing to say" about the situation.

He said, "Anything else that is said can only hurt the children. What good can it do?"

Cornelius said he does not intend to file an answer to the Commissioners' charges.

4.77% Rent Boost Recommended for Drake Apartments

A 4.77 per cent increase on the rents of 79 units of the Drake Apartments at 2119 H st. was recommended yesterday by District Rent Examiner Denis K. Lane.

A 14.93 per cent boost had been requested.

Proposed rents will range from $26.25 a month for a one room and bath unit to $55 for three rooms and bath. Former rents were between $25 and $52.50 a month.

A request for a rent boost on 181 units of the General Scott Apartments at 1 Scott circle was filed yesterday. Present rents range from $53 for 1½ rooms to $97.50 for three rooms. Requested rents are from $60.42 to $111.15.

Two Feared Drowned, 3 Rescued On Potomac

Maryland Party Started Out in 'Rickety' Boat Early in Morning

Two nearby Maryland men were believed drowned and three nearly exhausted companions were rescued early yesterday when their "rickety" skiff capsized in the Potomac River south of Leonardtown, Md.

The missing men were identified by St. Marys County Sheriff Willard B. Long as:

George Sanford, 35, of 4527 Temple lane, Temple Hills, a bus driver for the Washington, Marlboro and Annapolis Motor Lines.

William Henry Clifton, sr., 42, of 4434 St. Barnabas rd., Silver Hill, a truck gardener.

Rescued After 6 Hours

Rescued after clinging six hours to part of a life preserver was Clifton's son, John M., about 18, of the Silver Hill address. He was reportedly picked up in a semi-conscious condition several miles downriver from the fishing mishap by Fred A. Jenkins, operating a boat out of Coles Point, Va.

Saved after clinging five hours to the bottom of the upturned, 17-foot craft were Frank Petrasek of 4700 Hudson ave., Suitland Manor and another man identified only as William G. Thacker, about 20 years old.

Petrasek, a technical sergeant with the Army Air Forces and stationed at Andrews Field, Md., was reported recovering in bed at his home last night. Conditions of the other two rescued men were described as good by Sheriff Long, who said none required hospitalization.

From the survivors, Sheriff Long pieced together a dramatic tale of the river mishap. The five, he said, set out about 1 a. m. on a fishing trip in the inboard motor craft he described as "hardly worthy to carry one man safely."

Craft Capsizes Quickly

Two hours later, when the skiff was "a considerable distance off Whites Point," the Sheriff said a storm of wind and some rain broke, quickly capsizing the craft. At 8 o'clock, the two men were found clinging to the overturned craft by Capt. Robert E. Nungesser, of 3705 Brandywine st. nw., operating a speedboat.

An hour later, the Clifton youth was reported picked up near Coles Point, Va., opposite Whites Point in the 8-mile expanse of riverway separating Virginia and Maryland.

The skiff, said Sheriff Long, belonged to the Cliftons. He said no dragging operations were contemplated, since the rescued were "unable to even approximate their position" when the boat capsized.

The family of Capt. Nungesser, here, said he has been vacationing at Coltons Point, Md., since August 8, and plans to return home Sunday. He is a brother to Capt. Charles Nungesser, French aviator, who disappeared with a co-pilot, Capt. Francis Coli, in an attempt to fly the Atlantic east to west, in May, 1927.

German Unions Get Back Books Seized by Nazis

Return to Germany of 412 cases of books and other library materials belonging to labor organizations dissolved by the Nazis, was announced yesterday by the Library of Congress.

When the Hitler government abolished the labor unions in 1933 the books were seized by the Nazi German Labor Front, and at the war's end forwarded to Washington by the United States Army.

The books being returned to Frankfurt will be distributed to the newly established German labor unions in accordance with the Library of Congress policy to return books to legitimate libraries or institutions.

Cap-Pistol Sleuth Irks No. 13 Police

Captain Albert I. Bullock of the Thirteenth Precinct doesn't plan to have policemen in his precinct who are not authorized to be policemen.

Captain Bullock's policy yesterday came up in Municipal Court when Corporation Counsel's officials told Joseph H. Gerone, supervisor of the Superior Private Police at 2017 S st. nw., he would have to stop giving out cards stating he does private secret service work and engages in detection and apprehension.

Gerone's service, which employs a single patrolman, Irving A. Payne, 20, of 1228 U st. nw., engages in night watchman services. The SPP situation got to court because Payne, according to police, last Saturday night went to a restaurant at 467 Florida ave. nw. and tried to arrest an unidentified person who, he said, wasn't abiding by the sit-when-you-drink provisions of ABC regulations.

In a resulting melee, several police scout cars arrived on the scene. Payne was wearing navy blue trousers, a gray shirt, black tie and a couple of SPP badges and carried a night stick, police said.

In a holster, police said he had a pearl-handled "Bang-o" cap pistol which police said was "broken down" to the point where it would not fire caps.

Rare Paper Proves Copy

A copy of the Ulster County Gazette of January 4, 1800, reported lost by Whitney Tharin, 4403 14th st. nw., was recovered yesterday—but it turned out to be a reproduction, not the original, of the famous issue of the Kingston, N. Y., newspaper.

Tharin's brother, Ted, had lost the paper, which contains an account of the death of Washington, while on his way to the Library of Congress to authenticate it. With it were a number of family papers and Continental Congress money which the family was glad to get back, regardless of their value.

A guard at the Washington Monument, where Tharin had stopped on the way to the Library, had picked up the papers and read of their loss in the newspapers.

Enter the Fishburger

What this country needs, says a Government scientist, is a good popular priced fishburger. It might compete with the traditional American hamburger which once sold for 5 cents—with pickle and mustard.

At the United States Fish and Wildlife Service Laboratory in College Park, Norman D. Harvis has been experimenting with more than 40 species of fish in the production of canned fish pastes.

He is using tomato, flour, dried skimmed milk, margarine and a small amount of seasoning—and fish, of course—in a formula which he hopes to perfect this fall. The formula then will be made available to the fish canning industry.

"The most important fisheries—salmon, sardine and tuna—have not gone in for the development of specialties such as sandwich spreads," Harvis explains, "but with the increased use of freezing methods, development of a fish paste industry, using such inexpensive and abundant species as chum salmon, mackerel, pollock, lake herring and rosefish, may help year-around operations at canneries in Maine, Gloucester, Mass., and elsewhere."

The more promising formulae are to be tried out on 500 school children and teachers.

2 Face Narcotics Charges

Two men appeared yesterday before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence on charges of violating Federal narcotics laws.

James Marvin, alias William L. Boyd, 22, of 1610 11th st. nw., was charged with illegal possession of marihuana cigarettes. The case was continued until August 26.

Charles A. Levester, 37, of 3732 Burns st. ne., was charged with illegal possession of heroin and held under $1000 bond until August 26.

Arrested with Levester near Massachusetts ave. and 9th st. nw. was Percy Azerovitz, 37, of 406 5th st. nw. He was admitted to Gallinger Hospital for possible blood poisoning caused by a needle puncture in his arm.

Voorhees Gets Post

Tracy S. Voorhees, Assistant Secretary of the Army, has been appointed president of Army Emergency Relief by Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall, who is chairman of the organization's board of governors.

Secretary Royall also named Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower honorary president of Army Emergency Relief, a post held by General of the Armies John J. Pershing until his death.

The organization gives aid to soldiers and their dependents when faced with financial emergencies beyond their ability to meet.

2 Years for Bad Checks

Robert G. Owens, 27, of 4221 Wilson blvd., Arlington, yesterday drew a total of 24 months' sentence for passing $35 worth of bad checks. The time, however, was suspended, on agreement by Owens to make restitution of the money involved.

In Arlington County Court, he received a six-month suspended term on each of four counts of passing the checks. The Arlington Commonwealth's Attorney's Office said that Owens, a linoleum and asphalt tile installer, had recently finished serving a term in District Jail for a similar offense.

Bandit Snatches Purse

Two boys on a bike snatched her pocketbook with $35 in bills as she walked in front of 319 Maryland ave., ne., Mrs. Emma L. Tutt, 54, of 304 Maryland ave. ne., told police yesterday.

She said one of the youths jumped off the bicycle, took her handbag and mounted and the pair sped off. They were last seen riding on 5th st. ne., Mrs. Tutt reported.

Divorce Action Filed

Mrs. Katherine J. Stone of 1312 36th st. nw. filed suit for divorce yesterday in District Court against Melville E. Stone 2d, of 30 E. 70th st., New York City. Her divorce petition recites that they were married in 1929 and have two daughters, ages 18 and 14 years.

Drivers Win Awards

Safety awards have been given 157 plant employes and drivers of Thompson's Dairy for exceptional safety on their jobs and while driving the dairy's vehicles.

The awards were presented by G. E. Rogers, general manager of the dairy, at the annual employes' outing Tuesday at Triton Beach, Md. More than 600 employes and their families, including Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Thompson, attended.

Of the awards, 55 were given for three accident-free years, 47 for two years and 55 for one.

Capitol Policeman and Wife To Mark 64th Anniversary

The Washington Post

STILL ON DUTY—Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Gilbert will observe their sixty-fourth wedding anniversary Saturday

J. Warren Gilbert, a Senate Office Building guard and veteran Gettysburg battlefield guide, and his wife will observe their sixty-fourth wedding anniversary here Saturday.

Gilbert and his wife, who came by bus last night from their home in Gettysburg to join him, said they had no especial plans for observing the anniversary, but would pass the day quietly.

Gilbert, 84, and his wife, 82, were married in Greencastle, Pa., August 21, 1884, by the pastor who had married her parents and officiated at her christening. She was the former Julia Bickle of Waynesboro, Pa.

Sat Near Lincoln

Gilbert's mother was the leader of a local choir and sat on the platform near President Lincoln the day he gave his famous address at Gettysburg.

Gilbert, born four days later, recalls his mother telling how the President delivered the address "almost like a prayer, his copy rolled up like a pointing wand" as he talked.

His father, Maj. Charles E. Gilbert of the First Pennsylvania Reserves and Ninety-ninth Infantry, participated in 49 battles, including Gettysburg.

In 1886 he returned from Greencastle with his wife and for 57 years served as a battlefield guide.

Judging from the number of old timers around Gettysburg who claim to have shaken hands with Lincoln, Gilbert says, "the President must have shaken hands with everyone in the county."

Gave Steropticon Talks

From 1909 to 1917 he and his wife traveled about the country during the winter months giving lectures with a steroptican on "Gettysburg in War and Peace."

He also wrote two books, 'Blue and Gray" and "Battle of Gettysburg Made Plain," and has been thinking of doing a book on Lincoln, though he doubts now if he will get around to it. He is a great novel reader.

Since receiving his appointment as a Capitol policeman through Senator Francis J. Myers (D., Pa.) in 1945, Gilbert has been "batching" it here, going home for a weekend every time he gets paid. He lives at 225 1st st. ne.

The Gilberts have one daughter, Mrs. Lulu B. Freeman of Sacramento, Calif., wife of Buck Ellsworth Freeman, an oldtime Washington ball player; two grandsons and three great grandchildren.

Sen. Wiley's Wife Dies On Way Home

Mrs. Alexander Wiley, wife of the United States Senator from Wisconsin, died yesterday in Valparaiso, Ind. following a heart attack.

Mrs. Wiley

Mrs. Wiley, who was 65, had been traveling with her husband by automobile to their home in Chippewa Falls, Wis., after the special session of Congress.

Mrs. Wiley became ill Wednesday near Wooster, Ohio, and was treated there by a physician. The couple continued their journey after the treatment.

Born in Wisconsin, Mrs. Wiley had been active in local congressional circles and was president in 1942 of the Seventy-sixth Club, composd of congrssional wivs whose husbands came to Washington during the Seventy-sixth Congress.

Senator Wiley, who is ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said his wife's body would be taken to their home for funeral services and burial.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Wiley is survived by one son, three daughters and six grandchildren.

W. E. Newman Funeral Rites Set Saturday

Funeral services for Wallace Edwin Newman, 67, retired produce merchant who died Wednesday at his home, 610 S. 21st st., Arlington, Va., will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Free Methodist Church, Prince and Lee sts., Alexandria, Va. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens Cemetery.

Mr. Newman had been in failing health since January, when he retired from business. The past five years he was superintendent of the Phoebe Hall Mission here.

A native of Fauquier County, he held positions at Thompson's Dairy, the Georgetown power house, and was stationary engineer at the District Building before entering the produce business some 30 years ago.

He was active in the Alexandria Free Methodist Church and the Phoebe Hall Mission here for many years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Irene Jellings Newman; four sons, Edwin Newman of Arlington; Stanley Newman of Asheville, N. C.; Selwyn Newman of Fairfax, Va., and Lynwood Newman of 1313 35th st. nw.; four daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Gaines of 3927 9th st. ne.; Mrs. Audrey McIntosh of Arlington; Mrs. Mildred Finnell of Alexandria, and Mrs. Phyllis Sheehan of Alexandria, and 13 grandchildren. Also by four brothers, George Newman of Somerville, Va.; Claude Newman, Thomas Newman and Louie Newman, all of Washington.

Mrs. Jane Stewart

Baltimore, Aug. 19 (AP). — Mrs. Jane Stewart, one of the organizers of the National League for Women's Service of California, died today at her home here of a heart attack.

Mrs. Stewart was the wife of Thomas A. Stewart, district representative of the Alexander Hamilton Institute of New York. She was born at Arcata, Humboldt County, Calif., in 1883, the daughter of Dunbar Aberell, a "Forty-niner," and Lucinda Aberell.

Virginia Road Travel Jumps 15 Pct. over '47

Richmond, Va., Aug. 19 (AP).—State highway officials are pondering anew Virginia's road problems as July traffic figures released today show another travel record set on the primary highway system.

Traffic for the State was up 15.16 per cent over July, 1947, and 33.27 per cent over July, 1941. Each of the eight highway construction districts showed increases over last year, ranging from a minimum of 3.07 per cent for the Culpeper area to a maximum of 28.06 per cent for Bristol district.

Mrs. Columbus Funeral Rites Set Saturday

Mrs. Josephine L. Columbus, 72, widow of Charles J. Columbus, former secretary of the Washington Advertising Club and of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, died Wednesday at her home, 6609 16th st. nw., after a prolonged illness.

Although bedridden for about nine years, Mrs. Columbus still maintained an active interest in the affairs of Madame Biboud's Hand Laundry, in the 1500 block of Connecticut ave. nw., which she owned.

Mr. Columbus, an official of the Ward Co., lithographers, died in 1944.

A lifelong resident of Washington, she is survived by three sons, John J. and Joseph V. Columbus of Washington and Charles A. Columbus, a civilian worker with the Army in Austria; two daughters, Miss Mary V. Columbus, Washington, and Mrs. John J. Hurley, Worcester, Mass.; two sisters, the Misses Annie M. and Helen A. Shehan, Washington, and two grandchildren.

Requiem mass will be said at the Church of the Nativity, Georgia ave. and Peabody st. nw., at 10 a. m. Saturday by her cousin, the Most Rev. Lawrence Shehan, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Woman Listed As Suicide in Bridge Jump

A certificate of suicide was issued yesterday in the death of Miss Addie May Allgeier, 53, of 1465 Columbia rd. nw., who jumped 120 feet off Calvert st. bridge st. 10:20 a. m.

Police said the woman landed on Rock Creek pkwy. Alongside the body was a handbag containing the name and address of Mrs. Ralph E. Zuber, 603 Rolling rd., Chevy Chase, identified by police as Miss Allgeier's sister.

The body was taken to the morgue, where it was identified by Mrs. Zuber's husband. Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, acting coroner, issued the certificate of suicide. He said the body was "completely broken up" from the fall.

Police said they went to the home of Miss Allgeier and found a note on the secretary providing for dispoistion of her property.

Mrs. Zuber told police that her sister, who had been an employe in the railway mail section of the Postoffice for 30 years, had been on sick leave all week. Miss Allgeier complained of pains in her chest when Mrs. Zuber and her husband visited her Wednesday night, she said.

Mrs. Katie Barbee Jones

Mrs. Katie Barbee Jones, 84, a Washington resident for 25 years and wife of James H. Jones, died yesterday at Dunn Loring, Va., following a two-week illness.

Mrs. Jones, who made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Fitzgerald of 2227 20th st. nw., was a native of Luray, Va. Her father, William Randolph Barbee, was a prominent Virginia artist and Mrs. Jones also was an artist in her own right.

Prior to living in Washington Mrs. Jones lived in Montgomery County for 14 years, where her husband farmed beyond Rockville. Her husband died in 1924.

Mrs. Jones was a member of First Baptist Church here.

In addition to Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Jones leaves two other daughters, Mrs. Mena J. Wall of Warsaw, N. C., and Mrs. Katherine Gaines of Arlington, Va. Four grandchildren also survive.

Charles A. Howard

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 19 (AP).—Funeral services will be held Saturday morning for Charles A. Howard, who died yesterday at the age of 71.

Mr. Howard was a member of the Annapolis Metropolitan Sewerage Commission. He installed much of the plumbing and steamfitting equipment at the Naval Academy.

Mrs. Lena A. Warner

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Lena A. Warner, last survivor of a little band of American doctors and nurses who discovered the cause of yellow fever, died last night. She was 79.

Mrs. Warner was the first graduate nurse in Tennessee, receiving her certificate in 1889.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Frank Leahy, who will coach the College All-Stars against the Chicago Cardinals' pro champions tomorrow night in the big Soldiers Field charity game doings, has gone far out on a limb and hopes he falls flat on his Irish face. "The Cardinals by 50 points" is the pre-game prophecy of Leahy with characteristic pessimism. Nobody believes him, Leahy doesn't even believe himself, but he says things like that before big games. The greater his disrepute as a prognosticator, the happier Leahy is.

POVICH

There is no record that Leahy ever expressed complete satisfaction with football matters. A couple of years ago after one of his great Notre Dame teams had massacred some team about 50 to 0, he could still find fault. "We were weak on extra points," he said.

But any coach in the land, college or pro, would like to swap places with Leahy tomorrow. He has 72 All-Americans to throw at the Cardinals. He's six-deep in every position, and there are no inferiority complexes these days among the collegians. They've beaten the pro champs in both of the last two years and held 'em scoreless.

ONE COACH on the scene tonight, a pro coach mind you, believes the collegians can't miss beating the Cardinals. "As I see it," he said, "it isn't a question of whether the college team is better than the Cardinals, the big question that's down for decision is whether Leahy's T-formation team is as good as his single-wing team."

Johnny Lujack is getting the first shot at quarterbacking the T-formation unit, but the fact that he has been limping a bit in recent workouts is not too disturbing. When Leahy calls on his second-string-quarterback, he'll be calling on Bobby Layne of Texas, and it will be the first time Layne ever played second string to anybody.

And when Leahy shuttles in his single-wing unit, in the important left halfback spot will be Michigan's Bob Chappius who was as great a football player last year as Lujack. After Chappius, the Cardinals will be comforted with another single-wing left halfback who the Giants believe will be the making of their ball club this year. He is, of course, the great Charley Conerly, of Mississippi.

IT'S COMMON KNOWLEDGE that neither the college coaches nor Jimmy Conzeleman of the Cardinals have trifled much with defense in preparation for this game. They expect it to be a high-scoring affair with the emphasis on passing, and they're out to get the most points. The Cardinals won't go into the game exactly empty-handed.

Not with Charley Trippi in uniform can the Cardinals' scoring threat be called an empty one. Trippi in his first season in the pro league last year, did all the things that Lujack, Layne, Chappius and Conerly are expected to do this season, but haven't done yet. And in Paul Christman the Cardinals have a passer who has already met the test of greatness in the pro league.

The game will see the farewell appearance of Marshall Goldberg in a football uniform. The old Pitt star who has been a Cardinal mainstay for a decade is retiring after this one. He's playing tomorrow only at the special request of Conzelman who feels keenly the pro's failure to score in the last two All-Star games and wants to break the collegians' streak.

This may be the last season of college domination of the game, if they do, indeed, win tomorrow. The college teams of the last three years have been mature guys, back in school after a war. In contrast to the prewar juveniles whom the pros used to beat with regularity at Chicago. "We aren't playing collegians tomorrow," says Conzelman. "We're playing grown-up men who are close to our own age."

THE MOST INTERESTED spectators among the 101,000 in the place tomorrow will be the pro league coaches who will have their binoculars glued on more than 50 of the collegians. That many are going into pro ranks, with 33 belonging to the All-America Conference.

It was in the last year's game that the Buffalo team realized what a prize it had in George Ratterman, the Notre Dame quarterback, who used to play second string to Lujack. Ratterman not only stole the show in the '47 game but went on to be a sensation with the Buffalo pros.

The greatest All-Star game surprise, however, was provided in 1936 by a comparatively little fellow who now lives in Washington. In the practice sessions he ran Jay Berwanger, Chicago U.'s All-American fullback onto the bench. In the game he was the hottest back on the field. With the New York Giants he was All-Pro. Tuffy Leemans, of GWU, of course.

Steward Wins All-Navy Golf

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 19 (AP).—Dick Lytle of Birmingham, Ala., a chief commissary steward off the U.S.S. Dixie, is the new All-Navy golf champion.

He won the title yesterday with a 72-hole total of 292

Lieut. James Kinder, U. S. N., Naval Gun Factory, from Washington, D. C., was fifth with 299.

While Nursing Injury

Eddie Joost on Lend-Lease From Hospital to Athletics

Philadelphia, Aug. 19 (AP).—Shortstop Eddie Joost, sparkplug of the pennant-hungry Athletics, is available to the A's on a lend-lease program with Graduate Hospital.

The hustling Joost, sent home from Boston yesterday with a battered right hand, can play tomorrow night against the New York Yankees but he'll have to return to the hospital immediately after the game.

Dr. I. I. Gopadze, team physician, said X-rays of the injured hand were negative and that Joost could see action if Owner-Manager Connie Mack desires to use him.

The hand still is sore although the swelling has almost completely disappeared, Dr. Gopadze reported.

"Eddie will have to come to the hospital after each game for wet dressing treatments. That should keep him in the game unless he damages the hand again," the doctor said.

Joost's injury has been described as a jammed thumb but actually the severest pain is over the corner bone at the lower left edge of the palm. It was injured originajly in St. Louis against the Browns when he slid into third base.

The bespectacled infielder laid off a week but as he readily admitted in his hospital room today, "I guess I came back too soon."

He hurt the hand again yesterday while swinging at a third strike in a game against the Red Sox.

A's Regain 2d, Thump Bosox, 10-3

Boston, Aug. 19 (AP).—Philadelphia's Athletics romped to a 10-3 victory over the Red Sox today, regaining second place in the American League's runnerup spot which the Bostonians had taken over yesterday.

Boston used five pitchers in the last three innings in a vain effort to halt the A's who drove starter and loser Joe Dobson to cover in a four-run seventh before a paid and dismayed audience of 18,846.

Dobson hasn't won a game since he gained his thirteenth triumph here July 25 a 3-0 shutout over the league-leading Cleveland Indians.

Dick Fowler, who won his twelfth for the A's was replaced in the eighth at his own request. Fowler pleaded fatigue and was replaced by left-hander Lou Brissie after Birdie Tebbetts singled.

Brissie fanned the next three batters in succession. The only one of the Sox to get on against him was Ted Williams who was brushed by a pitch in the ninth.

Pete Suder hit his fifth homer of the season for the A.'s for two tallies in the second. It was his third off Dodson.

In the seventh singles by Buddy Rosar, Elmer Valo, and Barney McCosky, Sam Chapman's long fly and a double by Ferris Fain were good for three Philadelphia runs and brought in Tex Hughson to replace Dobson.

Hank Majeski banged Tex's first pitch for the fourth run.

Boston got one run in the first on a walk to Johnny Pesky, Williams' bounding single over Fain's head and Vern Stephens' long fly.

In the first Pesky beat out a bunt, Williams walked and Stephens drove in Pesky. In the seventh, hits by Pesky and Bobby Doerr and Stan Spence's second double gave the Sox their third run.

Pirates Defeat Chicago, 2 to 1

Chicago, Aug. 19 (AP).—Truett "Rip" Sewell, long a thorn in the side of the Chicago Cubs, scattered eight hits to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory today and a sweep of the two-game series with the Chicagoans.

It was Sewell's eighth victory of the season, and his fifth against the Cubs. He allowed three walks, but two errors were made behind him.

Tuttle said the two players are John Murphy, 6-foot, 4-inch 265-pound tackle from Philadelphia, Pa., and Don Fauble, 6-foot, 195-pound halfback from Oklahoma City.

New York City Says Goodby to Babe Ruth

RUTH'S CASKET CARRIED FROM CATHEDRAL—Babe Ruth's casket is carried from St. Patrick's Cathedral between two rows of honorary pallbearers after funeral services yesterday. Rites Attract Thousands to Church, Grave

New York, Aug. 19 (AP).—New York said a last goodby to Babe Ruth today with solemn hush and tears.

It was sharply in contrast to the roaring cheers and laughter that followed him througout his lusty career—this final farewell to a home-run slugger who enters into the folk history of America.

The crowds that always followed him were still there.

Police estimated 6000 persons were in St. Patrick's Cathedral for the requiem mass. Another 75,000 stood in 5th ave. and the Rockefeller Center area surrounding the cathedral in the heart of the city. They were deathly still and many wept.

Thousands Line Route

When the mass ended at noon and the Babe was borne outside in a gentle rain and taken north on the avenue, many thousands of others lined the route.

The cortege went through the Bronx close to Yankee Stadium where Ruth smashed out many a triumphant homer and where 100,000 of his friends and worshipers streamed by his body as it lay in state Tuesday and yesterday.

Six thousand others made their way to Gates of Heaven Cemetery at Mount Pleasant, N. Y., 30 miles north of the city in the highlands of the Hudson River, for the committal services.

Sunlight alternated with scudding cloud at the brief service conducted by three priests outside the cemetery receiving vault.

When it ended after the crowd joined in the final prayer, Mrs. Claire Ruth, the widow, stood for a full minute looking at the African mahogany casket covered with a blanket of red roses and orchids which she had sent.

Then, pale and composed, she drove away. Cemetery employes carried the casket into the vault where it will rest until the family decides on final burial plans.

There was no eulogy at the cathedral mass. But Francis Cardinal Spellman, in a special

Senator Lucas Asks For Babe Ruth Stamp

Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) proposed yesterday the issuance of a Babe Ruth Commemmorative stamp.

"I am especially interested in having this well-deserved tribute paid to a great American and a great sportsman," Lucas wrote Postmaster General Donaldson.

"Since it is our custom toe mak official acknowledgement of the attainments of our National heroes, I feel that such daction should be taken in memory of the man who has now become one of America's immortals.

In Final Tribute

Silent, Patient Crowd Flouts Rain as It Did for Lou Gehrig

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Aug 19 (AP).—The Big Guy stopped traffic again today . . . stopped it just as thoroughly as he did so many times in the past when mobs of babbling, hero-worshiping humanity swirled about him, eager for a close glimpse of the great man, to touch him, to bask in the glory and romance that surrounded him.

The crowd was there, but the frenzied adulation was absent. It was a quiet, thoughtful, orderly crowd banking the streets around St. Patrick's Cathedral, standing silently, or speaking in hushed voices.

The thousands had had their opportunity to view the mortal remains of Babe Ruth as his body lay in state at Yankee Stadium.

Today their tribute was their presence in the vicinity of the vast church where services were conducted.

They just stood there, shifting their feet quietly, patiently as the minutes dragged into hours. It started to rain, at first softly, gently, as if the skies had withheld their tears as long as they could. Then copiously, as if overcome by grief.

Still the crowd stood. Umbrellas sprouted like black mushrooms, and as the raindrops fell, you recalled another sad day when the skies wept. A day up in a corner of the Bronx when, at a quiet little church, final tribute was paid another great Yankee baseball player—Lou Gehrig.

Ruth and Gehrig. Their names so closely coupled in life, and in death.

The tribute today was not so much to Babe Ruth, the ball player. It was to Babe Ruth, the human being.

Manor Park and Cook Win In Johnson School Series

The Walter Johnson School's "little world series" began yesterday despite wet underfooting which forced the games to be moved from the Ellipse to Recreation Department playgrounds.

In the 12-and-under A bracket, Manor Park went two extra innings to defeat Rosedale, 2-1, at Rosedale. Cook made only one hit, but took advantage of 18 walks to beat Thomas-Parkside, 14-5, in the 12-and-under B opener at Cook.

The latter game lasted only five innings.

The 13-14 A bracket game saw Takoma whip the Gas House Gang, 10-4, at Taft. Kelly Miller defeated Bundy, 5-2, in the 13-14 B bracket at Bundy.

The 2-out-of-3-game series in each class moves this morning to Griffith Stadium's big league confines. The schedule is:

9 a. m.—Cook vs. Thomas-Parkside; 11 a. m.—Manor Park vs. Rosedale; 1 p. m. Takoma vs. Gas House Gang; 3 p. m.—Kelly Miller vs. Bundy.

Easily the best game yesterday was the 12-and-under Manor Park-Rosedale contest. Not an error was made.

Heady playing by Bill Shepherd in the ninth inning finally paid off for Manor Park. With one out and Pitcher Sandler on third, Bill laid down a game-winning squeeze bunt.

Another sterling performance was turned in by Harold Middeton of Kelly Miller, who socked out two singles, and stole three bases to pace his team home.

Sharkey vs. Superman

Babe Sharkey will meet the Golden Superman in next Wednesday night's feature attraction at Turner's Arena.

Southern Association Umpire Banned After Street Fight

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 19 (AP). Southern Association Baseball Umpire Angelo A. Guglielmo was indefinitely suspended today following a fist fight with a radio announcer in Chattanooga last night.

Association President Charlie Hurth of New Orleans, here today, said:

"Umpire Angelo Guglielmo has been indefinitely suspended for his uncalled-for and unjustified attack on a Chattanooga radio announcer."

Hurth added that he had talked with Guglielmo by telephone and had informed him of his suspension.

Hurth's action was taken after Guglielmo and WDEF Sportscaster Tom Nobles were arrested on disorderly conduct charges last night following an exchange of blows in front of a downtown Chattanooga hotel. Their bonds were set at $50.

Guglielmo forfeited his bond when he failed to appear in court in Chattanooga today. Nobles told the court he suffered a broken rib in the fight. Charges against him were dismissed.

Chattanooga police said the fight followed an argument over remarks allegedly made by Nobles while broadcasting a recent baseball game in which Guglielmo officiated.

Guglielmo could not be reached for comment today. He was reported en route to his home at Waterbury, Conn.

Brecheen Wins His 15th; Cards Beat Reds, 4-0

St. Louis, Aug. 19 (AP).—Harry Brecheen pitched the onrushing St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 shutout victory over the Cincinnati Reds today with the aging Terry Moore providing most of the batting punch.

The triumph, Brecheen's sixth in a row and his fifteenth of the year against four defeats, left the Redbirds just two games behind the front-running Boston Braves and one game behind Brooklyn. Both Boston and Brooklyn were idle.

Moore smacked his fourth circuit blow of the season into the left-field bleachers in the fourth inning to break a scoreless deadlock.

Brecheen had seven strikeouts and delighted a crowd of 9483 by retiring the Reds in order for the first four innings without a hit. He gave up only four safeties the rest of the way.

Six-Run 4th Makes It Easy For Reynolds

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Yesterday the Nats got their usual five hits, scored their usual run and received their usual licking by the Yankees, 8-1.

This third straight defeat at the hands of the New Yorkers enabled the Griffs to regain seventh place, although this wasn't their intention.

Early Wynn, trying to win his first game since June 25, was headed in that direction until the fourth inning when the Nat defense collapsed and enabled the Yanks to salt away the game with a six-run uprising.

Although he would have probably absorbed his fourteenth whipping anyway, Wynn's teammates made the task relatively simple for him with their defensive inadequacies.

Nats' Play Sloppy

To expedite Wynn's setback and furnish Allie Reynolds with his twelfth victory, Eddie Stewart and Sherry Robertson turned easy outs into base hits and Mickey Vernon messed up a double play which would have gotten Wynn out of the inning.

This type of fielding is dangerous even against the White Sox. Against the Yankees yesterday it was plain suicide, as 4727 witnesses saw.

Leading, 1-0, entering the fourth, the Nats soon saw their thin advantage crumble. Joe DiMaggio started it by lifting to right center and getting on base with a single and Stewart and Robertson got their signals crossed and allowed the ball to fall safely.

Yogi Berra then lined to Vernon and all Mickey had to do was to hold it and step on first for a double play. But V...non juggled the ball and had to make a quick throw to second to force DiMag. Charlie Keller hoisted to Robertson for out No. 2 and then the fireworks began.

10 Yanks Bat in Inning

Phil Rizzuto doubled Berra to third. Catcher Gus Niarhos was purposely passed, but Reynolds made the strategy look silly by hitting a two-run single. George Stirnweiss got one of his three singles to score Niarhos.

Bobby Brown followed with a fly to right which Robertson misjudged into a triple and two ore runs came in. Tommy Henrich singled Brown over with the sixth run of the evening.

Ten Yankees batted in the inning when with any kind of luck Wynn should have come out of it unscored on.

To emphasize their victory, the Yanks knocked over their 7th run in the seventh and made it 8-1 in the eighth.

2 All-Star Units Battle Pro Champs Tonight Before 100,000

In Class D

Yank-Owned Hurler Wins 14th Straight

Duncan, Okla., Aug. 19 (AP).—Keep your eyes on Buddy Yount, an 18-year-old kid pitching his first season in organized baseball.

Buddy is as hot as his flaming red hair looks.

He hasn't lost a game since he turned pro—which means he has hit the jackpot for 14 straight wins in the Class D Sooner State League.

"I know I have got to lose some time," Buddy grins, "but every time I pitch I keep hoping it will be the next one—and not the one I'm in—and that keeps me going."

That philosophy has kept Buddy smoking them down the middle since 1946.

That's the year he was pulled out of the outfield of the Ada (Okla.) Junior American Legion club to pitch his first ball.

The club was in a jam with the bases loaded and no outs. Coach Wayne Vickers, impressed by the earnest youngster, signaled Buddy to the mound.

Buddy threw three warm-ups and was ready to go.

His first pitch went over and the batter swung into a triple play and Buddy went back to rightfield.

In 1947, after Vickers had carefully tutored him, Buddy had a great season on the mound.

The apple-cheeked kid with a serious look won 17 of the 18 games he tossed that year—losing only to the Junior Legion nine at Little Rock, Ark.

All of which adds up to a two-year total pitching record of 31 wins against a single loss.

Doris Hart Extended, Wins

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 19 (AP).—Top-seeded Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., was extended to three sets today to gain the semifinals in the singles division of the twenty-first annual Essex County women's tennis tournament along with Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio; Dorothy Head of Alameda, Calif., and Mrs. Helen Pedersen Rihbany of Boston.

All but Miss Hart, the tournament's odds-on favorite, won in straight sets. She lost her first set to Mrs. Betty Hilton of England, a Wightman Cup player, and then recovered to win 4—6, 6—1, 6—2.

Miss Fry, third-seeded on the American list, won the right to face Miss Hart in tomorrow's semifinals with an 8—6, 6—4 victory over Mrs. Magda Rurac of Romania, second seeded in the foreign list.

Miss Head, fourth seeded, advanced with an easy 6—1, 6—3 win over the unseeded Katharine Hubbell of Dedham, Mass., and Conway, N. H. Mrs. Rihbany, who became a finalist in this tournament last year by beating Betty Rosenquest of South Orange, N. J., eliminated the same rival today, 6—3, 6—1.

Hippenstiel, Leavens Win

Don Leavens and Capt. Robin Hippenstiel were victorious in yesterday's singles semifinals in the Federal Employees tournament at 16th and Kennedy st. nw., and will meet 2 p. m. Saturday

Leavens defeated Frank Dunham, 6—4, 6—4, in yesterday's semifinal test and Col. Andy Evans fell before Hippenteil, 6—4, 6—2.

Today the Federal workers' women's singles title will be decided at 5 p. m. between Willie Herbert and Sosie Girgosian. In addition, the men's semifinals doubles matches will be contested.

Hippenstiel and Farron meet Powel and Evans first, then Leavens and Adair play Curtis and Gifford.

Grays' Farm Hands Beat Greensboro, 1-0

The Norfolk Royals, farmhands of the Washington Homestead Grays, shut out the Greensboro, N. C., Red Wings, 1-0, last night in a Negro American Association game at Griffith Stadium.

Mario Arencibia tripled in Manager Jerry Benjamin with the game's only run in the fourth inning.

Marines Win Title; Johnson Sparkles

Quantico, Va., Aug. 19.—Two three-run homers by Second Baseman Bob Johnson led the Quantico Marines to a 9-2 victory over Paris Island today for the championship of the All-Navy Divisional Group Six.

Cards Face Single Wing, 'T' Attacks

Chicago, Aug. 19 (AP).—Football's greatest preseason spectacle pits the College All-Stars against the seasoned Chicago Cardinals tomorrow night in Soldier Field.

A crowd in excess of 100,000 is expected to fill the stadium to standing room capacity to see the talent-loaded collegians meet the champions of the National Football League in the fifteenth annual game of the series.

The All-Stars' most brilliant showpiece is Johnny Lujack, All-America quarterback from Notre Dame. But he may be overshadowed by Bob Chappuis of Michigan's undefeated team, or Charley Conerly, Mississippi's great passer who last year completed 133 pitches. Lujack will be the firing pin of the T-formation attack, which will be backed up by a single wing unit led by Conerly.

For the first time in the series, this All-Star team will operate in two offensive units; one playing the Notre Dame T-formation and the other the single wing built around the stars of Michigan's champions. The All-Stars also will field a defensive unit calculated to stop the Cardinals' racing game.

The professional champions hold the edge in the competition with seven victories, five defeats and two ties. But the young giants fresh from the schools knocked off the Chicago Bears in 1947 and the Los Angeles Rams in 1946 by identical scores, 16 to 0, and may do it for the third time. The Cardinals will be representing the National League for the first time and the pressure will be on them to break the short string of defeats.

The All-Stars, coached by Notre Dame's Frank Leahy for the second consecutive game, were favorites over the Cardinals at the start of practice three weeks ago. But injuries reduced the Stars' strength to the point where the Cardinals probably will enter the game slight favorites.

With tremendous strength, both as to passers and receivers, the All-Stars are expected to wage a furious aerial game, with Lujack, Conerly and Chappuis doing the pitching. For receivers, the All-Stars have Bob Mann and Len Ford of Michigan; Bill Swiacki, Columbia, and Tom Fears, UCLA, and Paul Cleary, University of Southern California.

The Cardinals will present one of the greatest running attacks in professional football. Coach Jimmy Conzelman's offense is based on the halves and the battering power of Pat Harder at fullback.

At passing the Cardinals will come close to matching the aerial display of the All-Stars. The National League champions have two veteran passers in Paul Christman and Ray Mallouf and an outstanding rookie in Virgil Eikenberg from Rice Institute. The Cards also have two sensational receivers in the ends, Mal Kutner and Billy Dewell.

Gramps Was Younger Than Piggott When He Won First Race

London, Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Jockey Lester Piggott didn't set any record by winning his first race yesterday at Haycock Park at the age of 12.

His grandfather, Tom Cannon, won his first race at the age of 9 and later went on to win the English Derby.

Middlecoff Fires 65 for Denver Lead

Denver, Aug. 19 (AP).—Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., who quit the dental profession to go after bigger money on the pro golf circuit, jumped out in front today in the $12,500 Denver Open.

The slender, freckle-faced young Tennessean chipped seven strokes off par for the Wellshire Municipal course as he covered the first 18-hole lap of the 72-hole tournament in 65, one stroke off the competitive record.

This gave him a one stroke lead over husky John Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., in the battle for $2150 first-place money.

Altogether 26 players broke par, although great pains were taken to toughen the trim course for the tournament. Tees were moved back to increase the yardage from 6589 to 6768 feet, the roughs were permitted to grow high and traps were enlarged.

Deadlocked for fourth place at 67 were Ky Laffoon of St. Andrews, Ill.; Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, former national college champion, and Harold Haddock of Denver, a young Wellshire amateur. Haddock was the leading amateur of the first round.

Shooting 68s Wick Monti of Santa Monica, Calif.; Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif.; F. G. Wininger of Stillwater, Okla, and Bill Nary of Phoenix, Ariz.

Otto Greiner, the unknown Navy veteran who forced Demaret into a playoff in last week's $15,000 St. Paul Open, shot 1-under-par golf but was way down the list in a tie for twentieth place.

Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich., and George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., were tied at 69. Seven players reported 70s—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex.; Ralph Blomquist of Glendale, Calif.; Fred Hawkins of Antioch, Ill.; George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah, and Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif.

Polly Riley Paces Advance In Trans-Miss.

San Mateo, Calif., Aug. 19 (U.P.).—Defending Champion Polly Riley, 1947 runner-up Margaret Gunther, medalist Dot Kielty and surprising Bettye Mims White advanced to the semifinals of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf Championship today with hard-earned quarterfinal victories.

Miss Riley disposed of veteran Dot Traung of San Francisco, 5 and 4; Miss Kielty trimmed Marlene Bauer of Long Beach, by the same score; Miss Gunther defeated Mrs. Kermit Pearson, 4-3, and Mrs. White fought off a last-ditch rally by Gracie DeMoss, Corvallis, Oreg., to win 2 and 1.

In tomorrow's 18-hole semifinals, Miss Kielty tangles with the champion, and Miss Gunther battles Mrs. White. The winners play the 36-hole final round Saturday.

Colts After Terps' Lu Gambino, Seek Rights From Browns

Sun Valley, Idaho, Aug. 19 (AP).—The Baltimore Colts are after Lu Gambino, the University of Maryland football player facing eligibility troubles in the Southern Conference.

Robert Embry, president of the All-America Conference Club, said the Colts are negotiating with the Cleveland Browns for the rights to the big halfback.

Both the Browns and the Chicago Bears of the rival National Football League drafted Gambino.

"We have contacted Paul E. Brown, general manager of the Browns," Embry reported. "He expressed willingness to work out a trade for Gambino."

"I'd sure like to have him," chimed in Head Coach Cecil Isbell.

[Last night Gambino told The Washington Post that he wants to finish his football career at Maryland and hopes "this eligibility question is all a mistake."

[The star back is also anxious to finish work on his physical education degree which he can get next June.

[Gambino admitted that Cleveland called him on Monday. "My answer was the same as it is to all pro offers—I told them I wanted to finish school first," Gambino said.

[He added, "If, however, I'm ruled ineligible and I get a really worthwhile offer from the pros, I guess I'd accept.

"I know one thing, I won't do anything without talking to Mr. Tatum. He made me what I am and I have respect for his judgment."

[Baltimore should have an inside track on the home-town boy's services. Walter Driskill, general manager of the Colts, was line coach at Maryland last year.]

Col. William Couper, president of the Southern Conference, ruled last week that Gambino, an All-Conference halfback last season, was ineligible.

Couper held that Gambino, one of the country's leading 1947 scorers, had played the three years of varsity competition allowed. Gambino was on the varsity squad at Indiana in 1942 as a freshman. Indiana had no freshman tem.

He then played for Maryland in 1946 and 1947 after three years in the Army. Both Coach Jim Tatum and President H. C. Byrd of Maryland disagreed with Couper's interpretation and said they would appeal to the conference executive board at a meeting next month.

In another ruling by Colonel Couper yesterday, Fred Hardison, Duke University end, was declared ineligible for the 1948 football season.

Dean W. H. Wannamaker, chairman of the committee on athletics of Duke, announced that the president of the Southern Conference has ruled Hardison no longer eligible for football because he already has played three years.

Hardison entered Duke in the fall of 1943 but did not participate in football. In 1944, he played on the Duke varsity and was a starting tackle in the 1945 Sugar Bowl game with Alabama. He entered the service in 1945 and returned to Duke to play in 1946 and 1947.

Colonel Couper pointed out that even though Hardison did not participate as a freshman in 1943, he nevertheless was eligible to play only three years of varsity football.

Workout Here For Fox Today

Hard-hitting Billy Fox will take his final tuneups at Liberty A. C. today and tomorrow for his 10-round bout with Johnny Colan at Griffith Stadium Monday night.

Today's public workout against four sparmates starts at 2 p. m.

Sammy Goldman, Colan's manager, sent word that his Italian-American protege won't check into Washington until Sunday. "Johnny's getting the sparring partners and facilities he needs at Stillman's," Goldman said in New York. He added, "Washington fight fans will see plenty of him Monday night."

Goldman expects his boy to upset the favored Philly puncher.

The lightweight participants in the other 10 rounder, Herbie Jones and Sonny Boy West, also will take final drills here today and tomorrow.

Silverman of D. C. Wins for Buffalo

Buffalo, Aug. 19.—Aaron Silverman of Washington, D. C., scattered nine Montreal hits as he pitched the Buffalo Bisons to a 2-1 victory over the International League leaders here tonight.

Silverman struck out five and walked only one. He also drove in the winning run with a perfect squeeze bunt in the seventh inning.

Aussies Win 2 Cup Matches

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 19 (AP).—Little Billy Sidwell, new member of the Australian Davis Cup tennis team, practically knocked Czechoslovakia out of the interzone finals by defeating its ace performer, Jaroslav Drobny, 6—3, 6—2, 9—11, 14-12, today at Longwood.

Previously Adrian Quist the Australian captain, won the opening singles match from Vladimir Cernik by 6—2, 13-11, 6—0, margins.

Drobny, rated as Europe's top courtster, was unable to control his left-handed strokes and his wildness was costly against the steady youngster from "down under."

Sidwell breezed through the first two sets and held his own until the twentieth game of the third, when he tossed away his service for the set by committing four errors.

Two matches down, the Czechs will be eliminated if they fail in tomorrow's doubles match. Quist said the Australian tandem would be Geoff Brown and Colin Long, who has been nursing a twisted ankle, against Drobny and Cernik.

'Sea Monsters' Identified as Sunfish, Turtle

Sakonnet Point, R. I., Aug. 19 (AP).—Two "monsters" were caught off this seaside town today.

Fisherman identified them as, sunfish (weight 2000 pounds); sea turtle (weight 800 pounds).

Surgery Keeps Gilmer From Sunday Game

Los Angeles, Aug. 19.—With Harry Gilmer definitely declared out of the Washington Redskins' annual intrasquad game Sunday, Tommy Mont will have to go 60 minutes at the quarterback berth for the East.

Gilmer and Mont were slated to divide the quarterback chores for the Eastern squad with Sammy Baugh and Tom Farmer calling 'em for the West.

However, the condition of Gilmer's bruised right leg was far more serious than first presumed and he will be unable to suit up.

The Alabama rookie sensation underwent minor surgery yesterday, Dr. Dan Fortmann, the old Chicago Bear guard, making two incisions in the calf of the leg to remove blood clots which had formed as the result of a broken blood vessel.

Gilmer is being administered 300,000 units of penicillin daily to prevent infection. Dr. Fortmann believes Harry will be able to return to camp "in four or five days."

Coach Turk Edwards is up against it for another quarterback to help Mont out Sunday. He just hasn't got one, so left halfback Mont, the former University of Maryland star, will see yeoman service. Mont looked very good at quarter prepping for the intrasquad game.

Mrs. Kipp, Edwards Tie at Indian Spring

Mrs. Harry H. Kipp and Mrs. Willard Edwards tied for low net honors in yesterday's ladies' golf play at Indian Spring. Mrs. Kipp had 98-23—75; Mrs. Edwards, 99-24—75.

Low putting prize was taken by Mrs. James Klopp with 31 and Mrs. Fred Trew, Columbia C. C., won the guest prize with 102-24—78.

Schroeder Is Upset by Vic Seixas

Newport, R. I., Aug. 19 (AP).—Philadelphia's Victor Seixas today startled the tennis world by eliminating the Nation's second-ranking Ted Schroeder from the challenge cup singles at Newport Casino.

Schroeder, from La Crescenta, Calif., top-seeded in this annual affair, was swept from the courts in a four set quarter-final match. Seixas thoroughly outplayed the Californian after the first set.

Seixas won by 2—6, 6—4, 8—6, 6—4 scores.

Talbert Also Winner

In the only other fifth round singles contest Bill Talbert of New York advanced over Earl Cochell of Los Angeles, 11—13, 3—6, 6—1, 6—1, 6—2.

Tennis figures here were of the opinion that Schroeder's defeat would not injure his Davis Cup chances. However, this is the third tournament in which he has not finished on top.

In today's doubles competition the first seeded Frank Parker of Los Angeles and Schroeder whipped Clarence Carter and Eddie Moylan, both of San Francisco, 6—1 and 6—4.

Seixas Doubles Victor

Seixas and Sam Match of San Francisco eliminated the last foreign pair, Enrique Morea of Argentina and Eric Sturgiss of South Africa, 8—6, 6—4.

Arnold Saul of San Diego and Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., shaded Tom Chambers and George Richards, both of Los Angeles, 6—2, 8—10, 14—12. Irvin Dorfman of New York and Tom Brown of San Francisco ousted Jack Tuero of New Orleans and Fred Kovaleski of Detroit, 7—5, 6—2.

Tomorrow's windup of the quarter finals stacks Gardnar Mulloy of Miami against Sam Match, and Harry Likas of San Francisco against Budge Patty of Los Angeles.

Miller Seeks Lanham Win

Charley Miller was so lucky on last week's Friday the thirteenth card he scored his first feature triumph of the season at West Lanham Speedway. Tonight he hopes to be able to repeat when midget racing action resumes at 8:30 p. m.

Principal opposition is expected to come from Ed (Dutch) Schaefer who's looking for a third feature win to tie Mike Joseph. Schaefer recently had a winning streak that saw him finish first in nine straight events. It finally was snapped in a feature race two weeks ago when he wound up third.

In addition to Joseph, Len Duncan and Dee Toran will be out to gain repeat victories.

Bugler-Goat Head Dead Heat Splits Double at Marlboro

First Half Won Easily By Mix Man

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Marlboro, Aug. 19.—Tight finishes were stock equipment here this afternoon. In one case, the judges and the camera were unable to separate two horses locked on the wire.

The dead heat came in the second race. The Cedar Hills Stables' Bugler stopping, and G. E. Murphy's Goat Head coming on reached the finish line as a team.

The all-even result brought a twin payoff on the daily double. R. Finn's Mix Man was the winner of the first race as a $4.20 favorite. Those who coupled Mix Man and Goat Head in the double collected $25.40, but would have taken down $54 had the 3-year-old won by himself.

Grant Rides Two

Backers of the Mix Man-Bugler combination, ridden by Jockey Patsy Grant, received $11 and would have gotten $20 had Bugler been the lone winner.

Goat Head paid 8.80 individually and Bugler returned $5.40 to win supporters.

Included in the photo finishes was the result of the Accokeek Purse, the day's feature, Mrs. D. N. Lee's Pharant took a close one from O. N. Boerner's Run Bud Run. Third money in the test of 6½ furlongs went to Richard Pending's Roziante.

Paying a $29.20 mutuel, Pharant was ridden by Jockey Freddie Kratz, the Charles Town sensation. Kratz, a former steeplechase rider, hung defeat on Jockey Sammy Palumbo although the latter put up a strong ride.

With the track off as the result of last night's rain, Pharant was clock in 1:25 2/5.

The combination of Jockey Johnny Tammaro and his horse training sister, Angela, clicked in the third race. Angela saddled Apneport, a 2-year-old maiden and the fleet filly led six other rivals to the finish line at a $6.80 mutuel.

A. S. Moore's Sun Dip was second and Mrs. Dan Chamblin's Golden Elf was third in the sprint. The winner was clocked in 1:10 1/5 for the 5½ furlongs.

New York City Says Goodby to Babe Ruth

Home-Run King Laid to Rest Amid Tears of Thousands

prayer which he composed, asked that the Divine Spirit "that inspired Babe Ruth to overcome hardships and win the crucial game of life may animate many generations of American youth."

The casket was borne into St. Patrick's between a double row of honorary pallbearers headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Mayor William O'Dwyer.

It was placed on a catafalque flanked by six tall lighted candles. The blanket of roses and orchids was taken away during the mass.

Mrs. Ruth, the Babe's two adopted daughters, Mrs. Richard Flanders and Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan, and his sister, Mrs. Wilbur Moberly, were in a pew at the head of the aisle.

The service and the slow-paced ride to the cemetery climaxed an outpouring of affection for the Babe since he died of cancer Monday night.

Honorary Pallbearers

The honorary pallbearers called to mind every facet of the home-run king's fabulous career.

There was Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, Md., where Ruth was born.

There was Brother Charles, superintendent of St. Mary's Industrial Home near Baltimore, the corrective institution where Ruth spent most of his boyhood and where he learned to play ball.

There was Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, the city in which the Babe began his big league career as a promising southpaw pitcher.

There was Ed Barrow, the retired general manager of the New York Yankees. It was Barrow who, as Boston Red Sox manager, made the decision to change Ruth to an outfielder.

There were Joe Dugan and Waite Hoyt, teammates of Ruth in the Roaring Twenties, when the Yankees became the most fearsome machine in baseball.

There was Jack Dempsey, another great figure in the golden age of sports over which the Babe towered.

Many a graying New Yorker, standing silently in the rain to watch as the Babe went on his final journey, thought back on the sports era when he was king and which is forever gone.

200 to Attend Convention of Handicapped

Some 200 delegates of the Nation's crippled and blind are scheduled to meet here today at Hotel Roosevelt at the fourth biennial convention of the American Federation of the Physically Handicapped.

The convention will continue through Sunday with the delegates pledged to further their national program of breaking down employment barriers to the physically impaired.

Today's sessions will open at 10 a. m. at the hotel at 2101 16th st. nw., with all activities except an executive session tonight open to the general public. Delegates and guests will be welcomed by H. Richard McCamant, rehabilitation officer of the United States Civil Service Commission.

Other welcoming remarks are scheduled to be made by Gunnar E. Rath, cochairman with McCamant of the convention committee, and Joseph Short, president of the National Press Club. Principal addresses of the intitial meeting are to be made by McCamant, Paul A. Strachan, president of the AFPH; Lewis G. Hines, national legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor; E. B. Whitte, executive director, National Rehabilitation Association, and Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, national president, General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The afternoon will be spent by the delegates in tours of Washington, with a "dutch treat" supper arranged for 5 p. m. Tonight, reports of executive officers and committee chairman and the election of national officers are scheduled to be held at the executive session.

AFPH is a nonprofit, beneficent and educational organization dedicated to protecting and advancing the interests of the estimated 28 million physically handicapped persons in the United States.

VFW Show Only Affair For Horsemen This Weekend

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

The Lee and Reich Post No. 9382 Veterans of Foreign Wars, horse show Sunday at Beacon Airport, Route 1, Groveton, Va., is the only one scheduled this weekend and exhibitors are welcoming the break in the overcrowded schedule.

It affords an opportunity to rest their steeds for the beginning of the top Virginia show circuit.

Keswick, Warrenton, and Farmington will occupy consecutive weekends with Class "A" American Horse Show Association three-day affairs.

The Beacon Airport affair lists 14 classes, four events for ponies, four for open jumpers, four for hunters, and a fine harness and five-gaited class for the saddle horses.

Championship and reserve awards will be made in all but the pony division. The show is scheduled to begin at 12 noon (DST). Thomas J. Trodden jr., and Col. Wayne O. Kester, both of Washington, D. C. will officiate.

Among prominent entries expected are Mrs. A. C. Randolph's Willful Tino, surprise jumper champion of last week's Manassas show, Hi Rock, Farm's sensational pair, Peter D'Oro and Trade Winds, Robert C. Lee's Bonne Fille, Mr. and Mrs. Gardener Hallman's Sen Satin and Gray Lark, and Cheerie McKee's Lady Jack.

Warner Pumphrey's Idles Boy, A. C. McDormand's Mercer's Copper King, Earl Plummer's Shadow Man, and Ray Webb's Mr. Bee are expected for the saddle-horse division.

Charles Posts $5000 Check

The scheduled Ezzard Charles-Jimmy Bivins heavyweight scrap at Griffith Stadium, September 13, came $5000 nearer becoming a realtiy yesterday.

A check for that sum, guaranteeing the appearance of Charles, was posted with the D. C. Boxing Commission by one George W. Rhein of Cincinnati, bearing the title of "manager of record" for Charles.

Everybody was happy about the "clincher," which actually would be a small loss to the Charles camp if a New York bout was offered and accepted. But the promoters, the Variety Club and Mrs. Florence Turner considered the guarantee a token of good faith in spite of the fact it was demanded by the local commission.

Rhein, a lawyer, solemnly declared Charles has recovered from the back ailment which was one of numerous reasons he was awarded two postponements. He said Charles would be here 10 days in advance of the Bivins brawl.

In a later huddle with Mrs. Turner and Matchmaker Gabe Menendez, Rhein reaffirmed Charles interest in a championship bout with the Joe Walcott-Gus Lesnevich winner here.

Okla. Golfer Wins Lefty Play

French Lick, Ind., Aug. 19 (AP).—Loddie Kempa of Stillwater, Okla., won the national left-handers golf tournament today.

Kempa, shooting two-under par golf, defeated Don Scott of Linworth, Ohio, 9 and 7, in the final slated for 36 holes. The Oklahoma A. and M. star led 5 up at the end of 18.

Clegg, Police Case Figure, Arrested On Wife's Charges

Julius Willie Clegg, 27, 1926 Rosedale st. ne., a messenger in the detail department of The Washington Post, was arrested last night on an assault warrant sworn by his wife, Mrs. Gussie Mae Clegg.

Clegg was held at the Ninth Precinct Station under $300 bond for appearance in Municipal Court today.

Clegg was the central figure in the trial of three policemen before a police trial board last January. The three were cleared of the charges of unjustifiably arresting, illegally detaining and mistreating Clegg.

D. C. Chiropodist Goes to Blinded Veterans' Meeting

Dr. William Thompson, jr., 25, who has just been licensed as a doctor of surgical chiropody, will leave Washington today for Los Angeles to represent this area at the annual convention of the Blinded Veterans' Association.

The convention, third to be held by the group, will be from September 2 to 5.

Dr. Thompson, one of 23 blinded veterans in the Washington area, was blinded by a machine-gun bullet during the Battle of the Bulge. After treatment in Army hospitals, he returned to the Temple University School of Chiropody, resumed studies interrupted by the war and recently passed his examination here. He lives at 2724 Porter st. nw.

THINK YOU MAY FIT?
Betty used to be a dept. store clerk, Sadie and Blackie are ex-Wacs, Helen and Carol were teachers, Chris had a dress shop, Bobbie is a recent high school graduate—and we all 20 make up the Classified Dept. at The Post. Talking to people, typing their ads, putting ideas to work, keeping a few records, selling, advertising—many different duties, make our jobs lively. Developing with many people by telephone really keeps you on your toes.
If you plan to stay in D. C., and are looking for full-time work with plenty of opportunity to put your initiative to work, call us, NA. 9118.

Business Career Opportunity for High School Graduate

Mary Haworth's Mail

Miserable in New Country, English Wife Now Confesses Contradictory Reluctance To Return to Britain, as Husband Wishes

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a war bride from England and have been here two years. My husband is a fine person and I love him dearly; also my child, now 18 months old.

The trouble is that I can't settle down. I cried a great deal the first months I was here, especially after receiving a letter from home, and felt so homesick I thought I'd die.

I'm beginning to realize I was very childish during the first year, but coming from a very fond family and suddenly having to do everything for myself, including having a baby, was too much to swallow at one go.

Ned's parents haven't been very friendly, due to religious bias, and I find myself always longing for my own mother, whom my husband adores, and for the rest of my family and friends.

She Can't Explain New Flux of Fears

JUST RECENTLY, after many months of bad luck and getting into much debt, Ned has suggested returning to England to live, after we've cleared ourselves, of course; and now I find myself wondering if I really want to go. Why is this?

The offer has everything to my advantage. At last Ned and I could go out together, with my mother acting as baby sitter whenever we want. I could work at my much loved profession again, add to our income and obtain many of the material things we've gone without these two years.

Oh, there are heaps of things I could look forward to; so why am I afraid to take the step? Is it because I'm afraid Ned will be as unhappy there as I've been here? I can't think of anything else, and the worry of trying to make up my mind is awful. I'd hate to do the wrong thing and mess up our lives. I'm sure I'd be happy again once I got home—but please advise. C. T.

Neurotic Anxiety Darkens Her Life

DEAR C. T.: It seems to me that basically you are the prey of an anxiety neurosis. You are suffused with "free floating" anxiety, which tends to focus on fear of responsibility since you married.

This would account for your woebegone homesick doldrums as a bride required to take an entirely new way of life in stride; for your feeling that "having to do everything for yourself," including having a baby, was too much to swallow at one go; for your constant longing to get back to mama —i. e., to the protected child status,—etc., etc.

Also it would explain your morbid reluctance to act on Ned's offer to settle in England as soon as local creditors can be appeased,—a reluctance which refers to fear that you are responsible for his suggestion, due to your dreary displeasure with all aspects of the Canadian scene, hence would be "responsible" if he became a malcontent in England and perhaps repeated his economic failure there, thus humiliating you before family and friends.

Work Out Problem On Familiar Soil

TO ACHIEVE psychological freedom from these somewhat irrational fears, you would need to understand the infantile composition of your anxiety neurosis. For instance, a childish residual of guilt feelings or inferiority feelings as regards one's social competence compared to others'; or sometimes a conditioning in extreme dependency on overly solicitous parents, are typical components of the diffuse anxiety from which you suffer.

The person thus afflicted ordinarily is incapable of thriving apart from group-support, unless and until he achieves substantial progress towards emotional maturity, with the aid of psychiatric therapy in adult years; hence I think it advisable for you to snap up Ned's offer to return to England, where you can start with feet on familiar ground to work out your central problem, namely: fear of life and distrust of self. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Wilkes Family to Hold Reunion at Picnic Sunday

Members of the Wilkes family will hold a reunion at Bedford Lake near Bedford, Va., on Sunday, August 29. Each guest will bring his own basket to an old-fashioned picnic.

The family settled near Mount Vernon in the seventeenth century, and a branch of the family later settled in Bedford. Many of the family fought in the Revolution.

How to Treat Mildewed Fabrics

I have some suitcases which became mildewed in the basement. I aired them for several hours and have washed them with ammonia and water but the odor still persists. Have you any other suggestions to offer as to how I may get rid of the smell? E. S.

There is a product on the market which can be placed on mildewed fabrics to remove odor and stop the mildew growth. It can be purchased in the housewares department of most large department stores. Or, sponging the interior of the bags with a cloth wrung out of a solution of one cup denatured alcohol to one cup of water will help to remove the odor. Follow the sponging with several days of sunning to completely kill the mildew and remove the odor.

The shelves of my electric refrigerator, which is entirely satisfactory in every other way, rust very badly, especially in this humid weather. The rust is removable easily with steel wool but quickly returns. Is there any way I can treat these shelves to prevent the constant recurrence of this condition? P. F. C.

Your refrigerator shelves rust because the finish has worn off, leaving the foundation metal exposed. This can be stopped by scouring the shelves thoroughly with steel wool to remove any remaining finish and giving them a coat of good metal paint. Of course, the shelves should be removed from the refrigerator for the refinishing job.

Do you know of a safe way to pack used fats so that I could send them through the mail to my family in England? Bacon fat accumulates so quickly and I know they would appreciate it at home. C. R. M.

The Postoffice Department tells me that fats may be sent overseas if they are placed in metal containers which have very tight-fitting covers. You could use cans in which syrup is sometimes sold, or occasionally cans for this purpose are sold at dime and variety stores. When packing, as an added precaution to prevent the cover from loosening and coming out, fasten it with Scotch tape. Use a long strip and run the tape over the cover and completely around the bottom of the can. Placing several strips of the tape around the can in this fashion would keep the lid secure. Thus prepared, the filled can should be placed in a cardboard box with excelsior or shredded paper tacked tightly around it. Tie the box shut securely with heavy twine.

Will you reprint your directions for removing grease stains from wallpaper. The stains in the house I have recently rented are large and very unsightly. H. A. G.

Make a poultice of Fuller's earth or dry cleaning powder and carbon tetrachloride. Spread the paste thickly on the stained surface and allow to dry. Brush away when thoroughly dry. If the stain is not completely removed by the first application, repeat. If the wallpaper is soiled around the stain, it would be wise to clean it with a dough-type cleaner before applying the poultice or it may leave a soiled ring.

Last year I stored my fur coat in a heavy cardboard box, first shaking moth crystals all over it and wrapping it in newspaper. It was completely successful as far as moth prevention, but a friend tells me a fur coat needs cold air in addition to keep it from drying out. Is this necessarily true? I keep the box in a cedar-lined second floor closet. I could keep it in the cellar, but that's apt to be damp. M. D.

Warm air does remove the natural oils from the fur and skin so that in time the skins are not as soft and pliable and the fur looses its sheen. Because of this, the relatively small cost of expert storage for fur coats is a wise expenditure which is repaid over the years by extending the wearing years of your coat and retaining its new appearance. As you suggest, storing your coat in the base-

Mrs. Wiley's Recipes

Wisconsin's Good Food Stems From Many Lands; Dairy Products Featured

This is the eleventh in a series of articles on regional cookery in the United States, featuring the favorite recipes and menus of congressional wives.

By Lucia Brown

SCANDINAVIANS, Germans, Poles, Swiss, Italians, Cornish, and French Canadians—all have influenced Wisconsin cookery, but not nearly so much as has the dairy cow!

Wisconsin's favorite dishes, says charming Mrs. Alexander Wiley, are generally those which feature the State's most famous food products—fine cheese, rich milk, thick cream, and golden butter.

The wife of the senior Senator from the dairy State is a native of Chippewa Falls, an old lumber town in west central Wisconsin. In the early logging days, says Mrs. Wiley, it stood among primeval forests and had the largest sawmill in the world. Today, however, it is surrounded by rich rolling farm country, is dotted by small lakes and is ideal for dairying.

"People in our part of Wisconsin are principally of Scandinavian ancestry," the Senator's wife says, "so our style of cooking is very different from that around Milwaukee, which was settled by the Germans."

Senator Wiley's forebears were Norwegian, though Mrs. Wiley is of Welsh descent. Both of them grew up in Chippewa Falls and attended grade school together. It wasn't until she was teaching school in nearby Eau Claire and he was district attorney for Chippewa County that they became particularly interested in each other. Courtship and marriage followed and they made their home in Chippewa Falls until he was elected to the Senate in 1938.

IN suggesting a menu typical of her part of Wisconsin, Mrs. Wiley selected meat loaf as her main dish. The Scandinavians are past masters at preparing meat loaf, as well as meat balls, says Mrs. Wiley. She included peas on the menu, too, as Wisconsin is one of the largest growers of this vegetable. The menu in its entirety follows:

Fruit Cup
Meat Loaf
Escalloped Potatoes Buttered Peas
Tomato and Lettuce Salad
Eggnog Pie

Mrs. Wiley's recipe for meat loaf, which she obtained from a Norwegian friend, is one that is often used for church suppers out in Wisconsin. Here it is, cut down to family size:

MEAT LOAF

1 pound veal	2 tablespoons salt
1 pound beef round	1 small onion, minced
1 pound pork	Pepper to taste
3 egg yolks	Milk to moisten

Grind the meat together, add the egg yolks and seasonings. Moisten with enough milk to make the loaf hold its shape. Form into loaf in roasting pan or skillet. Bake until brown and tender in a slow oven. Serve either plain or with tomato sauce. (Using just the yolks of the eggs in the loaf makes it more tender than if the whole egg were used, Mrs. Wiley says.)

The eggnog pie with which the suggested meal ends is easy to make and good for either winter or summer, since it is served chilled.

EGGNOG PIE

1 cup milk	1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ teaspoon nutmeg	¼ cup cold water
3 egg yolks	1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sugar	3 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt

Heat milk in double boiler and add nutmeg. Beat egg yolks, sugar, and salt together. Add to milk, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture coats the spoon. Soak gelatin in cold water, add to custard, and cool. Add flavoring and fold into stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into a crust (either a baked pie shell or graham cracker crust.) Top with whipped cream and grated chocolate. Chill well.

WISCONSIN, which is celebrating its hundredth anniversary as a State this year, produces a great variety of cheese. Besides yellow American cheddar of varying degrees of sharpness, there is mold-flecked Roquefort and blue, stout limburger and Camembert, round, red Edam cheese and many other kinds. Small cheese factories are seen at almost every country crossroad. Swiss, Italian, French, and Scandinavian settlers all contribute their knowledge of the cheese-making art.

One way Mrs. Wiley likes to use Wisconsin cheddar is in cabbage au gratin.

CABBAGE AU GRATIN

1 small head cabbage	2 tablespoons flour
½ cup American cheese	1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter	½ teaspoon salt

Cut cabbage into small pieces. Cook in salted water 8 minutes or until transparent. Drain well and place in baking dish. Make cheese sauce as follows: Blend melted butter and flour. Add milk and salt. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add grated cheese and stir until it is melted. Pour sauce over cabbage, and bake ½ hour at 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

"A GOOD family dessert" is the way Mrs. Wiley characterizes Martha Washington pie. The recipe for it was given to her by her mother. It's one dessert that's not too rich for children, and her own children and grandchildren have enjoyed it through the years.

The Wileys have a son, three daughters, and six grandchildren, most of whom live in Wisconsin. Their daughter, Betty, is director of social guidance for the high schools at La Crosse. Their son, Marshall, is a Chippewa Falls lawyer now running for district attorney, the job once held by his father. Another daughter, Rosemary, is the wife of Dr. Philip Bradley of the Harvard University

CHEESE SOUFFLE

2 tablespoons flour	½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter	1 cup grated cheddar cheese
¾ cup milk	4 eggs

Use first four ingredients to make a white sauce. Melt butter in double boiler, mix in flour, and add milk slowly. Add salt and cook until thick. Remove from fire and add grated cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add four beaten egg yolks. Let mixture cool well, then add stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in greased baking dish 55 minutes in 325 degrees oven. Serve immediately.

In Wedding Procession

Miss Margaret Eleanor O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel K. O'Connor of Takoma Park, Md., became the bride of Robert Earl Flood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Flood of Washington, in the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, August 14, the Rev. James F. King officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of heirloom satin with an off-shoulder bertha of Chantilly lace and orange blossoms. Her veil of imported illusion was held by a spray of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss Rose Ann Haky was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were the Misses Kathleen, Dorothy and Joanne O'Connor, sisters of the bride, and the bride's cousin, Miss Eileen Alexander. The Misses Kerinne O'Connor, sister of the bride, and Patricia Kent, niece of the bridegroom, were the flower girls.

Thomas Flood served as best man and the ushers were S. Bauchman, jr., Pat Imirie and Jules Flood.

Following the reception in the Chinese Room of the Mayflower Hotel, the couple left for a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains. On their return they will reside in Washington.

The bride attended Chestnut Hill College in Philadelphia and Dunbarton of Holy Cross College. Her husband attended St. John's Military Academy and La Salle College in Philadelphia. During the war he served for 30 months in the South Pacific with the Navy.

Chamblee—Erickson

Miss Susanne Fredrika Erickson and Maurice Chamblee were married in the First Presbyterian Church in Charlottesville, Va., on August 3, the Rev. John Fischbach officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric LeRoy Erickson of Chevy Chase, Md., and her husband is the son of Mr. Roscoe Chamblee of Birmingham, Ala.

Both Miss Erickson and Mr. Chamblee attended the University of Alabama.

Keller—Crowell

The Westminster Presbyterian Memorial Church, August 12, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Gilda Gray Crowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Crowell of Washington, and Gilbert Merle Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Keller of Playa del Rey, Calif., the Rev. Harry V. Porter officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk and marquisette trimmed with lace. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held by a crown of lace and bridal wreath, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Adelaide Crowell was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Paul Evans and Miss June Smith. The Misses Jean and Jane Crowell, twin sisters, were flower girls.

Sergt. Lester L. LeHigh, jr., served as best man and the ushers were John Crowell, brother of the bride, and Paul Evans.

Following the reception the couple left for a wedding trip. They will reside in California, where the bridegroom will resume his college studies.

D. C. Legion Auxiliary To Attend Convention

The District of Columbia American Legion Auxiliary is making preparations for sending a delegation to the national auxiliary convention, October 18 to 21, at Miami and Miami Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Pearl Haegerty, past department president, is to be nominated for national historian. All delegates to the convention will be invited to attend a reception in her honor at the District's convention headquarters in Miami.

The District of Columbia Department will send nine delegates and nine alternates to the convention, with Mrs. May Clark Hilleary as chairman of the delegation. Mrs. Lillian M. Judd will attend as the District's national executive committeewoman and will be automatically succeeded by Mrs. Hilleary as national executive committeewoman.

Convention preparations are being made by committees of more than 200 Florida auxiliary women, working under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Ryan of Dania, former State president and chairman of the National Convention Committee.

More than 1200 official delegates and 1200 alternates will represent the auxiliary's 950,000 members at the convention, while thousands of other auxiliary women will attend as convention guests.

Lady Rama Rau Gives Party For the Press

Lady Rama Rau, wife of the Ambassador of India, received members of the press yesterday afternoon at a small cocktail party between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock at the Indian Embassy.

The Ambassador looked in for a few minutes with their two grandchildren, Asha, a little girl who will be 4 in a few days, and Nikhil, an 18 months old boy. Asha speaks very good English, but Nikhil doesn't say much of anything yet.

They are the children of the Ambassador's daughter, Mrs. Prenila Wagle, who is expected in Washington the middle of September. Another daughter, Santha, who is a Wellesley graduate, assisted at the party yesterday. In Tokyo, where her father was stationed at one time, she acted as hostess in her mother's absence.

Lady Rama Rau has never visited in America before, and she says she is thrilled with Washington. Educated at Madras University, the Ambassadress speaks perfect English. Her home is in Bombay, and she later lived in England, where her husband served as Deputy High Commissioner of India.

Penny Inspires Gay Hats for Teen-Agers

PENNY PRINGLE, that frolicksome teen-ager who romps through The Washington Post comic strip, is the inspiration for a new line of millinery.

Now Penny, like most members of her high school crowd, has been having a hard time finding a really good bonnet. Teen-agers in a mood to cover their heads have had to snoop around in the debutante hat bars. The styles were a bit on the older side, and those price tags—jeepers!

So that's why Penny graciously consented to lend her name to this collection of little chapeaux—ones that make only a wee hole in the budget. The group includes five styles, all of which don't cover too much of the face or hair. They are lively and gay, just like Penny herself, and sprout unexpected whimsies like feathers and corkscrew gadgets.

Penny has alreay appeared in a comic strip adventure wearing the zaniest of her new millinery wardrobe and she will break out in others from time to time. Meanwhile, her fans will find the five models in the hat department at Kann's. PEGGY PRESTON.

Your Pattern for a Slim Figure

By Ida Jean Kain

No teen-age girl has to put up with being called "Fatso." This pair of before-and-after letters tells the story.

From an unhappy girl . . .

"I am only 17 and weigh 205 pounds. I have followed your diet faithfully and have lost six pounds in five days, but the going is slow and I get so discouraged. I have never been out with the boys . . . After all, who wants to take out a fat girl? Please tell me if there are any reducing pills I could take."

Never, never take anything to reduce—it might cost you your life! It would be impossible for me to overestimate the danger of reducing pills.

Slow reducing? Six pounds off in five days is right fast. I hope our teen-ager will be content during the summer to take off two and one half pounds a week, with good eating habits.

To prove it can be done . . .

"I am a junior in high school and know what a nice figure can do to help. Last June when school was out I weighed 175 pounds and was definitely a 'tub.' I thought as many others do that you had to starve to diet, but I've found that's not true. My doctor put me on a diet, and now I have a figure that is not repulsive. I tip the scales at 145 and I'm 17.

"Now, do you think I should go back to a strict diet and lose at least 10 more pounds, or keep my weight where it is between 140 and 145? I feel so much better since I have lost weight. Here are some of the exercises that have helped—dancing, skating and walking. I walk every day."

If our young heroine will just keep on with that activity-fun program and continue to eat for normal weight, she need not diet strictly. She will gradually "fine down."

Teen-agers, here's your pattern: Eat three good meals every day, have only one slice of bread with each meal, and one potato. Eat all the vegetables and whatever meat or fish or fowl are included in the meals. Have an egg or two each day and three glasses of whole milk. Give all the rich desserts to your little brother and have fresh fruit instead. Don't pour cream on fruit or sprinkle on too much sugar. Between meals, have raw carrots, fruit or a glass of milk or buttermilk—no sweets.

Whip through a stretch-twist-bend routine each day, and dance, skate and walk. Before long you can have the nicest figure of any girl in your class.

Embassy Publication

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

QUITE THE MOST interesting bit of literature floating freely through the United States mails is the U. S. S. R. Information Bulletin. It is published by the Soviet Embassy right here on 16th st. Here is a brief resume of a recent issue make-up:

Cover—Lenin "proclaiming Soviet Power," obviously in the courtyard of St. Petersburg's royal Winter Palace. Behind him a young Stalin, with Trotsky well offside. Inside cover—drawing of the "World's Tallest Building," photograph of the scale model of the projected Palace of Soviets, yet to be erected, which will "tower more than a quarter of a mile high." Articles include such pep talk as "Lenin on the Impregnability of the Soviet State," its happiest phrase being "In the sphere of international relations the Soviet Union has become the bulwark of the forces of democracy and progress, the hope and support of all progressive humanity."

This is followed by a brief story on Lenin's tomb which concludes sympathetically, "On the most important days in the life of the Soviet Union, the people come to Red Square, to the tomb of Lenin, to greet Stalin, to express their love for their departed leader and their desire to carry on his work under the leadership of Stalin."

The third number is a honey. Called "An historic Document" it tells about the "Declaration of the Rights of Toiling and Exploited People," a document penned by Lenin and supposedly Stalin (though we imagined he horned into the picture more recently) some 30 years ago . . . The Soviet government's fundamental aim, according to the declaration, is to abolish all exploitation of man by man, to put a complete end to the division of society into classes, mercilessly to crush the existence of exploiters, to establish the socialist organization of society." "Thirty years have now passed," the author continues, "and the great results of the Soviet people's heroic struggle for socialism are now in full evidence."

Stories Glamorize Soviet Culture

SCATTERED among stories glamorizing Soviet culture are a number of interesting bits on Soviet economy—the Five Year Plan, with two years completed, has been 100 per cent fulfilled, and the Soviet Currency Reform, devaluing the ruble, is, according to the author (a member of the Academy of Sciences of the U. S. R.), a great success. "Only the Soviet Union," he writes, "with its socialist system and planned economy could abolish rationing, reduce prices and introduce new full-value currency. As a result the standard of living of the Soviet people has already risen considerably."

From a fashion angle the Soviet is doing nicely, too. "Styles which have gone out of fashion or are not up to standard have been withdrawn from production and replaced by new models. During the next six months 2000 new models of dresses, suits and overcoats will be introduced." This is the New Look on really magnificent scale!

In a section called Notes on Soviet Life we learn that collective and state farms in Georgian U. S. S. R. exceeded their quota of tea leaf deliveries by 5000 tons; that the new Soviet Encyclopedia contains 66 volumes, 65,000 articles on various subjects and is one of the biggest in the world. More important, though, is the report that before the "western regions of the Ukraine were united with the Soviet Ukranian Republic (in other words slivers of Czechoslovakia, Romania, Poland grabbed during the war) practically the whole population of these regions was illiterate. Now they can read fine because around 8000 schools have been opened!

The Soviet Champions

TOUCHING is an article entitled "Following Lenin's Behests with Stalin." Excerpts of interest are "Under the invincible banner of Lenin and Stalin, the Soviet people defeated the German Fascists and Japanese imperialists. The Soviet people saved mankind from the menace of Fascist enslavement." As grand finale "The Soviet Union, child of Lenin, is the true champion of a sound, democratic peace, the trusty defender of the state sovereignty and liberty of peoples. In the present intricate international situation, the Soviet State consistently and courageously puts the Lenin-Stalin foreign policy into practice, and this policy is winning the sympathy of ever new millions of people abroad."

Novelist Gives Happy Picture

HAPPY PICTURE was Mikhail Sholokhov who has just finished another novel. It is explained that the Soviet writer is not as a rule tied by agreements with publishers. Everything is left to his honor and sense of duty. Author Sholokhov says "The Soviet writer is always at the fore in the struggle for peace and democracy. The important thing is spiritual unity, for which distance has no significance. The spiritual unity of the Soviet people is the leading theme of my new novel."

Final note is an interview by an AP reporter of Washington's own Ambassador Panyushkin. Asked if he foresaw improvement in relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, he replied with admirable clarity. "I consider desirable the improvement of relations between the Soviet Union and the USA, the more so since the peoples of both countries are equally interested in the improvement of these relations."

After reading the Information Bulletin it's incredible a middle-aged teacher should jump out a window rather than return, incredible that this material be given space in U. S. mail bags.

Mothers and Children Aided

American Women in Berlin Alleviate Suffering

Founder and chairman of the Women's Conference on International Affairs, Mrs. Helen Monfort Moodie went to Paris in September, 1947, for the assembly of the Women's World Fellowship. After the meeting she spent several months visiting hospitals, schools, factories, children's institutions and private homes in England, France, Italy and Germany.

In personal interviews with Ministers of Food, Health, Labor and Education in these countries, Mrs. Moodie gathered detailed information on the problems and plans of those governments.

By Helen Moodie

WRAPPED in a blanket in a Berlin living room, I listened intently as a group of German boys and girls asked searching questions on American problems.

Speaking excellent English, the future citizens of Berlin queried their discussion leader concerning American labor, public utilities, the theater and labor-management relations.

The regular Wednesday meeting was held under the direction of Esther Cole Franklin, a former Washington resident and active member of the American Association of University Women. Wife of Military Government's Dr. Harry Franklin, Esther gives generously of her time to the education of German youth.

We were welcomed into the pleasant home of Frau Zwick in the residential section of Berlin. The large book-lined living room was comfortably furnished but without the usual bric-a-brac which formerly cluttered the average German home. Most objects of art in the homes with families had been exchanged in the barter market for food and other living essentials.

Ranging in ages from 16 to 22 years, the youth group came from homes of German intellectuals, educators, scientists, and artists. A lump rose in my throat as tall, blond, 22-year-old Hans shook my hand. His strong features and large blue eyes brought memories of a younger son, whose Eighth Air Force plane had not returned.

THERE was a tinge of excitement in the atmosphere when the inevitable question arose as to whether the Allies would remain in Germany, if and when the Russian troops started across the borders.

The polite composure of these German boys and girls was at once discarded. Bitterness and the disillusionment so cruel to youth was apparent in the discussion that followed.

In their minds, there was little hope for peace. They had seen and heard their beloved capital, a leading cultural, industrial and banking center, with the fourth largest population in the world, reduced to a dreary skeleton city. Eighty per cent of Berlin lay in ruins.

MRS. HARRY FRANKLIN
. . . works with German youth

Their confusion on political subjects was augmented by the quarrels of their conquerors. The Allied Control Council, the four-powered group which governed German national affairs, was making a last feeble attempt to hold together. The Kommandatura, also representing the four powers, struggled to form policy-making decisions on Berlin affairs before the City Assembly.

The pending open breach of both bodies gave the final blow to their faith in the forms of socialism, democracy and totalitarianism displayed by the occupation powers.

Since German critics have defined our democracy as a "durable form of confusion," it will be interesting to observe the brand of democracy the Germans develop, especially when youth makes its contribution.

When I timidly volunteered bits of information on the United Nations, there was a polite silence. The air was thick with youthful skepticism.

Finally, a girl of 17, shrugging her shoulders, remarked that the American lady's "sweet words" about the U. N. meant nothing to the Germans, who each day feared their country would be the scene of another horrible conflict.

She added, with typical German thoroughness, that she needn't worry about it, as she was busy filling out forms for her departure to the United States, where she would live with relatives in New Jersey.

Many years will pass before the Nazi-distorted information can be erased from the minds of some of these young people and the truth of world affairs accepted in its place.

The intellectual curiosity of these youngsters, coupled with the native honesty of youth, gave promise for growth of political responsibility. Their eagerness to outline discussion topics for succeeding Wednesday nights and their gratitude to Esther Franklin were pleasant to observe.

MANY unassuming American women are working quietly on individual welfare projects. Mrs. John Crane, brilliant economist graduate of Radcliffe College and the London School of Economics, spent a year in Germany following the occupation.

Speaking good German, Joan has sustained the morale of many German women leaders in their struggles to regain democratic advances lost in the Hitler regime.

Returning to the States in 1947, Joan Crane finally succeeded in adopting for a year's education in this country 14-year-old German-born Bernhard Lubisch, son of an actively anti-Nazi father who spent years in a concentration camp.

In the woods and fields surrounding the Crane home near Alexandria, Bernhard has developed from a spindly, undernourished boy to a husky lad with a hearty American "O.K." without German accent.

Joan now hopes to arrange a program for a year's adoption and schooling of other German children by American families in the United States.

"Seeing is believing," says earnest, lovable Joan. "Children chosen by German student bodies for training in a good American home are sure-fire recipes for the growth of democracy."

Organizing the American Women's Club in Berlin for relief projects was the major contribution of Mrs. Lucius D. Clay, wife of the military governor. Dependent solely upon friends in the States for supplies, Marjorie Clay never misses an opportunity to press the cause of the destitute German women and children.

Adopted by the American Women's Club, the Children's ward of Zinnowald Hospital is an example of their efficiency. As we looked down the rows of small beds, with gay cotton covers on the blankets and cheerful pictures on the walls, it was hard to realize that this project was begun in an empty room and in a country destitute of supplies.

Over $6000 has been raised to meet the food, clothing, and medical needs of these small sufferers. Toys from American children were cherished by the occupants of the full 100 bed ward.

Despite their personal fears of kidnaping and other "incidents," the American women in Berlin are now chiefly concerned with the blockade's interruption to their charitable programs. Supplies in great demand range from food, clothing, plaster of paris, cotton and vaseline to gallons of white paint.

AT THE request of the Berlin Welfare Society, the club is now supporting 60 orphans picked up in the rubble-lined streets of the United States sector of Berlin. Children of many nationalities crowded around our car and shouted in excitement, as we drove slowly up the road to their home. Clothed, housed, and fed daily by the American Women's Club, the boys and girls of the Wannsee Kinderhof have at least a better than average chance for normal development.

Under the guidance of indefatigible Mrs. Frederick Devereux, a Community Chest drive was conducted in Berlin last December among the Americans to provide funds for the club's treasury. As a result, 50,000 bars of soap were distributed to Berlin children's institutions, day-care centers and schools in the United States sector, to meet the continual cry of the Germans for "Soap, soap, and more soap."

As Mrs. Devereux, the club's new president, said, "We are concerned with the children and their mothers. Trying to meet the daily problem of hunger and sickness in Berlin is a colossal task and we need all the help we can obtain."

The desperate situation is reflected in the serious and unusual form of tuberculosis attacking young children in Germany, causing general alarm of both German and American health authorities. In an examination of 200 school children born in 1936-37, 42 per cent showed active tuberculosis of the lungs. I was a sad witness to the quietly controlled weeping of a German mother who begged aid from a harassed school principal for her 7-year-old daughter, suffering from this dread disease.

By their deeds the American women in Berlin can refute the charges of indifference to the German suffering. Their concern for the children and youth of the city has alleviated the suffering of many German mothers and helped to break down their bitterness and resentment toward a victorious nation.

faculty, and Winifred, the youngest, is Mrs. Harold Wilde of Milwaukee.

When they come to visit at the Wiley's Westchester Apartment here or in Chippewa Falls, Mrs. Wiley likes to serve such family favorites as this one:

MARTHA WASHINGTON PIE

4 large eggs
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
½ teaspoon saleratus
2 tablespoons cold water
1½ cups sifted flour
Pinch salt

Separate eggs. Beat yolks until light. Beat in sugar, then add flour which has been sifted with other dry ingredients. Add cold water, then fold in beaten whites. Bake in two round cake tins at 325 degrees for about 25 minutes. Turn out to cool. When slightly cool, cut each round of cake into halves and put the two halves together with the following filling:

2 egg yolks
2 cups milk
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Butter the size of a walnut
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat yolks slightly in double boiler. Add 1½ cups milk, sugar, and lastly cornstarch, dissolved in ½ cup milk. Cook until thick, then add butter and vanilla.

After putting cake halves together with this filling, frost each of the two resulting "pies" with 7-minute frosting (made by a standard recipe, using the two egg whites left from the filling.) Chill well before serving.

Can you tell me how the vitamin C content in canned orange juice compares with that of fresh juice? H. L.

Canned orange juice contains approximately the same amount of vitamin C (ascorbic acid) as the fresh.

I splattered the top of a pale green cotton dress with fresh sour cherry juice. Not realizing it was stained, I had the dress washed and ironed. How can I now remove the stains J. W. G.

Since soap sets fruit stains, I'm afraid the only possible way to remove them now is to use bleach. Sponge with hydrogen peroxide and sodium perborate, using one teaspoon sodium perborate to one pint of peroxide. Rinse thoroughly. If all the stain is not removed, sprinkle the dampened stained area with powdered sodium perborate and let stand half an hour. Rinse very thoroughly. Be sure to test the effect of the bleach on the color at an inconspicuous spot before applying it to the stain.

Will you inform me where in Washington one may obtain dry mucilage or mucilage crystals which, when added to water, can be used for sticking sheets of paper together? If it cannot be obtained in this city, have you any suggestions as to where we might write for it. D. M. D.

Most hardware stores carry a dry mucilage or glue which is mixed with water and then heated before it is applied. This adhesive, however, is recommended for sticking wood together rather than paper. Rubber paper cement is recommended especially for paper because it is noncurling. Also, vegetable glue which comes in liquid form can be used satisfactorily on paper. Both can be obtained at stationary and office supply stores. One such store can be reached by calling North 1663.

Salt has corroded several spots on a silver tea tray. Is there anything I can use to remove these places or will the tray have to be electro-plated? D. M. D.

If the spots have not penetrated the silver plating on the tray, they may be successfully removed by having the tray buffed by a silver repairman. Should the spots be too deep to be removed by buffing, replating is probably the only answer. However, I would suggest you take the tray to a firm which specializes in this work and when they see it, they will be in a position to advise you. Such a firm can be found by looking under "Platers" in the yellow pages of the directory.

I have a lovely envelope-type alligator handbag. For convenience, I would like to have some handles or straps put on the bag. Can you tell me where I could have this done? D. R.

A firm that does this type of work can be reached by telephoning Executive 0961.

I am interested in making bags for silver holloware. Is there a place in Washington where tarnish-proof material may be purchased by the yard? E. F. M.

One local department store sells this material in 18x24 pieces. For more information, telephone District 5300 and ask for the housewares department.

Bobby Has No Faith in Beginner's Luck

Registered Nurse Helen F. Countiss of 1731 New Hampshire ave. nw. is the latest to encounter this old favorite:

Young Bobby, aged 5, was in the hospital to have his tonsils removed. After the doctor completed a preliminary examination and left, Bobby wanted to know "who was that?"

"He's the M. D.," replied Bobby's mother.

"What's an M. D.?" the young patient asked.

"A practicing physician," Mama explained. There was a moment of silence and then Bobby came up with the inevitable:

"Couldn't we get a regular doctor instead of one that's still practicing, Mama?"

PRINCE GEORGES COUNTY NUMBERS GAME

Here's a sidelight on a recent news story.

Martin Schleifman of 5619 1st pl. nw. was sitting at home the other evening, at peace with the world. The telephone rang; Martin answered it; and the conversation went something like this:

"Hello."

"Hello. Have you sold the bonds yet?"

"The bonds?"

"The $650,000 worth of bonds that you advertised. Are they sold yet?"

"Oh—the $650,000 worth of bonds. I think I understand, Mr. Commissioner. What number did you call?"

"Marlboro 3341."

"And you got Randolph 3341."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"I'm sorry, too. I wish I had $650,000 worth of bonds to sell. Good-night."

BY THE WAY—

It seems to be time for another reminder about how this column operates.

For obvious reasons, anonymous communications cannot be considered. But if there's a good reason for withholding your identity, we'll do so on request.

To the best of my ability, I answer letters which require answers, but never manage to catch up with all my correspondence. (Do you?)

Give-Aways must be submitted by mail. There is no charge for running them, and they usually appear within three days, as space permits.

All barbs directed at Walter Haight, women drivers, the Nats, the weatherman and my fellow radio spielers are strictly in fun, and everybody except Haight is welcome to answer in kind. Haight answers in person.

NEW KIND OF "EXTRA"

A congressional committee is investigating sharp practices in the automobile "gray market," and the resulting high prices of "used" new cars.

While they're about it, they ought to hire a couple of psychiatrists to investigate people who are willing to pay such prices.

The only thing in the world that keeps those prices so high is our willingness to pay them.

More of us ought to take our cue from the fellow who was angered by an ad offering a new convertible for $6500. He replied with a note that stated:

"I'll be glad to meet your price, provided there's a dead to a five-room house in the glove compartment."

TREASURER'S REPORT

"I've just received my orders for overseas assignment," writes Major Lyman D. Lynn of 316 14th st., Charlottesville, Va.

"I expect to continue to receive The Washington Post while abroad (after all, it's a 15-year-old habit) so I'll still be a District Liner in good standing.

"I am enclosing a small check for Children's Hospital. Keep up the good work. If there were more columns like the District Line to spread the fundamentals of charity and good will, together with a little fun and humor, perhaps it wouldn't be necessary for a lot of us to go about messing with the affairs of others."

Wherever they ship you, major, you'll be followed by the good wishes of the kids you're helping. And our thanks for streetcar tokens go also to:

Billie Donahoe, Nebraska Hall, Arlington Farms, Va.; Maurice Klitzman, U. S. Patent Office (cash); H. C. Grove, 2708 Cathedral ave. nw. (cash); Mrs. E. J. Bortniker, 2 Elmira st. se. (war stamps); J. B. Walker, 1725 17th st. nw. (more war stamps).

And we mustn't forget 9-year-old Judy Levenberg and 11-year-old Lynne Sorkin who put on a "weird, wonderful magic show" at Judy's home (2015 Key blvd., Arlington, Va.) and raised $2.60 for the hospital.

Children under 6 years old paid 3 cents for their tickets, but middle-aged spectators over that limit were soaked a whole nickel.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Six cats, nice pets." (Sligo 7399).

"Adorable kittens, 3 months old; will deliver if necessary." (Oliver 0923).

"I write at the point of a gun, so to speak. Mom and Pop say that 'Basil,' my darling little kitten, must go. Please find somebody who will love her for me." (Georgia 2731).

NEW YORK. — Lester Hano, whose family helped found Oppenheim, Collins & Co., operates the company's Philadelphia stores, At a party recently he met a young lady who asked his profession. Mr. Hano told her of his directorship in Oppenheim, Collins and of his position as head of the Philadelphia stores . . . The next day, when he arrived at his office, he noticed a smudge on one of the large store windows. He asked an employe to fix it, and was told: "No. The Window Washers Union would get after me." Mr. Hano, a man of direct action, obtained a cleaning rag, a pair of slippers worn by show-window dressers, stepped behind the large window and huffed on the smudge. Then, just as he was about to apply the cleaning rag, he peered through the window and saw—staring at him coldly—the young lady he had met at the party.

Lincoln Brownell, who is related to Herb Brownell, jr., Dewey's campaign manager, and is associated with Sulivan & Cromwell, the law firm headed by John Foster Dulles, probably will work for the New York State Democratic chairman, organizing Truman Clubs . . . The Duke of Windsor has reconsidered his refusal to continue his memoirs, which Life published. The Duke will do another lengthy instalment, and will be assisted in the writing by Noel Busch, one of Life's editors. Busch will stay with the Windsors at Cap d'Antibes . . . Senator Barkley's first campaign speech in New York will be for the Affiliated Young Democrats, September 16.

The promoters of the Zale-Cerdan middleweight championship fight next month have decided not to televise the fight. They feel that a telecast would hurt the gate. As proof, they cite their experience in the Zale-Graziano fight, when the ticket sale jumped as soon as the no telecast announcement was made . . . Tex Rickard once made a prophecy about the future of championship fights, as regards the audience of nonticket buyers. "The time will come," he predicted, "when a heavyweight championship fight will be held in a room where the only witnesses will be newspapermen and friends of the sponsor."

The first New Look Ballet will be sent abroad by the Champs Elysees Ballet of Paris. It's called "Rendezvous," with sets by Picasso and costumes designed by Christian Dior . . . Dr Kinsey's report has become a best-seller among shoplifters too. Every arrest made for shoplifting in New York's book stores last week involved the Kinsey book . . . Gertrude Lawrence is making no commitments for plays this season until producer Gilbert Miller returns from Europe in two weeks. He's bringing a French play, "Don Juan," in which he wants to star her. It's the role of a lady who outwits and defeats the legendary lover.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. Clay Used to Disputes

(While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, The Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

The reported dispute between Averell Harriman, Ambassador-at-Large for the ECA, and Gen. Lucius Clay is nothing new for the latter.

He has rowed as hotly with the Government agencies he has had to deal with as he has with the Russians.

Clay

The United States Commander in Germany is a man of unquestioned ability. He is several cuts above the usual brass hat. But he has two serious defects. Clay cannot delegate authority and has to do everything himself; and he cannot work harmoniously with equals.

As he is intensely conscientious and drives himself unsparingly, the first deficiency results in his always being staggeringly overworked and in a state of near exhaustion. During his recent Washington visit, his eyes were bloodshot and his neck so stiff he couldn't turn his head.

Clay had been summoned back for consultations of the utmost importance on the explosive Berlin crisis. His doctors pleaded with him to rest a few days before flying the ocean. But he wouldn't hear of it. In fact, he cut a night's sleep short in order to get off four hours ahead of schedule. As a result, he was half dead with pain and fatigue throughout his whirlwind stay in the Capital.

This frazzled physical state inevitably leads to snap-judgment tiffs with other executives. This is particularly the case in backing up the judgments of his subordinates. With a few exceptions, Clay's staff is not notable for high caliber. But his first reaction is always to support them right off the bat, brusk and snappy. The frequent result is another clash with Washington.

Usually, Clay cools off and his underlying good sense reasserts itself. But it's second thought, and the task of reaching a workable understanding is encumbered by ruffled tempers.

(Note—A favorite saying of the late Gen. George Patton was, "more battles are lost by tired generals than by tired troops.")

Pals

He is Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper. The former Dillon, Read banker, once a subordinate of Clay, is now his immediate superior.

The reason for their harmony is that Draper never crosses Clay. Draper still "yes, sirs" him.

Clay's office in Frankfort is a huge, baronial chamber in the one-time giant world headquarters of the notorious I. G. Farben cartel. The vast room has black marble pillars and, although Clay visits the office only about once a week, it is banked with fresh-cut flowers every day. On an imperial-sized desk stands a large, shiny brass name plate reading, "Gen. Lucius D. Clay"—apparently to remind him who he is if he should forget.

On a nearby small desk stands one photograph, the only one in the office. It is a picture of Draper with a very warm autograph to Clay.

Five thousand miles away, in the Pentagon on the Potomac, is Draper's office. It is one tenth the size of Clay's, and very simple. There is no nameplate, but there is a photograph. Also, the only one in the room.

It is a picture of Clay, with all his ribbons, and a very warm autograph to Draper.

Hidden Record

Hidden deep in the Treasury's archives is a very interesting biographical note on Secretary John Snyder.

In March, 1933, the Treasury was flooded with applications from hundreds of minor bank officials with Democratic connections for jobs as "conservators" of closed or ailing banks. One of the applications was from St. Louis, Mo.

It was signed, John Snyder, and he enclosed a snapshot of himself in the uniform of a World War I Army captain. The job he was after paid $2900 a year.

Upset Applecart

CIO chiefs have inside word that the indictment of the 12 Communist Party leaders has thrown a monkey wrench into leftists' plans to set up a national labor organization of their own.

The secret scheme was to pull certain Communist - controlled unions out of the CIO as the nucleus for a new outfit. Among these unions are the Electrical workers, the Office and Professional Workers, the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the Tobacco and Agricultural Workers.

But apparently, the conspiracy indictments raised hob with the scheme in the United States. The Communists were going to stage their labor coup soon after Henry Wallace's convention. But for the time being, at least, they have pulled in their horns.

Privately, CIO leaders are disappointed. They want the Communists to get out.

Advice

Comment by Representative Edward Hebert, rabid Dixiecrat from Louisiana: "The trouble with Harry Truman is that he takes his own advice."
